Khrushchev Warns on War in Berlin Rift

Move 2 Rosendale Streets, Flood Proposal

Hearing Is Scheduled On Feb. 24

Maps on Display At Town Clerk's

Relocation of Main Street and James Street in the village of Rosendale is included in a proposed flood control plan for the Rondout Creek there. The plan drawn by the Corps of Army Engineers, was presented to Rosendale town and village officials Tuesday.

Maps outlining proposed construction and relocations involved are in display at the town clerk's office. A public hearing will be held at the Rosendale Firehall, Main Street, Tuesday, Feb. 24 at 8 p. m.

Attending the meeting were Mayor Catherine A. O'Leary of the village of Rosendale; Town Supervisor George Mollenhauer; Herbert Kimker, president of the Rosendale Flood Board; William Curran, counselor, and Joseph Bianca.

What Plans Propose

Plans call for the construction of a levee and flood wall 4,000 feet on the left bank from the upstream bridge to a point about 600 feet below the Route 32 bridge and a flood wall and levee on the right bank extending from 1,350 feet above the Route 32 bridge to 1,500 feet below the bridge. Channel improvement for 2,400 feet below the bridge, stop-log structures, ponding areas and interior drainage work, relocation of Main and James Streets, raising of Route 32 bridge and filling of the low area below the bridge are included in the plan.

The improvement is designed to protect against recurrence of the maximum flood of record of October, 1955, with a minimum three-board of three feet along the walls and levees. On the left bank of the upstream end of the project a low earth levee 100 feet long would connect high ground with a closure structure across Main Street (Rt. 213). On the riverside of Main Street, a flood wall would run from the closure structure to the river bank and then continue along the bank for a total length of 290 feet. A flood wall is required instead of a levee because of space limitations. One building would require relocation in this area.

2,830-Foot Levee

From the end of this flood wall to Route 32 bridge, a levee would extend for a distance of about 2,830 feet. The lower 770 feet of this levee would be truncated on the landward side by a flood wall because of space limitations. Along the latter section it would also be necessary to relocate Main Street landward by 50 feet. Ten buildings at the site of this levee would have to be relocated.

Below the Route 32 bridge a levee 600 feet long would tie into high ground on the far side of the abandoned Delaware and Hudson canal on the left bank. The road to Creek Locks would have to be raised to cross the leveee at its lower end. Two buildings on the site of the levee would have to be relocated.

Flood Wall on Right

On the right bank, the plan of improvement provides for a flood wall extending 1,350 feet up stream from the Route 32 bridge. James Street would require relocation a short distance land-

Governor Plans TV Appeal for Budget

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller will take his budget fight to the people Thursday night, launching an all-out television campaign that will give the nation a chance to see how he operates under fire.

The Republican governor, faced with mounting revolt in the Legislature over his $2,041,000,000 spending plan and proposed 277 million dollar tax increase, declared Tuesday that "the time has come to go back to the people."

Plans Five Appeals

He will make at least five television appearances to appeal for support for his program, which he says is essential if New York State is to have financial stability.

The television programs include NBC's "Today," which is broadcast nationwide. The governor, mentioned prominently as a potential Republican presidential candidate, will fight for his fiscal policies before a nationwide audience Monday at 7:30 a. m.

The governor told a news conference Tuesday he was not "the least bit worried" about the effect of the budget controversy on his political future.

He repeated his stand that there was "no room for compromise" in his budget.

The proposed tax increases include a 150-million-dollar boost in income taxes.

Draws Heavy Criticism

The size of the budget and the income-tax raise have drawn heavy criticism, including some from Republicans.

Republican Assemblyman J. Eugene Goddard of East Rochester, leader of a Republican revolt against the Rockefeller plan, said it had no chance of winning Assembly approval without substantial cuts.

Shortly after announcing his television plans, Rockefeller said he would fly to Boston today for a visit with Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck, who is recuperating in Deaconess Hospital after a foot operation last week.

The governor's office said it was "a bedside visit." But it was expected that Rockefeller would try to enlist the support of the highly respected and popular speaker in the budget fight.

10-1 Against Plan

Majority Leader Joseph F. Carlino of the Assembly planned to accompany the governor.

Rockefeller told reporters that he was receiving about 3,500 letters a day on the budget and they were running 10 to 1 against his tax plans.

"I don't think the program is fully understood yet," he said. "In many people's minds the taxes

Merchants Having Washington Sale On Next Monday

A special George Washington birthday sale has been scheduled by local merchants for Monday, Feb. 23, it was announced today.

J. R. Buffington, manager of J. C. Penney, said today that the event would be a cooperative city-wide promotion with merchants coordinating their efforts to offer some good sound bargains.

Cooperating stores are expected to select one or more timely items and advertise them at or near cost.

The Freeman will carry advertising Saturday describing the various shopping opportunities in the city.

Buffington pointed out that that many stores have their new Easter merchandise, which may be of interest to the shopping public. Easter comes early this year—March 29.

Satellite Sending Back Hourly Weather Data

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's newest earth satellite streaked through space today, flashing back hourly data that may open a new era in man's ability to forecast the weather.

Jubilant scientists at National Aeronautics and Space Administration headquarters reported that weather monitoring equipment aboard the 20-inch satellite was "working perfectly."

No Faults Yet

"We haven't found a single fault yet," a NASA spokesman said.

Among other things, the basketball-size globe is designed to spot and report cloud conditions in an experiment designed eventually to help forecasters predict storms.

However, NASA officials reiterated that it probably will be two weeks before electrical signals transmitted from this satellite can be processed and findings reported.

Long Life Span Possible

By that time radio batteries which report findings of the satellite's weather eyes, a pair of photoelectric cells, are expected to have gone dead.

But the satellite itself, a 21½ pound sphere launched Tuesday from Cape Canaveral, Fla., may continue to orbit through space for at least a decade, possibly for centuries. Not until the effects of atmospheric drag can be observed and calculated will a more definite life span be known.

Triggered by radio signals from ground stations, the satellite's tiny radio transmitter flashes back weather data approximately once each hour.

DISCUSS BOOKKEEPER'S DEATH—Rensselaer County District Attorney John T. Casey (left) and special prosecutor Bernard Tompkins discuss the "suicide" death of Vincent Rowan, 37, Troy bookkeeper. Casey met Tuesday afternoon with Tompkins and said he would present a formal request for the Ulster County grand jury minutes of Rowan's testimony. Supreme Court Justice Henry Clay Greenberg was scheduled to sign a release order today. Rowan, found shot to death in his Troy home Nov. 7—the day following his appearance before the grand jury here—was a bookkeeper for the late Frank Buckley, a Troy contractor, whose name figured prominently in the Edwin W. Ashby perjury trial. Rowan's death was ruled a suicide, but Casey has reopened the investigation of his death. Buckley died in December, 1956. Ashby, Ulster County commissioner of jurors, was convicted of second degree perjury on both counts Monday evening. (Freeman photo).

To Release Minutes For Check on Rowan Death During Probe

Supreme Court Justice Henry Clay Greenberg indicated Tuesday afternoon he will direct that District Attorney John T. Casey of Rensselaer County be supplied with such portions of the Ulster County special "kickback" grand jury minutes as may pertain to the "suicide" death of Vincent Rowan of River Street, Troy.

The death of Rowan on the day following his appearance before the special grand jury here on November 6, 1958, was first declared "suicide" by Rensselaer County Coroner Anthony Matera. Later the former Frank Buckley bookkeeper's death was questioned.

District Attorney Casey has reopened the case and is making an investigation.

Calls Mentioned

Among the matters are "mysterious" telephone calls received by Rowan after each of his visits to Kingston to participate in the Ulster County "kickback" probe, as well as the fact that when found dead in his bed, Rowan clutched a pistol in his left hand. He was right handed. At the time police investigation disclosed Rowan had been shot in the right temple and that a pillow had been used to muffle the sound of the shot.

A conference was held Tuesday afternoon at the office of Special Prosecutor Bernard Tompkins when District Attorney Casey discussed the appearance of Rowan before the grand jury here.

Agreement by Tompkins

Tompkins said he would agree to an order to turn over to Casey "such portion of Rowan's testimony as concerned the Rensselaer county investigation" into Rowan's death.

Supreme Court Justice Henry Clay Greenberg later said he would sign an order and Casey indicated he would have the order prepared and submit it today.

"Any matters pertinent to the investigation District Attorney Casey is to conduct, I will make available in the interests of justice" Justice Greenberg stated.

Casey said all he wanted was "any minutes of the grand jury which may shed any light on this investigation."

Not for Public

While the grand jury minutes, concerning anything Rowan may have testified to, which will shed light on his death will be made available to District Attorney Casey those minutes will not be made public, Justice Greenberg cautioned.

During the conference between Tompkins and Casey prior to making the application to the Court for the minutes, it was divulged that Rowan had re-

GOP Leaders Intend To Renew Rent Law

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The Legislature's Republican leaders intend to renew the state rent control law without any general increase in rents, it was learned today.

Informed sources said Gov. Rockefeller had asked the leaders to hold the line on rents, especially because of the big round of tax boosts he has asked New Yorkers to shoulder.

Expires July 1

All of New York City and communities in 13 counties outside the city are still under rent control. The statute will expire July 1, unless it is renewed.

The law now permits the State Rent Commission to grant small increases if landlords can justify their need. Limited boosts also are permitted on units that become vacant.

These provisions will be retained.

However, the Legislature will reject the persistent demands of landlords for an across-the-board increase or greater "hardship" or vacancy boosts.

Hearing Set Thursday

The rent issue will be aired Thursday at the bi-annual public hearing of the Temporary State Commission on Rents and Rental conditions, headed by Assembly Majority Leader Joseph F. Carlino.

In recent years, the commission's hearing have been marked by raucus battles between groups of landlords and tenants.

Rockefeller has called for renewal of rent control "wherever housing shortages persist." He has specified only New York City. And he has asked the Legislature to close certain loopholes in the law.

It was understood that, in areas outside New York City, Rockefeller will accept the Legislature's recommendations on renewal of rent curbs.

Carlino said his commission, in drafting its legislation would be guided by the views of state legislators from these areas.

He indicated the commission probably would recommend a straight renewal of the law passed in 1957. It provided for decontrol of units, as they became vacant, in the counties outisde New York unless local governing bodies voted to retain controls.

Besides New York City, communities in these counties are still under control:

Albany, Clinton, Erie, Jefferson, Monroe, Nassau, Oneida, Onondaga, Rensselaer, St. Lawrence, Schenectady, Suffolk and Westchester.

West Silent About Handling Threats

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev warned the West today that any attempt to use force to reach West Berlin by land or air means war with the Soviet Union.

"No encroachments against East German territory, in the center of which Berlin is situated, can be tolerated—either by land, water or air," Khrushchev declared in a speech at Tula, an industrial center 120 miles south of Moscow.

Khrushchev said some Western statesmen "try to frighten us by saying if we prevent them reaching West Berlin, they would begin to shoot."

"But to everybody it is evident that if they begin to shoot, this will mean the beginning of war," the Soviet premier declared.

The speech, given Tuesday, was made public today by the Soviet news agency Tass.

Silent On Action

The Western powers have proposed a Big Four foreign ministers parley on Germany this spring but have not said what action they would take if the Soviets carry out their threat to give East Germany control of Allied supply routes to their West Berlin garrisons.

There have been reports armed convoys or an airlift have been proposed to defy the East Germans, who already control civilian traffic to and from Berlin. The Western allies contend control of their military traffic is a Soviet occupation responsibility which the Soviets cannot transfer to the East German Communists without approval of the other three occupation powers. The Allies refuse to deal with the East German regime, which they do not recognize as a legitimate government.

Khrushchev indicated the Soviet Union would bulwark transfer of its occupation powers to the East German government by signing a World War II peace treaty with the Communist German regime.

The Soviet bloc he said, is prepared to sign a peace treaty with both West and East Germany—"or with one of them." If the Soviet Union signs such a treaty with East Germany, he continued, that nation "will acquire all the rights and obligations of a sovereign state."

To Rebuff Any Attempt

"Any violation of East German sovereignty will be resolutely rebuffed, irrespective of whether this violation will be on water, on land or in the air," Khrushchev warned.

Khrushchev hailed as "worthy of attention" a call by Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) for direct unity talks between the East and West German governments and for a central European zone free of nuclear weapons.

Mansfield told the Senate last week that West Germany should abandon its opposition to dealing directly with the East Germans on the unity issue.

Any Berlin Shooting Will Be Soviets: Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said emphatically today that if there is any shooting over West Berlin it will be started by the Soviet Union—and not by the Western Allies.

The President told a news conference the Allies have no intention of taking the first step in a shooting war.

Comments On Khrushy

He was commenting on an assertion by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev that any attempt by the Western Allies to shoot their way to West Berlin would mean war.

Eisenhower said Krushchev must have been talking about shooting by Communist forces to stop the Western Allies from doing their duty.

The President was alluding to pledges by the Allies to maintain their rights of communication with West Berlin.

Eisenhower underscored his position by setting forth his view twice during the 30-minute news conference.

But, the President went on, the idea of Dulles being willing to resign is no new thing. Since the

Music Festival Is Leaving Ellenville

TUXEDO, N. Y. (AP) — The Empire State Music Festival will open here this summer.

The festival has been at Ellenville, since it began in 1955, but lost money every year. The promoters hope that the new location, only 30 miles from New York City, will draw profitable crowds.

The festival will locate on a tract owned by the Sterling Forest Corp., the promoters announced Tuesday.

Lions Told $3,000 Pledged For Handicapped Workshop

Former Mayor William F. Edelmuth, a member of the board of directors of Gateways Industries, Inc., spoke to the Kingston Lions Club Tuesday on the work of the organization in assisting handicapped persons to make a living in private industry.

Edelmuth said it is planned to open a workshop in the Kingston area for the purpose of training handicapped persons for employment in private industry.

He told the Lions that the organization needs $10,000 to open the area workshop, of which $3,000 has already been pledged. The board of directors of the Lions Club has already taken positive action to assist Gateways Industries, Inc., in its training enterprise.

Once organized, Edelmuth explained the state will pay half the salary expenses.

Some workshops for handicapped persons employ them in the workshops, he said. There is one in Poughkeepsie. However, the Kingston workshop would be only for training purposes. There are a number of Gateways workshops throughout the United States.

He said there is no limit to the handicap of persons who will be offered training.

They will be equipped to work in jobs in which no great strength is required.

Warren Smith spoke to new members of the club, pointing out how they could become a close working part of the club. He reviewed the organizational structure of Lions International, pointing out that the key to its success lies with the club's administrative officers.

Donald Briggs, chairman of the Lions Exposition, reported that there would be a meeting of the committee at 7:30 p. m. today at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Collections Will Be Almost 20 Times More in State Taxes Than 40 Years Ago

By ROBERT T. GRAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The New York State income tax turns 40 this year and is celebrating its birthday at a noisy, brawling party.

Gov. Rockefeller touched off the anniversary clamor with his plan to make massive changes in the tax and boost collections by 150 million dollars a year.

Democrats, organized labor and taxpayer groups are in full cry against the plan. The governor himself says "no compromise."

Whatever the political outcome of the controversy, one thing is virtually certain: The state income tax, which has weathered depressions, recessions, court fights and frontal assaults, will emerge bigger and more entrenched.

Collections this year will be nearly 20 times greater than the amount collected in the first year of the levy.

Income taxes paid the state have increased five times over since the end of World War II and have more than doubled in the past decade.

The present basic rates were set in 1933 and have remained officially unchanged but nevertheless tax increases have been imposed.

A wartime credit of 50 per cent has been wiped out in the past 14 years. This was equal to a 100 per cent increase in rates in that time.

Gov. Rockefeller proposes no change in the present basic rates but plans to increase individual payments an average 23 per cent by adding new brackets for higher incomes, and by cutting exemptions in all brackets.

The proposal to cut the exemptions has produced the most heated wrangling of the tax debate.

The current controversy over plans for tax increases is another in a series that began with the birth of the tax in 1919.

On May 14 of that year, Alfred E. Smith, then governor, signed a bill that declared:

"A tax is hereby imposed upon every resident of the state, which tax shall be paid annually upon

Informed sources said Gov. Rockefeller had asked the leaders to hold the line on rents, especially because of the big round of tax boosts he has asked New Yorkers to shoulder.

Expires July 1

All of New York City and communities in 13 counties outside the city are still under rent control. The statute will expire July 1, unless it is renewed.

The law now permits the State Rent Commission to grant small increases if landlords can justify their need. Limited boosts also are permitted on units that become vacant.

These provisions will be retained.

However, the Legislature will reject the persistent demands of landlords for an across-the-board increase or greater "hardship" or vacancy boosts.

Hearing Set Thursday

The rent issue will be aired Thursday at the bi-annual public hearing of the Temporary State Commission on Rents and Rental conditions, headed by Assembly Majority Leader Joseph F. Carlino.

In recent years, the commission's hearing have been marked by raucus battles between groups of landlords and tenants.

Rockefeller has called for renewal of rent control "wherever housing shortages persist." He has specified only New York City. And he has asked the Legislature to close certain loopholes in the law.

It was understood that, in areas outside New York City, Rockefeller will accept the Legislature's recommendations on renewal of rent curbs.

Carlino said his commission, in drafting its legislation would be guided by the views of state legislators from these areas.

He indicated the commission probably would recommend a straight renewal of the law passed in 1957. It provided for decontrol of units, as they became vacant, in the counties outisde New York unless local governing bodies voted to retain controls.

Besides New York City, communities in these counties are still under control:

Albany, Clinton, Erie, Jefferson, Monroe, Nassau, Oneida, Onondaga, Rensselaer, St. Lawrence, Schenectady, Suffolk and Westchester.

Any Means Opposed As Access

West Silent About Handling Threats

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev warned the West today that any attempt to use force to reach West Berlin by land or air means war with the Soviet Union.

"No encroachments against East German territory, in the center of which Berlin is situated, can be tolerated—either by land, water or air," Khrushchev declared in a speech at Tula, an industrial center 120 miles south of Moscow.

Khrushchev said some Western statesmen "try to frighten us by saying if we prevent them reaching West Berlin, they would begin to shoot."

"But to everybody it is evident that if they begin to shoot, this will mean the beginning of war," the Soviet premier declared.

The speech, given Tuesday, was made public today by the Soviet news agency Tass.

Silent On Action

The Western powers have proposed a Big Four foreign ministers parley on Germany this spring but have not said what action they would take if the Soviets carry out their threat to give East Germany control of Allied supply routes to their West Berlin garrisons.

There have been reports armed convoys or an airlift have been proposed to defy the East Germans, who already control civilian traffic to and from Berlin. The Western allies contend control of their military traffic is a Soviet occupation responsibility which the Soviets cannot transfer to the East German Communists without approval of the other three occupation powers. The Allies refuse to deal with the East German regime, which they do not recognize as a legitimate government.

Khrushchev indicated the Soviet Union would bulwark transfer of its occupation powers to the East German government by signing a World War II peace treaty with the Communist German regime.

The Soviet bloc he said, is prepared to sign a peace treaty with both West and East Germany—"or with one of them." If the Soviet Union signs such a treaty with East Germany, he continued, that nation "will acquire all the rights and obligations of a sovereign state."

To Rebuff Any Attempt

"Any violation of East German sovereignty will be resolutely rebuffed, irrespective of whether this violation will be on water, on land or in the air," Khrushchev warned.

Khrushchev hailed as "worthy of attention" a call by Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) for direct unity talks between the East and West German governments and for a central European zone free of nuclear weapons.

Mansfield told the Senate last week that West Germany should abandon its opposition to dealing directly with the East Germans on the unity issue.

Any Berlin Shooting Will Be Soviets: Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said emphatically today that if there is any shooting over West Berlin it will be started by the Soviet Union—and not by the Western Allies.

The President told a news conference the Allies have no intention of taking the first step in a shooting war.

Comments On Khrushy

He was commenting on an assertion by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev that any attempt by the Western Allies to shoot their way to West Berlin would mean war.

Eisenhower said Krushchev must have been talking about shooting by Communist forces to stop the Western Allies from doing their duty.

The President was alluding to pledges by the Allies to maintain their rights of communication with West Berlin.

Eisenhower underscored his position by setting forth his view twice during the 30-minute news conference.

Wants Dulles to Stay

DULLES—He wants John Foster Dulles to continue as secretary of state as long as Dulles believes he is in shape to carry on.

Eisenhower said he has discussed with no one the possibility of replacing Dulles in the Cabinet.

As for reports that Dulles tried to resign after learning he has cancer again, Eisenhower said Dulles never has made any specific statement to him about stepping aside in connection with this latest illness.

But, the President went on, the idea of Dulles being willing to resign is no new thing. Since the

Music Festival Is Leaving Ellenville

TUXEDO, N. Y. (AP) — The Empire State Music Festival will open here this summer.

The festival has been at Ellenville, since it began in 1955, but lost money every year. The promoters hope that the new location, only 30 miles from New York City, will draw profitable crowds.

The festival will locate on a tract owned by the Sterling Forest Corp., the promoters announced Tuesday.

Collections Will Be Almost 20 Times More in State Taxes Than 40 Years Ago

By ROBERT T. GRAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The New York State income tax turns 40 this year and is celebrating its birthday at a noisy, brawling party.

Gov. Rockefeller touched off the anniversary clamor with his plan to make massive changes in the tax and boost collections by 150 million dollars a year.

Democrats, organized labor and taxpayer groups are in full cry against the plan. The governor himself says "no compromise."

Whatever the political outcome of the controversy, one thing is virtually certain: The state income tax, which has weathered depressions, recessions, court fights and frontal assaults, will emerge bigger and more entrenched.

Collections this year will be nearly 20 times greater than the amount collected in the first year of the levy.

Income taxes paid the state have increased five times over since the end of World War II and have more than doubled in the past decade.

The present basic rates were set in 1933 and have remained officially unchanged but nevertheless tax increases have been imposed.

A wartime credit of 50 per cent has been wiped out in the past 14 years. This was equal to a 100 per cent increase in rates in that time.

Gov. Rockefeller proposes no change in the present basic rates but plans to increase individual payments an average 23 per cent by adding new brackets for higher incomes, and by cutting exemptions in all brackets.

The proposal to cut the exemptions has produced the most heated wrangling of the tax debate.

The current controversy over plans for tax increases is another in a series that began with the birth of the tax in 1919.

On May 14 of that year, Alfred E. Smith, then governor, signed a bill that declared:

"A tax is hereby imposed upon every resident of the state, which tax shall be paid annually upon

Parent Might Look to Self For Cause of Tattling Child

Lynn didn't rush into the kitchen with her complaint. Instead, she came hesitatingly, waiting for a moment at the table to watch her mother peeling apples before she said whiningly, "Bobby's got the TV cartoons on again and won't let me look at the movie."

"Tattling on Bobby again?" her mother asked. "How do you expect him to be nice to you when you carry tales about him all the time?"

She spoke with the irritation many of us feel toward the tattletale child.

Our irritation is natural. It is not easy to feel affectionate respect for the tattletale's fear of making open demands. But as we are apt to be the people who have induced this fear in him, our irritation—though natural—is unreasonable.

What Lynn wanted to say to her mother was, "Make Bobby give me my turn at choosing a TV program."

Why didn't she say it?

Well, Lynn's mother dislikes the inconvenience of friction between her children. When, as a younger sister, Lynn used to make open, vigorous protests against Bobby's habit of snatching her books, crayons and doll house furniture, her mother evaded these demands, for support of her rights.

To avoid the roars that Bobby would emit if required to restore his sister's property, she'd find excuses to permit him to keep it. She'd say, "If you just leave him alone, he'll give you back your doll house lamp. If you didn't let him rile you so, he'd stop teasing you. Why can't you remember that Bobby is three years younger than you are?"

So Lynn lost confidence in the straightforward demands that got her disapproval instead of support. Now when Bobby infringes on her rights, she's reduced to concealing them in the complaints we call "tattling."

Certainly the tattling child is unattractive. But I don't know what we expect him to do with his fear of open demands.

Perhaps we want to turn him into a total Milquetoast, accepting everything, protesting nothing. Surely our condemnation of him tattling suggests that's what we want to do. It's another indication of our old disinterest in his rights to justice. We want no protest at all.

HOW IT IS DONE

Since the time F.D.R. tried to sell Stalin to us as a "peace-loving democrat," it has been plain to the F.B.I. and other patriots in our Government that the Reds have been stealing our national defense secrets.

MR. HUTTON

That they are still doing so is not only possible, but probable. The extreme tenderness of Earl Warren's Supreme Court toward alleged and proven spies has kept a door open to them.

Now comes a report from the House Committee on Un-American Activities about the persons employed by us, and by Communist governments, in various Embassies, the United Nations, etc.

Attached to the Russian Embassy in Washington are 185 adult Soviet citizens. Not one American citizen is employed by them.

Compare this with our Embassy in Moscow. We employ 90 Soviet citizens. Every one of them is cleared for work for our Government BY THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT through its MVD (secret police). All of them have the assignment to turn over to the Soviet secret police every bit of information of possible use to our opponents in the "cold war!"

The Commies don't make the distinction which our Supreme Court makes between what they call sensitive and non-sensitive jobs. They think a janitor or garbage collector might overhear a conversation of importance!

Similar situations prevail in the Russian and American delegations to the U. N., and in all our Embassies to other Soviet captive countries.

Meantime, Uncle slumbers on.

Marbletown P-TF Has Spelling Bee

A spelling bee was held recently by Marbletown Elementary School P-TF Club of Rondout Valley Central School.

The following students participated: Frank Stella, Rose Ann Redmond, Jean Hasenflue, Carol Appelt, Georgeann Baur, Nancy Pratt, Judith Miller, William Brooks, Carla Confer, Arnold Smith, Gordon Switz, William Judd, Lawrence Lohman, Lawrence Cornish, Lawrence Sicheri, Judy Brooks.

Eight parents later challenged eight student winners with no spelling mistakes. The parent team consisted of Mrs. Marguerite Derringer, Mrs. Victor Stella, Mrs. William Brooks, Mrs. Herman Miller, Mrs. Nancy Rudolf, DeWitt Hasbrouck, John Basten and Harry Cornish. The student team won this spelldown four to two.

The attendance banner was won by Natalie Jensen's sixth grade. The new Rondout Valley Central School Council by-laws were read and approved. Present members and alternates to the council include Mrs. DeWitt Hasbrouck, present P-TF Club president; Mrs. James Dunbar, Mrs. George Bushnell, Mrs. Clarence Winchell, Mrs. Frank Lynch, Mrs. Louis Crepet, Mrs. Josephine Lawrence and Robert Fuhr.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held on the fourth Wednesday of the month, Feb. 25. Russell Van Regenmortel of the Rondout Valley Central School Guidance Department, will be the guest speaker.

Lomontville

LOMONTVILLE—Theodore Hunt, airman third class, has completed his basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas, and is spending his leave at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lansing Hunt, before leaving for Syracuse University.

Word has been received here that Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dunbar who were injured in a one car skidding accident in Harrisburg, Va., on their way to Texas, have arrived at Gatesville, Texas. They are recuperating at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Bailey. Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar will not go on to California as formerly planned but will return to Lomontville in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Worden are announcing the birth of a daughter, Debbie Viola.

REVOLT IN HONDURAS—Reports of rebellion against the government of President Ramon Villeda Morales are coming from Honduras in Central America. A clandestine rebel radio, presumably in northern Nicaragua, has been broadcasting that the rebels will take first "the mountains, then the valleys, then the capital (Tegucigalpa)." Sporadic fighting was reported from the cities of Santa Rosa, Olanchito, Saba and Choluteca.

Health for All

Fashions for Health

We attended an unusual fashion show the other day, one that set us thinking about the importance of clothes to our mental and physical well-being.

The show was held at the Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation of New York University Medical Center. The clothes were especially designed for the physically handicapped, but there was nothing depressing about them. Quite the contrary. They were stylish as well as practical. The models showed suits for men and women, slacks, blouses, dresses, dinner skirts, gloves, vests, shoes, and ties. A chic gray coat dress, for example, was designed to look graceful even though the wearer used a crutch. One man's suit had a trouseer leg seam zipper for easy access to braces.

Imagine the lift it must give to a handicapped person to feel that he not only can manage the intricate process of dressing without being completely dependent on someone else but also looks well. Experts in rehabilitation know that this will have a good effect on the health and spirits of the handicapped. It's true for all of us. When we look better, we feel better.

How do you look right now? Dissatisfied with the picture? So many women wait till they're going to a party to pull themselves together. Even in the midst of your day's work, your hair can be neat and your lipstick on straight. You can straighten your shoulders and hold up your head. Your working clothes can be an attractive color that makes you feel good.

Incidently, a friend of ours never wears brown, even though it suits her coloring. She says it makes her feel dull and tired. She's wise. Clothes may not make the man (or woman), but they can have a profound effect on how he feels.

Scouts to Hold Merit Badge Show Saturday, Feb. 21

Saturday, Feb. 21, will mark the date of the annual merit badge exposition of the Kingston District, Rip Van Winkle Council Boy Scouts of America, at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium on Broadway at Hoffman Street.

The public is invited to attend this exposition, beginning at 1 p. m. thru 5 p. m., and 7 p. m. thru 9 p. m. at the auditorium. There is no admission charge.

Each year the Kingston District holds this exposition to exhibit merit badge activities and to explain how merit badges place in the overall scouting program. Some of the merit badge displays will include astronomy, woodworking, railroading, pioneering, and citizenship.

Additional exhibits of firemanship, conservation, and marksmanship will be presented thru the cooperation of the Uniformed Firemen's Association, State Conservation Department, and the Kingston Rifle and Pistol Club.

The evening program will include a "fun session" when many unusual and hilarious types of games will be displayed, according to a scouting offilcial.

The entire program, both afternoon and evening, is open to the public.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — With the first quarter of 1959 at the half way mark many businessmen are taking a more cautious look at the economy today than a few months back.

Recovery in the durable goods industries has been slower than some first hoped. Output here still lags some 5 per cent behind its prerecession pace.

Caution on Jobs

Bad weather and some crippling strikes have played a part in holding output back.

Unemployment stays subbornly high.

Here, too, caution is seen by some as playing a big role. Factory managements have lengthened work weeks rather than take on new workers.

This can be traced in part to caution in adding workers to payrolls subject to a host of fringe benefits.

But if business tends to proceed cautiously now, few industrialists are out and out pessimists. On the contrary, most look for gradually improving business during the first half of 1959 and see a good chance of a marked turnup in activity either at the end of this year or at the start of a new one.

For one thing, they count on consumers going on spending freely.

Steel Mills Profiting

For another, businessmen look to business itself to increase its own spending. Part of this has already started, in the case of inventories, on the rise again after months of trimming.

Steel mills in particular are profiting. Much of their increased output is being consumed.

Business spending for new plants and equipment seems less likely to rise soon.

But if durable goods industries are reviving at a dignified pace, nondurable goods and the services go right along commanding more of the consumers' dollars.

Output of soft goods, such as clothing and foods, has climbed to a new high, or 137 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

Each year families spend more for services, whether its for medical bills or transportation or the repair of household gadgets.

Construction continues to be a bright star of the recovery. New homes are being started in near record volume.

Most of all this adds up to a pleasant picture. It's just that the ardor with which some were predicting a new boom starting this spring is tending to change to caution.

Savings, Loans Groups Reach $3,450,255,472

Savings in New York State's 233 savings and loan associations continued to climb steadily in January, reaching a record $3,450,255,472 at the end of the month. They rose $14,324,663 in that period, as compared with $9,352,944 in January, 1958 — an increase of 53.2 per cent.

For the 12 months ended January 31, the Saving's Association League of New York State advises, the rise in net savings was $348,121,176. This represents a rate of gain of 11.2 per cent, compared with 9.9 per cent in the comparable period of 1957-58. The increase was $67,583,039 higher than the one in the 12 months ended January 31, 1958.

"New savings in these thrift and home financing institutions during January amounted to $174,254,470," said David Ford, president of the league. "This inflow was 15.9 per cent larger than in the same month a year ago. January withdrawals amounted to $159,930,077, an increase of 13.5 per cent."

Kingston Group Of Young Adults Plans Activities

The Young Adults Club of Kingston is planning numerous recreational activities for its members and for unmarried non-members in the community who are over 18 years of age, it was announced today.

This evening the group will have one of its regular dances at the Capri, Port Ewen. Group singing will start the party at 8:30. The Three Knights will provide the music.

A squpare dance is scheduled for the following Wednesday evening, Feb. 25, at The Barn, near the Thruway interchange. Preliminary dance instructions will be given shortly before 9 o'clock. Floyd Barringer will call the dances.

A bus trip is offered for Sunday, March 1, to see the religious passion play, Oberammergau, at Union City, N. J. Those interested who cannot sign up tonight can write to the Young Adults Club, CPO Box 395, Kingston, or call one of the officers, Frank Hackenberg or William Sechrengost. The bus will leave Kingston 12 noon for the 2:30 performance.

Wednesday, March 4, the biweekly dance will be held at The Barn.

A weekend excursion to Eastover Resort near Lenox, Mass. is planned for April 17. Reservations must be made with Kenneth Kennedy.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 18, 1959

BROTHERHOOD WEEK

The purpose of Brotherhood Week, which now is being observed throughout the nation, is to give people an opportunity to re-dedicate themselves as individuals to the ideals of respect for people and human rights. It is essentially a campaign against prejudices and bigotries that disfigure and distort religious, business, social and political relations.

Brotherhood is a basic tenet of democracy, set forth in the self-evident truths of the Declaration of Independence "that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights."

True Brotherhood demands that we protest vigorously when injustices are permitted and that we fight against all forces and influences that foster or encourage class, racial or religious distinctions.

One week is far too brief to achieve the whole of the aims of those who are working for brotherhood among all Americans. And those engaged in the work are aware of this. But they hope, by fixing attention for even so short a period upon the importance of brotherhood, to get closer to it at least in some measure.

AN UNFLAGGING SPIRIT

It is interesting to note that as Secretary of State Dulles enters upon another physical ordeal, one of too long a series, his prestige among some of America's foreign friends is higher than it perhaps has ever been.

His recent labors on his European tour, aimed at developing a united front between Britain, West Germany, France and the United States on the Berlin and general German question, have helped to persuade Western leaders of his solid devotion to their cause.

Dulles often has been the butt of criticism from our allies, and it is hardly fair to say he is their favorite secretary of state.

Nevertheless there has been a slowly growing appreciation of his dogged, Spartan efforts for peace. And it is further recognized that he is not only his own secretary of state but is the fount of American foreign policy.

No replacement, however talented and wise, could likely fill his shoes at this important turn in East-West history. Not only Americans, but Britishers, Frenchmen and Germans hope for Dulles' swift recovery.

TIME TO SPEAK OUT

Regardless of political parties and all the methods used to gain votes, citizens must continue to work and eat, and industry must produce if jobs are to be provided and our government remain solvent.

It takes more than political slogans to maintain a nation. They mean nothing unless the principles behind constitutional government and a free enterprise are upheld.

Business and industry are awakening to the fact that they must tell their story as persistently and as emphatically as all the agencies that prey upon them if they are to help counteract the forces, both in and out of government, that would scuttle them for political gain.

It is not a question of seeking an advantage for any company but of perpetuating a system of opportunity for all.

CATALOGUE DREAMS

The time to look at garden catalogues is just after a snowfall. It should be done, by preference, near a window overlooking the prospective scene of gardening activity. The bright abundance in the mind's eye can easily be superimposed upon the scene outside.

At first the cold, black and white landscape will defy all attempts to infuse it with color and warmth. But then, gradually, a miracle will take place—a miracle no less because it occurs in the mind. Flowers as brilliant as those in the catalogue will form ranks at the unseen but well remembered line where the lawn ends. Neat rows of lettuce, carrots, radishes will transform the white rectangle set aside for vegetables. The stark tree shapes will be softened with bloom and leaf.

The pleasant thing about this kind of dreaming is that when reality comes it is often better than the dream.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE BIG SHOT

One often hears of the fellow behind the fellow who made the great man great, who thinks his thoughts, who directs his actions, who got him where he is today. It must occur to many to ask, why if he could do so much for another fellow, he cant do anything for himself? There is the run-down-at-the-heel speech-writer who pens the great thoughts of the great man; and yet when asked to say a few words, this press agent flutters and splutters and ends with some bar-room joke to get a laugh.

In business circles, this is particularly current. "Who is he? Why he just had all the luck. I came in and straightened out all the mistakes he made on the way up. Sure he's got the dough, but that's luck." They used to say about Edison that he swiped other men's work, but the "other men" did not step forward to make the claim.

I suppose it is human nature for some who know a man who knows a man to say that he can stick a line of type in somebody's work or slant a position or who, after something has appeared, can go about bragging of his influence.

Politicians suffer from this disease more than any other group. The fellow who is "close to . . ." is particularly menacing, for he usually takes money to do what he cannot deliver and when he has failed, the enmity is directed not to the fixer who failed but to the political figure who does not even know he was being delivered. Not everybody, however, does this for money. Much of it might be called "Big Shotism," a strictly American disease.

In a country where status is recognized, a man's position is clearly determined. In Great Britain, those who are entitled to be present at the Coronation, for instance, know that they are and no pushing and shoving will dislodge them. Maybe our way is more democratic, but some pretty awful people push to the front only because they sold a few more bananas than somebody else.

It is this desire to push to the front, without qualifications, that produces the disease of "Big Shotism.'" It may start with such a simple statement as "I'm a friend of the Mayor," when the cop writes out a ticket. But it moves along to greater lengths, like a fellow who claims that everybody is his friend. I have had the experience of seeing a fellow come up to a leading and responsible public official, talk to him in a most intimate manner, call the official by his first name, let his friends see how close they are, and then have the official turn to an assistant or a newspaperman and whisper, "Who is he?'"

The prowling intimate has probably made a deal out of it. By giving the impression of intimacy, he has convinced some onlooker that it is possible to do business with the public official through him. He knows everybody. He has contacts. He can deliver. And if it should so happen that what is finally done is what his clients asked him to do, he can say: "Look, what a great guy am I" and gets paid off.

Such connivers are usually strictly on their own, playing a game in which it is impossible for the victims to discover the truth, and if discovery is made, nothing can be done but to slap the fellow down. They work all sides of the street often not so much for a living as for the joy of fixing. This is not strictly a racket; it is a pathological disease. The fixer is one of the most dangerous developments in a system in which status is not recognized.

We might as well accept it that the fellow who makes the grade in whatever walk of life did it on his own ability and that while he may have had assistance on the road, the fellow who claims that "he made him what he is today," is in all probability only somebody who stood by and picked up a crumb. Behind Ballyhoo, Doctors See Real Value in Hypnosis

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Hypnotic phenomena have been observed since Biblical times, but scientific and medical interest in the subject was first aroused in the latter part of the eighteenth century by Anton Mesmer.

This man claimed to be able to cure disease by what he called "animal magnetism." This he thought was some kind of magnetic influence which flowed from him to the patient. The idea was thoroughly discredited and the term hypnotism (instead of mesmerism) was introduced by a British surgeon in 1843.

Apparently the first attempt to perform surgery with a patient hypnotized was made in France in 1821. The first surgical procedure carried out on a hypnotized patient in England seems to have been performed in 1838. Another surgeon performed an amputation of the leg with the patient hypnotized four years later.

During the past ten years or so, the possibilities of hypnosis in reduction of pain during surgery, or other reasons, has aroused renewed interest. According to one prominent anesthesiologist it is the only means of anesthetizing a patient which carries no danger.

Hypnosis can be a pleasant experience, eliminating tension or fear of surgery. It can, and probably should be combined with chemical anesthesia or other methods of reducing pain.

There are many ways of producing hypnosis and many explanations of what it really is. However, most students of the subject appear to favor the theory that it is a state of "exaggerated suggestibility."

Pain can be lessened or eliminated in many people by hynotic suggestion, but a patient under hypnosis will not carry out suggestions which conflict with his basic moral principles. A hypnotized patient may refuse to carry out suggestions and can always break the trance.

Recently, a report on hypnosis came from the Council on Mental Health of the American Medical Association. The use of hypnosis, this report stated, has a recognized place in medicine and is a useful technique in the treatment of certain illnesses when employed by qualified medical and dental personnel.

However, in a sense, it is unfortunate that inducing hypnosis is generally so simple a matter that it requires little or no technical skill or training. It lends itself to oversimplification and spectacular dramatization that are meat for the charlatan.

Certain aspects of hypnosis still remain unknown and controversial. The general conclusion of the report is that there are definite and proper uses for hypnosis in medical and dental practice when conducted by those who are properly trained, but there is a severe lack of proper training facilities.

The report also thoroughly condemns the use of hypnosis for entertainment purposes.

WASHINGTON, (NEA) — Mucho malarkey is being spread around on this question of State Department political appointees.

On the one hand, President Eisenhower's disclaimer that any political veto is exercised on his appointments strains the credulity of most old-timers in Washington.

On the other hand, the letter of J. William Fulbright, new Senate Foreign Relations Committee chairman, to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has given some people the impression that the department is jammed with incompetent Republicans.

Some of the GOP political ambassadors have been subject to severe criticism — Earl E. T. Smith in Cuba, Maxwell H. Gluck in Ceylon and James S. Kemper in Brazil.

But the underlying fact of the situation is that the Republicans still have only a slim control over the State Department, though they have been in office six years.

OF THE 18 TOP policy-making jobs on the department organization chart, the Republicans can claim only enough to count on one hand.

Secretary Dulles, Acting Secretary Christian A. Herter, Under-secretary C. Douglas Dillon, Assistant Secretary for Congressional Relations William B. Macomber and legal adviser Wallace Becker.

If you want to stretch the count and use a sixth finger on the other hand for the checkoff, the name of Assistant Secretary for Far Eastern Affairs Walter S. Robertson may be added. But he is really a Virginia Democrat for Ike.

Below this top rank you have to get down to the fourth level of heirarchy before you find other Republicans. Then only two are easily identifiable. They are:

Administrator of Security and Consular Affairs John W. Hanes and Deputy Assistant for International Organization Horace E. Henderson.

THE OTHER 12 out of 18 top officials in the department are career diplomats like Undersecretaries Robert F. Murphy and Loy W. Henderson. All of them will give you an argument that they are nonpartisan, professional U. S. Foreign Service officers interested only in their country's welfare.

Republican politicians are inclined to give these professions a fishy eye. Most top FSO's are suspected of having voted the Democratic ticket rather consistently.

Off the record, they are suspected of putting the welfare of the foreign service above everything else in a kind of supraplitics. At any rate, it is known that on all political appointments to State Department jobs, the recommendations have to be okayed first by Henderson.

In the entire State Department organization of nearly 35,000 employes, there are 218 key policy-making jobs. Foreign service officers now hold 173 of them.

The other 45 "C" classification, confidential jobholders are hard to identify politically. But GOP headquarters says they are by no means all Republicans.

AMBASSADORSHIPS DIVIDE about the same way. There are now 77 ambassadorial and three ministerial posts with two vacancies. The 78 filled positions divide 56 foreign service officers and 22 noncareer political appointees. Nineteen of the latter are identified as Republicans.

Two consider themselves nonpartisan as well as noncareer appointees. They are Ambassador to India Ellsworth Bunker and Ambassador to Netherlands Philip Young. Both of them have Democratic backgrounds but both got Republican senatorial clearance before they were named.

Even the one Democratic appointee — Ambassador to Bonn David K. E. Bruce—was approved by GOP Senator John Marshall Butler of Maryland before he got the job.

Every ambassadorial and every other presidential appointee is cleared at Republican National Committee headquarters on a "pink sheet." It gives his political endorsement before the appointment goes through. This constitutes a veto power in fact, if not in name.

Q—Has electricity for civilian lighting purposes been produced at an atomic plant?

A—The downtown area of Pittsburgh, Pa., and homes and factories in the surrounding area are now lighted by electricity produced at an atomic plant.

Q—Is it true that bears, when attacking, hug their opponent and squeeze them to death?

A—This is questionable. In an attack the bear strikes around with its paws; the terrific strength of its weighty arms drives the claws deep into the body of its victim. To an observer this might look like hugging, but in fact is far from it.

Soviets Seen Still Lying, Negotiations Called Useless

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — What's the use of having a Foreign Ministers conference about Berlin or anything else with the Soviet government when it has deliberately told the world a lie about the murderous assault on seventeen American airmen aboard an unarmed transport plane last September?

Again the Soviet government has refused to listen to a tape recording which reveals in detail the conversation of the Soviet airmen as they killed the seventeen Americans. Though the Moscow government calls the tape recording a "fake," it doesn't explain why it will not permit any of its representatives in this country to listen to the tape or why it has consistently refused to let any American representative visit the scene of the crash to examine the wreckage.

The State Department had challenged the Soviet government to listen to the tape recording, and there can be only one inference from the Kremlin's refusal—that the Soviets do not wish to acknowledge the existence of such a tape because they know they cannot deny everything in it.

Thus, in an article published in a Soviet aviation journal just after the tragedy, there is a story about a so-called "practice flight" of Soviet airmen, but it is significant that some of the numbers used in identifying the planes in that episode are mentioned in the tape recording made at the time the American plane was shot down.

Reds Doubt Further Proof

The Soviets think there is never going to be any further proof available and that hence they can continue to call the tape recording a "fake." But what is very much more important is that the United States government knows the tape isn't a "fake." This means that another piece of evidence has been presented in the long list of incidents in which the Soviet government has falsified the truth.

Moscow dispatches say that the Soviet government is disturbed because the United States revealed the story of the tape recording at all and that this action supposedly aggravates the tension of the "cold war." But tension is something produced when one side doesn't trust the other. It is removed only when both sides begin to trust each other.

Here was an opportunity really to take away some of the tension of the "cold war" by admitting the truth. There was no good reason for concealment. To have admitted the facts might have been the start of an era of mutually satisfactory relations.

Now, however, with the United States in full possession of facts which the Soviet government denies, every one must take with a grain of salt the statements or promises or pledges made by the Moscow regime or its ambassadors or agents abroad. There is evidently a blindness in the Kremlin to the true state of opinion throughout the world about the veracity of the official statements issued by the Soviet government.

The only possible conclusion that can be drawn is that the Communists think propaganda is a substitute for truth and that, if a distorted statement is widely enough publicized and then repeated often enough it will serve the purposes of an evil-minded diplomacy.

But if any more proof were needed that the Communist propaganda is not getting by in America, it can be noted in the comments made throughout this country after the Mikoyan visit, especially since the American government revealed the truth about the cold-blooded murder of the seventeen airmen, whose unarmed plane lost its course and strayed across the Turkish-Soviet border into Russia.

Won't Lead Anywhere

The American government is convinced, moreover, that false radio beacons lured the United States aircraft into Russian territory. More evidence on the fake signals being used by the Soviets is bound to be forthcoming, together with the transcripts of other conversations of Soviet airmen engaged in this tricky business.

Unfortunately, the current talk about "negotiations" a settlement of the status of West Berlin is proceeding on the assumption that the West will be dealing with a Communist government that conceivably would honor an agreement. But the massacre of the seventeen American airmen is proof that the leopard hasn't changed its spots and that "negotiation" with the Kremlin isn't going to lead anywhere.

About the only thing that is certain is the continuance of the "cold war" until such time as the people behind the Iron Curtain get tired of being enslaved and exert their united will to get rid of their despotic rulers, just as happened in 1917 when the Czarist regime was overthrown. To continue to expose the duplicity and criminal nature of the Soviet government is to assure the people in the Soviet empire, including the people of the satellite countries, that the Western powers are not being taken in and are not going to be deceived in the future by the barbarians in temporary command in Moscow.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

It is impossible to reconcile the childish pride of this people in that which we call our culture with our indomitable love of a roster of native songs which are such crude travesties on poetry that they are sung most often in booze and never with the faintest appreciation of the naive bathos of their text. One of the worst which readily comes to mind is "When You Wore A Tulip," which for almost half a century has been echoing in pullmans and speakeasies and still comes over the transoms of expensive hotel suites in the after-hours of" conventions." "Night Time Down in Dixie Land" is no worse for the one obvious reason and yet it gets handed down from father to son, along with "Sweet Adeline," "The Old Mill Stream," "On Mobile Bay," and "Moonlight Bay," all hardy affronts to intelligence, and most of the college hymns.

Of the latter, unless, I carelessly err, only the Cornell song, "Cayuga's Waters," is original and sweet. The melody of "Fair Harvard," is an unblushing swipe and the Bulldog song of Yale is more appropriate to kindergarten on all counts than to a self-replenishing corps of account-executives and high-suburban husbands. The late Billy Phelps, a bouncy savant and inveterate youth, mulishly insisted in his later years that Yale's "Breck-Ex-Eck-Ex" was not as inspired as "Boola Boola," but Phelps himself fomented it one autumn afternoon long ago, and that may explain his judgment. A passel of noncombatants were strolling from the football field after watching practice toward Mori's beer-den when Phelps set up an exuberant crackle which drew in others and became immortal, as of now, at Yale, with many imitations on other campuses. Young Phelps had caught this from the "The Frog Chorus" of Aristophanes, and on this account he and other Yales have never ceased to claim high intellectual quality for a babble as idiotic as "Boom, Get A Rat Trap" and a thousand variations as "Sis-Boom-Ah."

It is possible, of course, but it seems highly unlikely that other peoples this side of barbarism have tolerated anything as humiliating as the lyric of Al Jolson's classical work which penetrated our soul and seared it with the dreadful text of "Yacka Hoola Hickey Doola." Yet if this immortal horror were put on a record today with perhaps some perversion of the original snarl of notes intended for the nauseating ukulele, it probably would run its course all over again.

"Mammy," the bedrock of Jolson's imperishable fame, is verboten forever on grounds of "racism." That is one way of achieving a desirable end, although it were better for us if we had been able to repudiate it by act of Congress on esthetic counts. I am dogged about this, but bothered by a suspicion that "Pagliacci" is not much better and enjoys an advantage only because Enrico Caruso was a foreigner who mixed his own salad, pinched ladies in Central Park and imparted to this incoherence the mystery of an alien tongue. If the tenor soloist of the Glee Club of Tuskegee or Princeton were to sing it, he, too, might bring down the house, but more likely a brick at a time.

In sheer, meaningless banality and ignorance, we have produced nothing to exceed the text of "Tipperary" the warlcry of the London munition workers, a song seldom heard in France, however. The Tommies incidentally sang "I Want to Go Home" with feeling until it was forbidden by the same sort of general who expunged the clumsy and cynical but deeply poetical "Benny Havens" from the West Point repertoire. This lament was attributed to Edgar Allen Poe in his brief career in the corps, spent mostly in a grog-shop just off the limits of "the whole God-forsaken place."

The civil war and the outing of '98 produced a number of "campfire" airs, but it is hard to imagine tired soldiers of any period belly-aching "Just Before The Battle, Mother." Of course, "The Gay Cavalier" was not a war song at all but a studio number imputing to a ca'lry sojer sentiments which still are appropriate, even to warriors of the permanent staff of the Brooklyn army base, but in terms outlandishly decent.

I have nurtured for more than a quarter century a hope that one day the greatest work of this kind ever done in our language would be recognized by some pretentious intellectual academy. I refer to an obscure classic by Arthur "Bugs" Baer, which he offered as "A Love-Song To End Love-Songs" under the title, "When I'm With You I'm Lonesome."

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 18, 1959

BROTHERHOOD WEEK

The purpose of Brotherhood Week, which now is being observed throughout the nation, is to give people an opportunity to re-dedicate themselves as individuals to the ideals of respect for people and human rights. It is essentially a campaign against prejudices and bigotries that disfigure and distort religious, business, social and political relations.

Brotherhood is a basic tenet of democracy, set forth in the self-evident truths of the Declaration of Independence "that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights."

True Brotherhood demands that we protest vigorously when injustices are permitted and that we fight against all forces and influences that foster or encourage class, racial or religious distinctions.

One week is far too brief to achieve the whole of the aims of those who are working for brotherhood among all Americans. And those engaged in the work are aware of this. But they hope, by fixing attention for even so short a period upon the importance of brotherhood, to get closer to it at least in some measure.

AN UNFLAGGING SPIRIT

It is interesting to note that as Secretary of State Dulles enters upon another physical ordeal, one of too long a series, his prestige among some of America's foreign friends is higher than it perhaps has ever been.

His recent labors on his European tour, aimed at developing a united front between Britain, West Germany, France and the United States on the Berlin and general German question, have helped to persuade Western leaders of his solid devotion to their cause.

Dulles often has been the butt of criticism from our allies, and it is hardly fair to say he is their favorite secretary of state.

Nevertheless there has been a slowly growing appreciation of his dogged, Spartan efforts for peace. And it is further recognized that he is not only his own secretary of state but is the fount of American foreign policy.

No replacement, however talented and wise, could likely fill his shoes at this important turn in East-West history. Not only Americans, but Britishers, Frenchmen and Germans hope for Dulles' swift recovery.

TIME TO SPEAK OUT

Regardless of political parties and all the methods used to gain votes, citizens must continue to work and eat, and industry must produce if jobs are to be provided and our government remain solvent.

It takes more than political slogans to maintain a nation. They mean nothing unless the principles behind constitutional government and a free enterprise are upheld.

Business and industry are awakening to the fact that they must tell their story as persistently and as emphatically as all the agencies that prey upon them if they are to help counteract the forces, both in and out of government, that would scuttle them for political gain.

It is not a question of seeking an advantage for any company but of perpetuating a system of opportunity for all.

CATALOGUE DREAMS

The time to look at garden catalogues is just after a snowfall. It should be done, by preference, near a window overlooking the prospective scene of gardening activity. The bright abundance in the mind's eye can easily be superimposed upon the scene outside.

At first the cold, black and white landscape will defy all attempts to infuse it with color and warmth. But then, gradually, a miracle will take place—a miracle no less because it occurs in the mind. Flowers as brilliant as those in the catalogue will form ranks at the unseen but well remembered line where the lawn ends. Neat rows of lettuce, carrots, radishes will transform the white rectangle set aside for vegetables. The stark tree shapes will be softened with bloom and leaf.

The pleasant thing about this kind of dreaming is that when reality comes it is often better than the dream.

'These Days'

THE BIG SHOT

One often hears of the fellow behind the fellow who made the great man great, who thinks his thoughts, who directs his actions, who got him where he is today. It must occur to many to ask, why if he could do so much for another fellow, he cant do anything for himself? There is the run-down-at-the-heel speech-writer who pens the great thoughts of the great man; and yet when asked to say a few words, this press agent flutters and splutters and ends with some bar-room joke to get a laugh.

In business circles, this is particularly current. "Who is he? Why he just had all the luck. I came in and straightened out all the mistakes he made on the way up. Sure he's got the dough, but that's luck." They used to say about Edison that he swiped other men's work, but the "other men" did not step forward to make the claim.

I suppose it is human nature for some who know a man who knows a man to say that he can stick a line of type in somebody's work or slant a position or who, after something has appeared, can go about bragging of his influence.

Politicians suffer from this disease more than any other group. The fellow who is "close to . . ." is particularly menacing, for he usually takes money to do what he cannot deliver and when he has failed, the enmity is directed not to the fixer who failed but to the political figure who does not even know he was being delivered. Not everybody, however, does this for money. Much of it might be called "Big Shotism," a strictly American disease.

In a country where status is recognized, a man's position is clearly determined. In Great Britain, those who are entitled to be present at the Coronation, for instance, know that they are and no pushing and shoving will dislodge them. Maybe our way is more democratic, but some pretty awful people push to the front only because they sold a few more bananas than somebody else.

It is this desire to push to the front, without qualifications, that produces the disease of "Big Shotism." It may start with such a simple statement as "I'm a friend of the Mayor," when the cop writes out a ticket. But it moves along to greater lengths, like a fellow who claims that everybody is his friend. I have had the experience of seeing a fellow come up to a leading and responsible public official, talk to him in a most intimate manner, call the official by his first name, let his friends see how close they are, and then have the official turn to an assistant or a newspaperman and whisper, "Who is he?"

The prowling intimate has probably made a deal out of it. By giving the impression of intimacy, he has convinced some onlooker that it is possible to do business with the public official through him. He knows everybody. He has contacts. He can deliver. And if it should so happen that what is finally done is what his clients asked him to do, he can say: "Look, what a great guy am I" and gets paid off.

Such connivers are usually strictly on their own, playing a game in which it is impossible for the victims to discover the truth, and if discovery is made, nothing can be done but to slap the fellow down. They work all sides of the street often not so much for a living as for the joy of fixing. This is not strictly a racket; it is a pathological disease. The fixer is one of the most dangerous developments in a system in which status is not recognized.

We might as well accept it that the fellow who makes the grade in whatever walk of life did it on his own ability and that while he may have had assistance on the road, the fellow who claims that "he made him what he is today," is in all probability only somebody who stood by and picked up a crumb. If a fellow has to announce what a Big Shot he is, the likelihood is that he is just the Water Boy to the man who knows how to do things in his own field. The fixer, like the speech-writer, comes a dime a dozen.

Off the record, they are suspected of putting the welfare of the foreign service above everything else in a kind of suprapolitics. At any rate, it is known that on all political appointments to State Department jobs, the recommendations have to be okayed first by Henderson.

In the entire State Department organization of nearly 35,000 employes, there are 218 key policy-making jobs. Foreign service officers now hold 173 of them.

The other 45 "C" classification, confidential jobholders are hard to identify politically. But GOP headquarters says they are by no means all Republicans.

AMBASSADORSHIPS DIVIDE about the same way. There are now 77 ambassadorial and three ministerial posts with two vacancies. The 78 filled positions divide 56 foreign service officers and 22 noncareer political appointees. Nineteen of the latter are identified as Republicans.

Two consider themselves nonpartisan as well as noncareer appointees. They are Ambassador to India Ellsworth Bunker and Ambassador to Netherlands Philip Young. Both of them have Democratic backgrounds but both got Republican senatorial clearance before they were named.

Even the one Democratic appointee — Ambassador to Bonn David K. E. Bruce—was approved by GOP Senator John Marshall Butler of Maryland before he got the job.

Every ambassadorial and every other presidential appointee is cleared at Republican National Committee headquarters on a "pink sheet." It gives his political endorsement before the appointment goes through. This constitutes a veto power in fact, if not in name.

Questions -- Answers

Q—Has electricity for civilian lighting purposes been produced at an atomic plant?

A—The downtown area of Pittsburgh, Pa., and homes and factories in the surrounding area are now lighted by electricity produced at an atomic plant.

Q—Is it true that bears, when attacking, hug their opponent and squeeze them to death?

A—This is questionable. In an attack the bear strikes around with its paws; the terrific strength of its weighty arms drives the claws deep into the body of its victim. To an observer this might look like hugging, but in fact is far from it.

Soviets Seen Still Lying, Negotiations Called Useless

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — What's the use of having a Foreign Ministers conference about Berlin or anything else with the Soviet government when it has deliberately told the world a lie about the murderous assault on seventeen American airmen aboard an unarmed transport plane last September?

Again the Soviet government has refused to listen to a tape recording which reveals in detail the conversation of the Soviet airmen as they killed the seventeen Americans. Though the Moscow government calls the tape recording a "fake," it doesn't explain why it will not permit any of its representatives in this country to listen to the tape or why it has consistently refused to let any American representative visit the scene of the crash to examine the wreckage.

The State Department had challenged the Soviet government to listen to the tape recording, and there can be only one inference from the Kremlin's refusal—that the Soviets do not wish to acknowledge the existence of such a tape because they know they cannot deny everything in it.

Thus, in an article published in a Soviet aviation journal just after the tragedy, there is a story about a so-called "practice flight" of Soviet airmen, but it is significant that some of the numbers used in identifying the planes in that episode are mentioned in the tape recording made at the time the American plane was shot down.

Reds Doubt Further Proof

The Soviets think there is never going to be any further proof available and that hence they can continue to call the tape recording a "fake." But what is very much more important is that the United States government knows the tape isn't a "fake." This means that another piece of evidence has been presented in the long list of incidents in which the Soviet government has falsified the truth.

Moscow dispatches say that the Soviet government is disturbed because the United States revealed the story of the tape recording at all and that this action supposedly aggravates the tension of the "cold war." But tension is something produced when one side doesn't trust the other. It is removed only when both sides begin to trust each other.

Here was an opportunity really to take away some of the tension of the "cold war" by admitting the truth. There was no good reason for concealment. To have admitted the facts might have been the start of an era of mutually satisfactory relations.

Now, however, with the United States in full possession of facts which the Soviet government denies, every one must take with a grain of salt the statements or promises or pledges made by the Moscow regime or its ambassadors or agents abroad. There is evidently a blindness in the Kremlin to the true state of opinion throughout the world about the veracity of the official statements issued by the Soviet government.

The only possible conclusion that can be drawn is that the Communists think propaganda is a substitute for truth and that, if a distorted statement is widely enough publicized and then repeated often enough it will serve the purposes of an evil-minded diplomacy.

But if any more proof were needed that the Communist propaganda is not getting by in America, it can be noted in the comments made throughout this country after the Mikoyan visit, especially since the American government revealed the truth about the cold-blooded murder of the seventeen airmen, whose unarmed plane lost its course and strayed across the Turkish-Soviet border into Russia.

Won't Lead Anywhere

The American government is convinced, moreover, that false radio beacons lured the United States aircraft into Russian territory. More evidence on the fake signals being used by the Soviets is bound to be forthcoming, together with the transcripts of other conversations of Soviet airmen engaged in this tricky business.

Unfortunately, the current talk about "negotiations" a settlement of the status of West Berlin is proceeding on the assumption that the West will be dealing with a Communist government that conceivably would honor an agreement. But the massacre of the seventeen American airmen is proof that the leopard hasn't changed its spots and that "negotiation" with the Kremlin isn't going to lead anywhere.

About the only thing that is certain is the continuance of the "cold war" until such time as the people behind the Iron Curtain get tired of being enslaved and exert their united will to get rid of their despotic rulers, just as happened in 1917 when the Czarist regime was overthrown. To continue to expose the duplicity and criminal nature of the Soviet government is to assure the people in the Soviet empire, including the people of the satellite countries, that the Western powers are not being taken in and are not going to be deceived in the future by the barbarians in temporary command in Moscow.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

It is impossible to reconcile the childish pride of this people in that which we call our culture with our indomitable love of a roster of native songs which are such crude travesties on poetry that they are sung most often in booze and never with the faintest appreciation of the naive bathos of their text. One of the worst which readily comes to mind is "When You Wore A Tulip," which for almost half a century has been echoing in pullmans and speakeasies and still comes over the transoms of expensive hotel suites in the after-hours of" conventions." "Night Time Down in Dixie Land" is no worse for the one obvious reason and yet it gets handed down from father to son, along with "Sweet Adeline," "The Old Mill Stream," "On Mobile Bay," and "Moonlight Bay," all hardy affronts to intelligence, and most of the college hymns.

Of the latter, unless I carelessly err, only the Cornell song, "Cayuga's Waters," is original and sweet. The melody of "Fair Harvard," is an unblushing swipe and the Bulldog song of Yale is more appropriate to kindergarten on all counts than to a self-replenishing corps of account-executives and high-suburban husbands. The late Billy Phelps, a bouncy savant and inveterate youth, mulishly insisted in his later years that Yale's "Breck-Ex-Eck-Ex" was not as inspired as "Boola Boola," but Phelps himself fomented it one autumn afternoon long ago, and that may explain his judgment. A passel of noncombatants were strolling from the football field after watching practice toward Mori's beer-den when Phelps set up an exuberant crackle which drew in others and became immortal, as of now, at Yale, with many imitations on other campuses. Young Phelps had caught this from the "The Frog Chorus" of Aristophanes, and on this account he and other Yales have never ceased to claim high intellectual quality for a babble as idiotic as "Boom, Get A Rat Trap" and a thousand variations as "Sis-Boom-Ah."

It is possible, of course, but it seems highly unlikely that other peoples this side of barbarism have tolerated anything as humiliating as the lyric of Al Jolson's classical work which penetrated our soul and seared it with the dreadful text of "Yacka Hoola Hickey Doola." Yet if this immortal horror were put on a record today with perhaps some perversion of the original snarl of notes intended for the nauseating ukulele, it probably would run its course all over again.

"Mammy," the bedrock of Jolson's imperishable fame, is verboten forever on grounds of "racism." That is one way of achieving a desirable end, although it were better for us if we had been able to repudiate it by act of Congress on esthetic counts. I am dogged about this, but bothered by a suspicion that "Pagliacci" is not much better and enjoys an advantage only because Enrico Caruso was a foreigner who mixed his own salad, pinched ladies in Central Park and imparted to this incoherence the mystery of an alien tongue. If the tenor soloist of the Glee Club of Tuskegee or Princeton were to sing it, he, too, might bring down the house, but more likely a brick at a time.

In sheer, meaningless banality and ignorance, we have produced nothing to exceed the text of "Tipperary" the warlcry of the London munition workers, a song seldom heard in France, however. The Tommies incidentally sang "I Want to Go Home" with feeling until it was forbidden by the same sort of general who expunged the clumsy and cynical but deeply poetical "Benny Havens" from the West Point repertoire. This lament was attributed to Edgar Allen Poe in his brief career in the corps, spent mostly in a grog-shop just off the limits of "the whole God-forsaken place."

The civil war and the outing of '98 produced a number of "campfire" airs, but it is hard to imagine tired soldiers of any period belly-aching "Just Before The Battle, Mother." Of course, "The Gay Cavalier" was not a war song at all but a studio number imputing to a cavalry sojer sentiments which still are appropriate, even to warriors of the permanent staff of the Brooklyn army base, but in terms outlandishly decent.

I have nurtured for more than a quarter century a hope that one day the greatest work of this kind ever done in our language would be recognized by some pretentious intellectual academy. I refer to an obscure classic by Arthur "Bugs" Baer, which he offered as "A Love-Song To End Love-Songs" under the title, "When I'm With You I'm Lonesome."

Short Cut Proves Fatal

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Robert Donohue, 9 and his brother, Michael, 8, took a short-cut home from the store Tuesday night. They were killed when they ran into a street and were struck by an automobile.

Another brother, William, 10, watched from the sidewalk.

Police said the boys were crossing the street to take a short-cut through a vacant lot. They were the sons of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Donohue.

Child Strangled By Safety Strap

OGDENSBURG, N. Y. (AP)—A two-year-old boy was strangled accidentally by a safety strap in his crib Tuesday.

Police said Michael Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ward, was put in his crib and secured with a safety strap to prevent his falling out.

Later, when Mrs. Ward looked in on him, she found the boy tangled in the strap. Efforts of police and a physician to revive him were fruitless.

Modena

MODENA — The February meeting of the Plattekill Town Board was held Wednesday evening at the Town Building, Modena.

Supervisor of the Town, W. Howard Simpson of Clintondale was attending a meeting of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors at Kingston, and during his absence, Councilman William Doolittle of Modena, presided.

The board members present put into effect a combined insurance policy, discussed at a previous meeting, authorized the Superintendent of Highways Herman Dempsky of Modena to purchase needed equipment, such as tires, a power saw, and others.

The next meeting of the board is scheduled for Wednesday evening, March 11, at the Town Building, Modena.

In the sum exceeding $20,000 pledged recently toward the construction of a new building for the Syracuse University School of Journalism, contributions were received and announced from various editors of newspapers throughout this area.

Included in the list was the name of Alvin O. Benton, editor of the Monticello Republican Watchman.

Editor Benton will be remembered as a son of Charles Benton, and the late Alvinetta Smith Benton, of the Ardonia section, and his sister, Mrs. William Davis is a resident of Kingston.

The Rev. George Johnson, pastor of the Modena and Clintondale Methodist Churches, was a guest preacher at the New Paltz Methodist Church services Sunday, delivering a sermon on "Trials on Mountains."

In the evening the Rev. Mr. Johnson spoke at the Wallkill Reformed Church, at the first of the Lenten Services.

Donald Lare, a frequent visitor at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bernard, here, has been reported ill at his home in Gardnertown.

Mrs. Lillian Courter and Mrs. Anna Tonnesen accompanied Mrs. Roy H. DuBois and daughter, Marylou to Kingston, Saturday, where they visited a former neighbor, Mrs. Anna L. Miller at the Home for the Aged.

Plea to Financial Folks: Speak Clearly, Please

BY FAYE HENLE

Warning to all financial institutions:

Rephrase your message to the public. Until you learn to talk to us in words that we can really understand, those millions of dollars you spend each year to win our friendship and our patronage never really will pay off.

Right this minute I can hear hundreds of bank officials, insurance men, realtors and securities dealers screaming. "Where does she get the notion that we are so misunderstood?"

Gentlemen — and ladies — this is no idle notion. I've got proof in my own backyard. I'm an eyewitness to one of the most exciting experiments ever undertaken to help the public get a basic grasp of the financial problems that face every family.

Dorothy Noble Smith of Chemical Corn Exchange Bank, who heads the women's division of the New York State Bankers' Assn., is conducting a series of free lectures. The public has been invited to a New York junior high scchool to get this guidance. What is being offered is the type of program the citizens of every state should ask its bankers to provide for them.

The speakers at these sessions don't wear gray flannel suits but print dresses and fussy hats. But they aren't speaking to just a bunch of other print dresses and funny hats. With an audience that is at least one-third men, I've seen it demonstrated that an impressive portion of the confusion that exists between people and their pocketbooks is simply due to semantics.

Get a load of the questions:

Q: What is the difference between a bank check and a cashier's check?

A: No difference.

Q: Can passbook loans be made up to 100 per cent of the amount of money in my savings account?

A: Yes.

Q: What is the difference between a joint bank account or one that reads John and Mary or one that reads John and/or Mary?

A: There is no difference between any of these. I don't see why the banks don't simply call them all two name accounts.

Members of this audience, each one of them a well-dressed citizen, pop questions like: What is margin? What is a letter of credit? What does FDIC stand for?

Millions upon millions of words have already been written and spoken on the above topics and the others considered in the lecture series. A great portion of this literature is available free to all for just the asking. Yet I suspect a great many of us refrain from asking for fear that we won't understand what has been written or what is being said.

Now if all you financial institutions would get busy and translate your "financialese" people would have to spend less time and energy figuring but how to use your services.

They would have more understanding of which of your services would be best of their own particular needs. With greater understanding of what it is you offer, would come greater use. And, in direct proportion to the increased use of financial services all of us would benefit.

Plans Campus Center

ALFRED, N. Y. (AP) — Alfred University signed a contract today for construction of a three-story campus center that will cost $550,000.

The building will house student and faculty dining halls, lounges, meeting rooms and a book store. It replaced Burdick Hall, the oldest building on the campus.

Moses Defends Act

NEW YORK (AP) — There's no doubt about it now — Robert Moses is for art.

The outspoken Moses, chairman of the State Power Authority, Tuesday defended the commissioning of a composer, at more than $5,000, to write a 10-minute piece of music for the opening of the St. Lawrence Power Project last September.

"In all civilized countries government, in one form or another, recognizes the arts," said Moses. "No doubt there will always be critics who regard any recognition of the arts as extravagance."

Farm Vehicles Exempt Now From Carrying Signals

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller's signature is on a bill that exempts farm equipment from the state law requiring motor vehicles to carry directional lights.

Some farm vehicles, including combines, harvester and spreaders, were brought under the law when the statute was enacted in 1957.

The law went into effect last summer, but state police were instructed not to enforce the regulation on farm equipment.

Sen. Harold A. Jerry (R-Elmira) and Assemblyman Charles D. Henderson (R-Hornell) sponsored the bill. Rockefeller signed it without comment Tuesday.

West opened the king of diamonds and continued with the queen. A shift to a club would have set the hand but West did not think of that.

South ruffed the second diamond and studied the hand carefully. If either the king of trumps or ace of clubs would show up in the West hand the contract would be a cinch but East needed both those cards for his opening bid.

Hence, finesses were not going to work but South saw there was an alternate play for his contract. He led the queen of trumps and went up with dummy's ace. Maybe the king would drop but it didn't.

Now South ruffed dummy's last diamond and proceeded to run hearts. East could trump the third lead but chose to discard. He had no defense anyway.

The fourth heart was led next and on of dummy's clubs discarded.

Now South led another trump and East was in the lead with the king of trumps. He had two choice of plays but each was useless. He could lead a diamond and allow South to ruff in his hand and discard another club from dummy, or he could lead the ace of clubs and establish dummy's king.

Some farm vehicles, including combines, harvester and spreaders, were brought under the law when the statute was enacted in 1957.

The law went into effect last summer, but state police were instructed not to enforce the regulation on farm equipment.

Sen. Harold A. Jerry (R-Elmira) and Assemblyman Charles D. Henderson (R-Hornell) sponsored the bill. Rockefeller signed it without comment Tuesday.

Declarer Avoids Losing Finesse

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

West opened the king of diamonds and continued with the queen. A shift to a club would have set the hand but West did not think of that.

South ruffed the second diamond and studied the hand carefully. If either the king of trumps or ace of clubs would show up in the West hand the contract would be a cinch but East needed both those cards for his opening bid.

Hence, finesses were not going to work but South saw there was an alternate play for his contract. He led the queen of trumps and went up with dummy's ace. Maybe the king would drop but it didn't.

Now South ruffed dummy's last diamond and proceeded to run hearts. East could trump the third lead but chose to discard. He had no defense anyway.

The fourth heart was led next and on of dummy's clubs discarded.

Now South led another trump and East was in the lead with the king of trumps. He had two choice of plays but each was useless. He could lead a diamond and allow South to ruff in his hand and discard another club from dummy, or he could lead the ace of clubs and establish dummy's king.

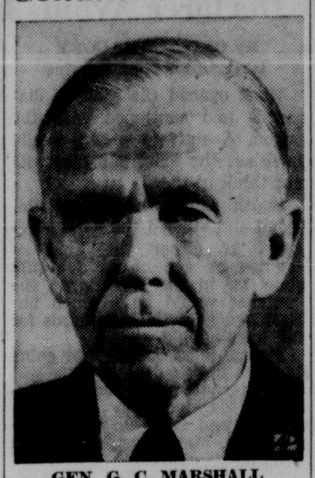
Has New Stroke, Condition Serious



GEN. G. C. MARSHALL

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall has had another stroke and his condition is considered serious.

The World War II Army chief of staff suffered a mild stroke Jan. 15 at his winter home at nearby Pinehurst. He is 78.

An announcement today by the Womack Army Hospital here said the stroke suffered in the night was more severe than the previous one.

Mrs. Marshall has been a daily visitor at the bedside of her husband who served after World War II both as secretary of state and secretary of defense.

Pays $10 Fine

Robert Dymond, 24, of Sundown, paid a fine of $10 Tuesday when arraigned before Justice of the Peace George Erts of the town of Denning on a charge of petit larceny. Cpl. N. G. Lecakes of the Ellenville state police said Dymond took some gasoline February 10 from the tanks of equipment belonging to Ralph Smith who operates a sawmill at Sundown. He entered a plea of guilty upon arraignment.

Banks in Israel are usually open from 8:30 a. m. until midnight.

Case of Taximen Dismissed in Court

A disorderly conduct charge against Bradley A. Wilson, 22, of 39 East Road, High Falls Park, who was arrested last Saturday after reported trouble between local taximen, was dismissed in city court last night.

Five drivers paid $35 in fines at the session and an assault charge was withdrawn.

Wilson's arrest followed the claim of Nels Wennersten, Route 3, Box 195, Saugerties, that Wilson had tossed coins at him several times while he was parked in the taxi zone near the Trailways bus terminal, Pine Grove Avenue.

Wilson pleaded innocent before City Judge Aaron E. Klein Monday, and dismissal of the charge last night was based on insufficient information.

Three taximen, booked a few weeks ago on charges of illegally soliciting fares in the same area, were given suspended sentences. One of them also charged with disorderly conduct was given a suspended sentence and placed on probation for 30 days.

William Stapleburg, of West Hurley, charged with non-payment of wages, was given a suspended sentence of 90 days in jail and placed on six months probation.

A third degree assault charge against Jose Hernandez, of 12 Wiltwyck Avenue, was withdrawn. He was arrested on complaint of Thomas Long, of 10 Wiltwyck Avenue.

John Bonesteel, of 102 Hasbrouck Avenue, was fined $15 on a charge of speeding, and fined $5 each on red-light charges were Judson Harris, 59 Van Buren Street, and Vera Dailey, Sunset Drive, Port Ewen.

Fined $5 each on stop-sign charges were Francis Cahill, of Box 361, Tillson, and Abe Schulman, of Ulster Park.

Issued summonses early today on charges of driving with insufficient light were Clayton T. Kurthy, Monticello; Marie Bence, 184 Hurley Avenue, and Pearl Simmons, 25 Abeel Street.

Morris Kaplan, of Westbrook Place, was given summonses charging speeding and failure to report a change of address. Booked on red-light charges were Duke Jesse Fatherree, PO Box 447, Port Ewen; Chauncey James Cameron, 25 Shufeldt Street, and Martin A. Burke, 59, of 7 Staples Street.

Most of them are due in night court Feb. 24.

Board Asks Safety Engineer Advice About Sprinklers

The Greater Kingston Board of Education has made a formal request for a safety engineer to inspect the school system and make recommendations of installation of sprinklers, it was announced today by Robert O'Reilly, vice president of the board.

The request has gone to the firm which handles fire insurance for the local school district.

O'Reilly, acting in the absence of President Robert H. Herzog, explained that the insurance firm has been asked to recommend or furnish an inspector.

He will be requested to study the schools and make recommendations as to feasibility of sprinkler installation and the extent of such installation.

Paving Probe Is Recessed After Lawmaker Talks

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — An Erie County grand jury investigating alleged bribery in city paving contracts has recessed after hearing testimony from Rep. Thaddeus J. Dulski.

Dulski, a Democrat, was elected to Congress last November. He was a city councilman during 1954-56, the years under investigation. Many other councilmen and other city officials have also been called.

When he was subpoeaned two weeks ago, Dulski expressed the fear that the inquiry might turn into a political battle. After testifying Tuesday, however, he said he was "treated very nicely."

"They were very courteous and asked me questions that they had a perfect right to ask," he said.

Report Big Money Theft at Highland Central Tuesday

A large amount of cash was stolen from the office of the Highland Central School during the night.

Highland state police are investigating the theft which may involve as much as a thousand dollars. This estimate is unofficial, however. School authorities were still seeking this morning to determine how much cash was involved.

The money was kept in a closet with a special safety-lock door.

Sgt. E. E. Winkky told The Freeman that the door was opened by drilling and prying

Sgt. Linn Baker and Cpl. Al Chieco, BCI, are investigating.

Ashby Sentence May Be Held Up Till Report Given

There is a probability that sentence in the Edwin W. Ashby perjury case may not be imposed when the special session of Supreme Court convenes Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

It was reported today a probation report has been requested by Justice Henry Clay Greenberg on the defendant Ashby and that this report may take some time to prepare. Justice Greenberg could not be reached at his chambers here prior to press time.

Should the probation report be sought, and such a report is usually requested by any judge prior to imposing sentence on any defendant, there is every probability that an adjournment will be taken until some future date when the full probation office report is available to the court.

Ashby, found guilty of perjury, second degree, two counts, for alleged false statements made before the special grand jury investigating "kickbacks" in Ulster County, could be given up to a year imprisonment or a $500 fine or both under each of the charges.

Following the guilty verdict by the jury on Monday night the matter of sentencing was adjourned until Thursday at 10 a. m.

To Release . . .

ceived numerous mysterious calls by telephone after his visits to Kingston in connection with the probe.

Rowan was described by Tompkins as a "cooperative witness" in going over Buckley books and records. He made several visits to Kingston between September 15 and November 6 when he testified before the grand jury. Rowan was first contacted on September 11 by the local investigators.

"He was in our office at least twice before he went before the grand jury and answered all questions," Tompkins said. He described Rowan as cooperative but a witness who did not volunteer information.

No Credit for Buckley

"The information he gave us did not reflect any credit upon Buckley, his former employer," Tompkins said.

Paul Kirby, chief investigator for the Tompkins investigation, a former FBI agent, went to Troy with Rowan after his appearance before the grand jury on November 6 to be present if any telephone calls were received, Tompkins said.

The only call received that day was from a fellow employe with whom Rowan rode to his job in Schenectady.

Asked from whom the telephone calls had come on prior occasions, Senator Tompkins said, "from someone interested in the people under investigation here."

Made After Visits

These calls came after every visit to Kingston by Rowan and Tompkins said it appears as though Rowan was being watched and the telephones calls came as soon as he got back to Troy.

These telephone calls were "worrying" Rowan, Tompkins said, and that was why Chief Investigator Kirby was sent to Troy with Rowan that day. If the calls came in Kirby could evaluate them.

Asked if any other witness had received mysterious telephone calls, Tompkins said Rowan was the only one. Rowan told of these calls when he appeared here on November 6. Rowan said he had received many such calls but the prosecution told a Freeman reporter he could not disclose from whom the calls came except that it was "someone interested in the people under investigation here."

Casey was accompanied to Kingston by Detective Kenneth G. Fake, who has been assigned by the Rensselaer County sheriff's office to the district attorney's office.

Poison Spray Case Heard

On trial in County Court before County Judge Louis G. Bruhn and a jury is an action brought by Mollenhauer Brothers against the New York Central Railroad to recover for damage to a field of Birdfoot Trefoot which plaintiff alleges was damaged by poison spray.

Plaintiffs operate a farm of some 185 acres along the Wallkill Valley Tracks on Springtown Road in addition to their Rosendale farms. It is alleged the railroad company sprayed its right-of way with Herbeicide in August 1957, poisoning the hay crop on the 60 acre tract which is under cultivation.

William P. Curran appears for plaintiffs, who seek to recover $2,315, and Vincent G. Connelly appears for the defendant, New York Central Railroad Company.

Greenwald Proposes Travel Agents Convene Here in '60

The eight regional travel agency members of the American Society of Travel Agents convened in Kingston Tuesday night to discuss plans for the 1960 area convention. Included among the conferees were the Ellenville Travel Service, the Sullivan County Travel Service of Liberty, Embler Travel Service of Newburgh, the Card and Stoppini Agencies of Poughkeepsie, Columbia Travel of Hudson and the Greenwald Agency of this city.

It was pointed out that the 1959 convention in Saranac encompasses all ASTA agents in New York State exclusive of New York city, and all of the members in New England. Added to this group of some 150 active agents, allied members representing the airlines, steamship companies and related industries are expected to swell the total attendance to over 400 representatives.

Herbert Greenwald of the local agency pointed out the Kingston area could offer the conventioneers the full facilities that normally draw visitors to the Kingston area and would be available to the agents. State President Joel Epstein of Columbia Travel assured the agents that they could count on his support for a meeting in this general area but cautioned that the full cooperation of hotels, entertainment facilities, transportation organizations and Chambers of Commerce will be expected.

An ad hoc committee was appointed to discuss the matter and to report at the area convention in Saranac in early June. An interim meeting is to be held by the regional membership in the Ellenville area in mid-May in order that the full potential of southern New York State can be exploited.

Epstein, who had just come in from a meeting at the state capitol, advised that a bill is to be presented shortly to the legislature which will require licensing of travel agents. Since the bill is essentially for the public convenience and necessity of the traveling public and for the protection of legitmate and ethical travel agents, the state chapter's legislative committee will be in constant contact with the proponents of the bill.

The 350th Hudson-Champlain Celebration under the chairmanship of Senator Hatfield will have the full support of the American Society of Travel Agents. An advisory committee of agents has been appointed by Hatfield and ASTA members will be fully accredited to the commission. The agents were requested to give full and wholehearted support to this endeavor.

Prior to adjournment President Epstein advised that a school-on-the-road would be made available in late '59 visiting all the major South American republics. It will be open only to the accredited representatives of the active ASTA agencies in upper New York State and will follow the pattern established in the Caribbean training session of 1957.

Safety Council Is To Meet Thursday

A meeting of the Ulster County Safety Council will be held Thursday, 8 p. m., at the County Court House, Wall Street.

Members will meet in the Supervisors' Room.

Residents interested in learning about home safety and highway safety are urged to attend.

Topic of discussion for Thursday's meeting will be "Radar Speed Detection."

Know what "hedgepot" is? It is the ancient right of a tenant to cut wood to repair fences, but not for building purposes.

One Youth Held

duct charge after reported abusive talk to Officer Thomas Kearney near the Broadway Sweet Shop was Robert Harvey, 18, of 46 Broadway. He drew a suspended sentence and 90 days of probation when he appeared today before City Judge Aaron E. Klein.

Samuel A. Perry, 17, son of Fifth Ward Alderman Samuel J. Perry, 54 Abruyn Street, reported an injury of the left leg, and it was not clear today whether he was the victim of an assault by an unknown person, believed to be from Newburgh, or became involved in attempting to stop a fight between two others.

Refused to Quit

Officer Ira Hadsel, first on the scene of the trouble after the game in which Kingston lost 58-56 to Newburgh, reported wielding a nightstick when those fighting failed to "break it up" as he ordered, and it was later indicated that Perry might have been hit then.

M. Clifford Miller, local high school principal, said he had been told that only the one fight was involved although crowds had gathered in the area, and he said he was informed that the person reported hurt, had attempted to stop the fight.

Trouble At Half

Officer Hadsel reported some shoving and jostling when he made his way through the gathering to stop the fight, and he said, he had learned of some potential trouble during half time.

Principal Miller said when he was told of the gathering outside of the Kate Walton Field House after the game he called for additional police assistance to make sure that no further trouble started, and to assist Officer Hadsel.

Three patrol cars on duty were dispatched to the field house area with officers Ernest Bartroff, John Crespino, Meyer Levy, Francis Buchanan, Leonard Ellsworth, William Slover, George Dougherty, Sheldon O'Rourke and Edward Ortlieb.

Quieted Down

It was noted that everything had subsided by the time the other officers arrived.

Officer Hadsel, who was at the field house during the game, said there was no trouble then, but he later learned of the attempted rumpus at half time, when some shoving and threats of fighting were reported.

When told there was fighting outside the field house, Hadsel said, he pushed his way through the crowd and found two in a fight on the ground. He was being shoved around, he said, and when they failed to stop as ordered, he wielded the night stick in the direction of the one on top. They then got up and left the area.

Hadsel said he later met Perry at the Trailways Restaurant, central Broadway. The latter reported being involved in the fight and said his left leg was swollen below the kneecap. Perry gave a statement at police headquarters.

Statements indicated that the same unknown person involved in the fight, and believed to be the one who had been pushing and shoving and apparently attempting to start a fight at half time.

Robert Harvey, who was arrested by Officer Kearney on the disorderly conduct charge, after refusing to move on as ordered, police reported, had said to Kearney something to the effect that all the police were doing was going around and arresting teenagers. He had been with a group, but apparently the others had moved on as ordered.

Negroes Appear But Whites Stay AwayFromSchool

FRONT ROYAL, Va. (AP) — Twenty-two Negro children but not a white child showed up for enrollment today as Warren County High School reopened after five months' closure.

The Negro youngsters arrived in groups of three and four, and walked slowly up the hill to the entrance.

A few townspeople, some white children of school age, gathered but no words were spoken to the Negro children.

Police had set up barricades at the entrance and allowed no one except the pupils on the grounds. Two policemen manned the gates, others were at the top of the hill fronting the school. Sheriff's deputies and state police were stationed along the street leading to the school.

As each child passed through the barricade, his name was checked by Warren County's school supervisor, Brent Sandidge.

The first group arrived only 15 minutes before registration was to begin for classes starting Thursday. Within the next 10 minutes the other 18 had arrived, three or four to a car. None came on buses.

The group of 22 included 10 boys and 12 girls.

Work Measurement Subject for Engineers

Dr. Adam Abruzzi will address the Mid-Huson Chapter, American Institute of Industrial Engineers on the subject, "Work Measurement." The dinner meeting will begin at 6:30 p. m. Thursday at the Nelson House, Poughkeepsie. The program will commence at 7:45 p. m.

Dr. Abruzzi received his PhD and Master's Degree in Industrial Engineering from Columbia University and his BS from Harvard College. He is a professor in the Department of Industrial Engineering at Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N. J. He has 10 years of industrial experience, served as a labor arbitrator and is a member of the Institute of Mathematical Statistics, American Society of Quality Control, American Statistical Association, and AIIE.

"Work Measurement — New Principles and Procedures," May, 1952 and "Work, Workers and Work Measurement," October, 1956, Columbia University Press, were written by Dr. Abruzzi. In addition, he has written and presented before technical societies numerous papers on work measurement and productivity.

Case of Taximen Dismissed in Court

A disorderly conduct charge against Bradley A. Wilson, 22, of 39 East Road, High Falls Park, who was arrested last Saturday after reported trouble between local taximen, was dismissed in city court last night.

Five drivers paid $35 in fines at the session and an assault charge was withdrawn.

Wilson's arrest followed the claim of Nels Wennersten, Route 3, Box 195, Saugerties, that Wilson had tossed coins at him several times while he was parked in the taxi zone near the Trailways bus terminal, Pine Grove Avenue.

Wilson pleaded innocent before City Judge Aaron E. Klein Monday, and dismissal of the charge last night was based on insufficient information.

Three taximen, booked a few weeks ago on charges of illegally soliciting fares in the same area, were given suspended sentences. One of them also charged with disorderly conduct was given a suspended sentence and placed on probation for 30 days.

William Stapleburg, of West Hurley, charged with non-payment of wages, was given a suspended sentence of 90 days in jail and placed on six months probation.

A third degree assault charge against Jose Hernandez, of 12 Wiltwyck Avenue, was withdrawn. He was arrested on complaint of Thomas Long, of 10 Wiltwyck Avenue.

John Bonesteel, of 102 Hasbrouck Avenue, was fined $15 on a charge of speeding, and fined $5 each on red-light charges were Judson Harris, 59 Van Buren Street, and Vera Dailey, Sunset Drive, Port Ewen.

Fined $5 each on stop-sign charges were Francis Cahill, of Box 361, Tillson, and Abe Schulman, of Ulster Park.

Issued summonses early today on charges of driving with insufficient light were Clayton T. Kurthy, Monticello; Marie Bence, 184 Hurley Avenue, and Pearl Simmons, 25 Abeel Street.

Morris Kaplan, of Westbrook Place, was given summonses charging speeding and failure to report a change of address. Booked on red-light charges were Duke Jesse Fatherree, PO Box 447, Port Ewen; Chauncey James Cameron, 25 Shufeldt Street, and Martin A. Burke, 59, of 7 Staples Street.

Most of them are due in night court Feb. 24.

Board Asks Safety Engineer Advice About Sprinklers

The Greater Kingston Board of Education has made a formal request for a safety engineer to inspect the school system and make recommendations of installation of sprinklers, it was announced today by Robert O'Reilly, vice president of the board.

The request has gone to the firm which handles fire insurance for the local school district.

O'Reilly, acting in the absence of President Robert H. Herzog, explained that the insurance firm has been asked to recommend or furnish an inspector.

He will be requested to study the schools and make recommendations as to feasibility of sprinkler installation and the extent of such installation.

Paving Probe Is Recessed After Lawmaker Talks

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — An Erie County grand jury investigating alleged bribery in city paving contracts has recessed after hearing testimony from Rep. Thaddeus J. Dulski.

Dulski, a Democrat, was elected to Congress last November. He was a city councilman during 1954-56, the years under investigation. Many other councilmen and other city officials have also been called.

When he was subpoeaned two weeks ago, Dulski expressed the fear that the inquiry might turn into a political battle. After testifying Tuesday, however, he said he was "treated very nicely."

"They were very courteous and asked me questions that they had a perfect right to ask," he said.

Report Big Money Theft at Highland Central Tuesday

A large amount of cash was stolen from the office of the Highland Central School during the night.

Highland state police are investigating the theft which may involve as much as a thousand dollars. This estimate is unofficial, however. School authorities were still seeking this morning to determine how much cash was involved.

The money was kept in a closet with a special safety-lock door.

Sgt. E. E. Winkky told The Freeman that the door was opened by drilling and prying

Sgt. Linn Baker and Cpl. Al Chieco, BCI, are investigating.

Ashby Sentence May Be Held Up Till Report Given

There is a probability that sentence in the Edwin W. Ashby perjury case may not be imposed when the special session of Supreme Court convenes Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

It was reported today a probation report has been requested by Justice Henry Clay Greenberg on the defendant Ashby and that this report may take some time to prepare. Justice Greenberg could not be reached at his chambers here prior to press time.

Should the probation report be sought, and such a report is usually requested by any judge prior to imposing sentence on any defendant, there is every probability that an adjournment will be taken until some future date when the full probation office report is available to the court.

Ashby, found guilty of perjury, second degree, two counts, for alleged false statements made before the special grand jury investigating "kickbacks" in Ulster County, could be given up to a year imprisonment or a $500 fine or both under each of the charges.

Following the guilty verdict by the jury on Monday night the matter of sentencing was adjourned until Thursday at 10 a. m.

To Release . . .

ceived numerous mysterious calls by telephone after his visits to Kingston in connection with the probe.

Rowan was described by Tompkins as a "cooperative witness" in going over Buckley books and records. He made several visits to Kingston between September 15 and November 6 when he testified before the grand jury. Rowan was first contacted on September 11 by the local investigators.

"He was in our office at least twice before he went before the grand jury and answered all questions," Tompkins said. He described Rowan as cooperative but a witness who did not volunteer information.

No Credit for Buckley

"The information he gave us did not reflect any credit upon Buckley, his former employer," Tompkins said.

Paul Kirby, chief investigator for the Tompkins investigation, a former FBI agent, went to Troy with Rowan after his appearance before the grand jury on November 6 to be present if any telephone calls were received, Tompkins said.

The only call received that day was from a fellow employe with whom Rowan rode to his job in Schenectady.

Asked from whom the telephone calls had come on prior occasions, Senator Tompkins said, "from someone interested in the people under investigation here."

Made After Visits

These calls came after every visit to Kingston by Rowan and Tompkins said it appears as though Rowan was being watched and the telephones calls came as soon as he got back to Troy.

These telephone calls were "worrying" Rowan, Tompkins said, and that was why Chief Investigator Kirby was sent to Troy with Rowan that day. If the calls came in Kirby could evaluate them.

Asked if any other witness had received mysterious telephone calls, Tompkins said Rowan was the only one. Rowan told of these calls when he appeared here on November 6. Rowan said he had received many such calls but the prosecution told a Freeman reporter he could not disclose from whom the calls came except that it was "someone interested in the people under investigation here."

Casey was accompanied to Kingston by Detective Kenneth G. Fake, who has been assigned by the Rensselaer County sheriff's office to the district attorney's office.

Poison Spray Case Heard

On trial in County Court before County Judge Louis G. Bruhn and a jury is an action brought by Mollenhauer Brothers against the New York Central Railroad to recover for damage to a field of Birdfoot Trefoot which plaintiff alleges was damaged by poison spray.

Plaintiffs operate a farm of some 185 acres along the Wallkill Valley Tracks on Springtown Road in addition to their Rosendale farms. It is alleged the railroad company sprayed its right-of way with Herbeicide in August 1957, poisoning the hay crop on the 60 acre tract which is under cultivation.

William P. Curran appears for plaintiffs, who seek to recover $2,315, and Vincent G. Connelly appears for the defendant, New York Central Railroad Company.

Greenwald Proposes Travel Agents Convene Here in '60

The eight regional travel agency members of the American Society of Travel Agents convened in Kingston Tuesday night to discuss plans for the 1960 area convention. Included among the conferees were the Ellenville Travel Service, the Sullivan County Travel Service of Liberty, Embler Travel Service of Newburgh, the Card and Stoppini Agencies of Poughkeepsie, Columbia Travel of Hudson and the Greenwald Agency of this city.

It was pointed out that the 1959 convention in Saranac encompasses all ASTA agents in New York State exclusive of New York city, and all of the members in New England. Added to this group of some 150 active agents, allied members representing the airlines, steamship companies and related industries are expected to swell the total attendance to over 400 representatives.

Herbert Greenwald of the local agency pointed out the Kingston area could offer the conventioneers the full facilities that normally draw visitors to the Kingston area and would be available to the agents. State President Joel Epstein of Columbia Travel assured the agents that they could count on his support for a meeting in this general area but cautioned that the full cooperation of hotels, entertainment facilities, trapsportation organizations and Chambers of Commerce will be expected.

An ad hoc committee was appointed to discuss the matter and to report at the area convention in Saranac in early June. An interim meeting is to be held by the regional membership in the Ellenville area in mid-May in order that the full potential of southern New York State can be exploited.

Epstein, who had just come in from a meeting at the state capitol, advised that a bill is to be presented shortly to the legislature which will require licensing of travel agents. Since the bill is essentially for the public convenience and necessity of the traveling public and for the protection of legitmate and ethical travel agents, the state chapter's legislative committee will be in constant contact with the proponents of the bill.

The 350th Hudson-Champlain Celebration under the chairmanship of Senator Hatfield will have the full support of the American Society of Travel Agents. An advisory committee of agents has been appointed by Hatfield and ASTA members will be fully accredited to the commission. The agents were requested to give full and wholehearted support to this endeavor.

Prior to adjournment President Epstein advised that a school-on-the-road would be made available in late '59 visiting all the major South American republics. It will be open only to the accredited representatives of the active ASTA agencies in upper New York State and will follow the pattern established in the Caribbean training session of 1957.

Safety Council Is To Meet Thursday

A meeting of the Ulster County Safety Council will be held Thursday, 8 p. m., at the County Court House, Wall Street.

Members will meet in the Supervisors' Room.

Residents interested in learning about home safety and highway safety are urged to attend.

Topic of discussion for Thursday's meeting will be "Radar Speed Detection."

Know what "hedgepot" is? It is the ancient right of a tenant to cut wood to repair fences, but not for building purposes.

One Youth Held

duct charge after reported abusive talk to Officer Thomas Kearney near the Broadway Sweet Shop was Robert Harvey, 18, of 46 Broadway. He drew a suspended sentence and 90 days of probation when he appeared today before City Judge Aaron E. Klein.

Samuel A. Perry, 17, son of Fifth Ward Alderman Samuel J. Perry, 54 Abruyn Street, reported an injury of the left leg, and it was not clear today whether he was the victim of an assault by an unknown person, believed to be from Newburgh, or became involved in attempting to stop a fight between two others.

Refused to Quit

Officer Ira Hadsel, first on the scene of the trouble after the game in which Kingston lost 58-56 to Newburgh, reported wielding a nightstick when those fighting failed to "break it up" as he ordered, and it was later indicated that Perry might have been hit then.

M. Clifford Miller, local high school principal, said he had been told that only the one fight was involved although crowds had gathered in the area, and he said he was informed that the person reported hurt, had attempted to stop the fight.

Trouble At Half

Officer Hadsel reported some shoving and jostling when he made his way through the gathering to stop the fight, and he said, he had learned of some potential trouble during half time.

Principal Miller said when he was told of the gathering outside of the Kate Walton Field House after the game he called for additional police assistance to make sure that no further trouble started, and to assist Officer Hadsel.

Three patrol cars on duty were dispatched to the field house area with officers Ernest Bartroff, John Crespino, Meyer Levy, Francis Buchanan, Leonard Ellsworth, William Slover, George Dougherty, Sheldon O'Rourke and Edward Ortlieb.

Quieted Down

It was noted that everything had subsided by the time the other officers arrived.

Officer Hadsel, who was at the field house during the game, said there was no trouble then, but he later learned of the attempted rumpus at half time, when some shoving and threats of fighting were reported.

When told there was fighting outside the field house, Hadsel said, he pushed his way through the crowd and found two in a fight on the ground. He was being shoved around, he said, and when they failed to stop as ordered, he wielded the night stick in the direction of the one on top. They then got up and left the area.

Hadsel said he later met Perry at the Trailways Restaurant, central Broadway. The latter reported being involved in the fight and said his left leg was swollen below the kneecap. Perry gave a statement at police headquarters.

Statements indicated that the same unknown person involved in the fight, and believed to be from Newburgh, had been the one who had been pushing and shoving and apparently attempting to start a fight at half time.

Robert Harvey, who was arrested by Officer Kearney on the disorderly conduct charge, after refusing to move on as ordered, police reported, had said to Kearney something to the effect that all the police were doing was going around and arresting teenagers. He had been with a group, but apparently the others had moved on as ordered.

Widely Scattered

Algae, primitive water-loving plants, have been found growing in such widely scattered areas as the ice and snow above the Arctic Circle and in hot springs where the water reaches a temperature of 200 degrees Fahrenheit.

Negroes Appear But Whites Stay AwayFromSchool

FRONT ROYAL, Va. (AP) — Twenty-two Negro children but not a white child showed up for enrollment today as Warren County High School reopened after five months' closure.

The Negro youngsters arrived in groups of three and four, and walked slowly up the hill to the entrance.

A few townspeople, some white children of school age, gathered but no words were spoken to the Negro children.

Police had set up barricades at the entrance and allowed no one except the pupils on the grounds. Two policemen manned the gates, others were at the top of the hill fronting the school. Sheriff's deputies and state police were stationed along the street leading to the school.

As each child passed through the barricade, his name was checked by Warren County's school supervisor, Brent Sandidge.

The first group arrived only 15 minutes before registration was to begin for classes starting Thursday. Within the next 10 minutes the other 18 had arrived, three or four to a car. None came on buses.

The group of 22 included 10 boys and 12 girls.

Work Measurement Subject for Engineers

Dr. Adam Abruzzi will address the Mid-Huson Chapter, American Institute of Industrial Engineers on the subject, "Work Measurement." The dinner meeting will begin at 6:30 p. m. Thursday at the Nelson House, Poughkeepsie. The program will commence at 7:45 p. m.

Dr. Abruzzi received his PhD and Master's Degree in Industrial Engineering from Columbia University and his BS from Harvard College. He is a professor in the Department of Industrial Engineering at Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N. J. He has 10 years of industrial experience, served as a labor arbitrator and is a member of the Institute of Mathematical Statistics, American Society of Quality Control, American Statistical Association, and AIIE.

"Work Measurement — New Principles and Procedures," May, 1952 and "Work, Workers and Work Measurement," October, 1956, Columbia University Press, were written by Dr. Abruzzi. In addition, he has written and presented before technical societies numerous papers on work measurement and productivity.

Reports Low Bids

NEW YORK (AP) — The Army Engineers district office announced Tuesday an apparent low bid of $135,819 on an Army Reserve Corps armory at Massena and $108,962 for one at Canton.

Both bids were submitted by the Louis Gressani Contractors Inc., of Syracuse.

Reception to Open Hurley Year of History Feb. 22

Next Sunday, Feb. 22 at 2 p. m., General George Washington will visit Hurley again. A reenactment of that historic event which took place in November 1782 will be staged by the Hurley Lions Club, and will be followed by a reception for all the townspeople in the gymnasium of the Hurley School. This will launch Hurley's participation in New York State's Year of History.

Two Short Talks

Harry Rigby Jr., of the Governor's Committee for the Hudson-Champlain Festival, and Frederic Snyder, world traveler and lecturer, will make short addresses. Refreshments will be served, including Washington's favorite cake and jumbles made from old recipes preserved by the local family who served them to Washington during his 1782 trip. Entertainment will be provided by the Hurley Festival Chorus singing three songs of the Revolutionary period.

The story goes that on the drizzling cold morning of November 16, 1782, Washington with his escort, approached Hurley from the direction of Marbletown. Following the surrender of Cornwallis, he had gathered the remnants of his colonial forces in cantonments on the high ground back of Newburgh in a strategic spot to watch Sir Henry Clinton and his army in New York and to protect the Hudson, his source of supplies. While awaiting news of the signing of the preliminary treaty of peace in Paris, Washington "went back into the country to the Delaware River and then came down the Rondout Valley, visiting the principal settlements to allay a feeling of unrest among the people and to solicit aid" for his poorly fed and ill paid army, as Brink describes it in Olde Ulster.

As he approached Hurley on the morning of November 16, Sheriff Egbert Dumond and Matthew Ten Eyck, president of the Ulster County Committee of Safety and also of the Trustees of the Freeholders of Hurley went out to meet him accompanied by an enthusiastic crowd. Few Tories were here. Hurley Dutchmen had been actively resisting English domination for a hundred years.

As Washington, a vigorous 50 years of age, continued with his escort and the cheering throng through Hurley Street the women and children watched smiling from the doorways. At the end of the street at a tavern now known as the Houghtaling house, President Ten Eyck took refuge under the Dutch stoop of the tavern and delivered the welcoming address to Washington who remained seated on his horse, bareheaded in the rain.

Spoke in English

Although Dutch was spoken in Hurley until after the Civil War, Ten Eyck, out of deference to Washington spoke in English, it is said, but with so heavy a Dutch accent as to be almost incomprehensible. The boys who probably didn't understand a word, wandered off to the cornfield across the street where they busied themselves making trombones from the dried pumpkin vines left after the harvest. When the ceremonies were over and Washington at last entered the tavern for what must have been a much needed warming by the firs, the boys lined up on the stone wall across the street and played a little serenade. It is told that Washington was pleased with their efforts and had the boys called into the tavern where he gave each a sip of wine from his own glass.

The public cordially invited to witness this reenactment history.. The reception, which will follow in the gymnasium of the Hurley school however, is planned for residents of Hurley only.

SWEETY PIE — By Nadine Seltzer

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Mention of the boiler which jumped over Stock and Cordts Building and landing in Weston's Laundry, lower Broadway, in December of 1905 brought interesting response. John Burns, formerly of 42 Post Street saw the boiler land in the laundry building. At that time he was seven or younger and so he did not remember much more. His interest at the time was in seeing some pictures Bobby Weston had. It seems Bobby would not let Johnny see the pictures. Johnny fortunately went home to complain and the whole boiler sailed over Broadway and landed in the laundry, just about where little Johnny might have been looking at those pictures in Weston's living room with Bobby and Louis Weber. Details of this incident can be found in the Dec. 21 Freeman of 1905 on page 12.

Received an interesting article on the ice harvest from H. LeRoy Gill, attorney at law of Kingston which appears in full in another column. In the Feb. 14, 1959 Saturday Evening Post there is a two page, color spread of ice harvesting as it is still done in New Hampshire. One can see the motorized ice saws in the background. I see the same old fashioned ice hooks which were used by the men on the Skillypot and Big Ferry or Transport to push ice masses away from the ferries. This picture is from Lake Sunapee, N. H. Smith's natural ice business is one of the few left in the nation. He puts 1300 tons of ice under sawdust in his ice house for the summer hotel business. He employs some dozen men to harvest the ice.

If one wants to see more on the ice harvesting in this section years ago, you can look in "Picturesque Ulster" City of Kingston, book 3. This was published by Styles and Bruyn in Kingston around 1896. You will see how they cleared the ice fields with horses and man power. I notice they did not wear work clothes as we know it today. Some are dressed in derby hats and even have gold watch chains. They also show plowing of ice. In one is seen a laughing youngster near a horse. A man is holding an old-fashioned ice marker. They show the long canal and the short canal, and men with long sticks and hooks pushing the cakes along. The ice elevator is there in action and the icehouse, and the men are seen feeding the elevator. All a part of an industry now long gone.

I see in Picturesque Ulster, page 77, the residence of James J. Sweeney, corner of Spring and Wurts Street where Bob Steele and his family live now. E. Sweeney and Son were one of the largest dealers in bluestone. Sweeney and Donovan were established back in 1860. There are several good photos of Sweeney's stoneyard and mill, no wonder that residence was made of such fine bluestone. It was known also as the Bluestone Inn. I see back in the 1890's there are no houses on the south side or back of the residence. It stands all by itself on the top of the hill, with no doubt an excellent view of the Hudson river and creek. In olden days those who could afford to buy a lot and build their own house, I notice always built where they could get an impressive view of the Hudson River.

Shokan

SHOKAN — New York City people calling in the hub of the reservoir country Saturday included Robert Green and Jack Lathrop who have a summer place on Route 212 near Willow.

Members of Olive Post 1627, American Legion, will hold their 12th annual dinner Saturday, at Lang's Harmony Acres, West Shokan. Robert Burgher is chairman of the dinner committee.

Elizabeth Keiler of the Back Brook sector of Boiceville was in Shokan Saturday. Miss Keiler has office employment with a Kingston automobile agency.

Craig Brener who graduated from Onteora Central School last year is now serving with the armed forces in Germany.

Frank Barclay who resided in the Albany area for many years, has returned to this section and is boarding at the Sarah Heiser home on the Ashokan mountain road. Barclay's boyhood years were spent on the family farm which is now part of the Pitcairn holdings on the southerly slope of Tonchi Mountain.

Sunday callers in the village center included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Freer, Port Ewen couple who have a camp and 36 acres in the upper Woodland Valley.

Having a birthday Wednesday, Feb. 18, is Joseph Suarez, a student at Union College. He attended the Olive Bridge School and is a Kingston High School alumnus.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Taylor are new occupants of the Ashokan dwelling which for several years was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cook.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Darrow and children, Hurley, were recent callers at the local free museum.

Mrs. Sam Sperling, the former Edna Oakley of Shokan, is reportedly a patient at a Kingston hospital.

Harry Stoutenburgh, Ulster County's famed violin maker, and wife were in town Sunday. He reports finding it increasingly difficult to locate the curly and birdseye maple he uses in his instruments.

Mad at World Wife Says of Mate Who Slays Pair

PONELL JOHNSON

NEW YORK (AP) — "Someday you're going to see my name in the headlines—one of the greatest artists in the world," Ponell Johnson, 27, told fellow employes.

Part of the prophecy came true Tuesday.

Johnson, fired from his job as a shipping clerk in a Manhattan textile firm, flew into a murderous rage and shot two pretty office receptionists to death.

Held for Homicide

He was held today on a homicide charge.

"He was mad at the whole world," sobbed his wife Mercedes, 24, mother of his five daughters. "He has a terrible temper. Once he gets angry he is uncontrollable."

For Johnson, the shootings were the climax of a young life tortured by wild ambition. Johnson, a Negro, considered himself an unrecognized genius whose weird paintings would bring him fame and fortune. Scorn infuriated him.

"They laughed at my paintings," he said of the two slain girls, Lorraine Rosenberg, 20, and Elaine Fallik, 18, who worked in his office.

Beatnik Type

A beatnik type, Johnson wore a beret and carried an orange-and-black striped cane.

When he was fired he took his discharge pay, went to a pawn shop and bought a hunting rifle and 50 cartridges. He returned to the office and fired twice—then the gun jammed. Three company executives disarmed him.

"If that damned gun hadn't jammed I'd have killed them all," he said. "I'd have killed and killed and killed."

Forecasts Higher Fluid Milk Price

WHITNEY POINT, N. Y. (AP) —A dairy industry economist predicted today an improvement in the prices farmers will receive for fluid milk this year.

Dr. Emerson Babb, associate economist for the Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative, said the higher prices would result from lower milk production and higher consumption in 1959 than in 1958.

Babb's remarks were in a talk prepared for delivery during a meeting of dairy farmers at Whitney Point in Broome County.

J. H. Worley, supervisor of the field staff of Eastern, urged farmers to contribute financially to the proposed milk market development program for increasing fluid milk sales.

Carl Yerry Delivered New Fire Chief's Car

Carl J. Yerry of 62 Plymouth Avenue, sales manager of Ber Van Motors, 450 East Chester Street, delivered the new fire chief's car to Chief James M. Brett Monday.

It was erroneously reported in Tuesday's Freeman that delivery was made by Carl Young.

The new car replaces a 1951 model formerly used by Chief Brett.

'Right to Work' Plan Becomes Dead Issue

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP)—A proposed "right to work" constitutional amendment is a dead issue in the 24th New Mexico Legislature.

Atty. Gen. Frank Zinn ruled Tuesday that the tie-breaking vote cast by Lt. Gov. Ed V. Mead when the Senate approved the measure 17-16 Friday was invalid and the resolution thus was not adopted.

Later in the day the House postponed indefinitely consideration of a similar resolution. This had the effect of killing it.

The resolution would have prohibited employers from requiring membership or non-membership in a labor union as a condition of employment.

Jaycees Hear Talk On Atomic Power, And Electricity

Participation by the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. in basic atomic research and in the development of atomic power for the generation of electricity were discussed at a meeting of the New Paltz Junior Chamber of Commerce this week.

Charles Moehrke, of the Central Hudson public relations staff, was guest speaker and presented a film, "The Atom Comes to Town."

The utility firm has no plans for building an atomic generating plant in the near future due to present high costs, Moehrke said, but when costs reductions are made on the present method of producing electricity from atomic energy to compete with current conventional generation methods, Central Hudson would then probably convert to atomic energy.

Two Members Inducted

Eldon Johnson, president of the Jaycees, inducted Ronald Davidson and Randolph Seigel into membership during the meeting.

Thomas Benenati, chairman of the high school senior essay contest reported that a film, "The Two-Wheeler Bike," will be shown in the New Paltz High School during the week to provide students with background information before writing their essays. Awards will be presented by the Jaycees to the winners.

The Jaycees voted to send a representative to each regular meeting of the town board, village board and school board. A roster will be prepared by Gilbert Clough and members will attend these meetings on a rotational basis.

A report will be submitted to the general membership at each regular Jaycee meeting. Monthly meeting dates have been changed from the third Monday to the second Monday of each month in order that a Jaycee representative may attend school board meetings.

Named Chairmen

The president appointed Joseph Farrell membership chairman and James Ashton chairman of the Hudson-Champlain celebration committee. Ralph Dennis, Randolph Seigel, Benenati and Davison will serve on the committee.

Dennis was appointed chairman of the "Boss' Night" program scheduled at the April membership meeting. Following the business session, John Gibbons and Charles Wright presented an orientation program on the duties and functions of committees in Jaycee work.

Milton Man Hurt In 9W Accident

Frank Lefaro, 67, of Milton, was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, Tuesday evening with minor injuries suffered in a collision between a passenger car and tractor-trailer on Route 9W near Marlboro.

Sgt. E. E. Winkky of the Highland state police said the tractor-trailer, owned by Auto Conveying Co., Mahwah, N. J., operated by Floyd Hyatt of Paterson, N. J., was parked on the west side of the highway at the time, without lights.

The passenger car, owned by Shell Oil Co. of Albany, operated by Richard E. Anderson of Albany, was passing the parked truck, pulling close to it to avoid oncoming traffic, when the front of the car struck the rear of the tractor-trailer.

Hyatt was issued a summons on a parking violation returnable before Justice of the Peace John McCourt of Marlboro.

Troopers James Kaljian and J. R. Metzinger investigated.

After Second Trial

Sosa Blanco Is Executed Today By Cuban Rebels

HAVANA (AP) — A revolutionary firing squad executed ex-Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco early today as a major war criminal inside hushed La Cabana Fortress.

The 51-year-old career officer in ex-President Fulgencio Batista's army went to his death calmly in a quiet setting—a stark contrast to his original trial in the brassy Havana Sports Arena.

Branded Mass Murderer

The terse government announcement that the execution had been carried out 16 minutes after midnight gave no indication whether the veteran soldier had got his last wish—the right to give the order to fire.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro had branded Sosa Blanco a mass murderer and virtually demanded his death. The unofficial total of executions carried out by the revolutionary regime now is 303.

Sosa Blanco got a fleeting lease on life—and a second trial—after the carnival atmosphere of his first trial Jan. 23 brought adverse criticism from abroad. The same three-man tribunal tried him again, this time in a quiet courtroom, and came up Tuesday with the same guilty verdict.

Challenges L-A Countries

On the diplomatic front, Cuba directly challenged three Latin American countries which Castro charges are oppressed by dictatorships.

Foreign Minister Roberto Agramonte said that Cuba would withdraw from the Organization of American States if Paraguay, Nicaragua and the Dominican Republic remain members.

The OAS is a regional group embracing all 20 Latin American republics and the United States.

Governor Plans

seem higher than they actually are and more onerous."

He made one public plea for support for his budget on a television program Feb. 2, the day he unveiled it. He said at the time he planned no further television appeals.

But a tidal wave of opposition has developed and Rockefeller told the new conference it was time to "talk to the people directly again."

He said leaders of the Republican-controlled Legislature had given him no indication on whether they could put his program through the Legislature without substantial cuts.

Cool to Easing Boosts

The governor showed no enthusiasm for one plan GOP leaders have been considering to ease the income-tax boost. This would give married couples a $20 credit on joint returns instead of the $10 allowance in the governor's plan.

Rockefeller said his tax program distributed the increase evenly but a change in credits would "throw it off by a very substantial margin."

The governor said he was very sympathetic to people who did not want to pay taxes. But he suggested that many of the letters of complaint had come from people who had been dodging taxes. His income tax plan calls for collecting through a withholding system.

The governor will make 15-minute telecasts Thursday at 6:45 p.m. on WCBS and at 11 p. m. on the statewide ABC network. On Friday, he will appear on the ABC network from 6:30 to 6:45.

Rockefeller also will appear Sunday on "Citizens Union Searchlight," from 11 to 11:30 a. m.

The programs will originate in New York City.

Mother, Son Are Victims of Fire

GARDEN CITY, N. Y. (AP)—A woman and her 12-year-old son died in a fire which swept the upper floors of their fashionable Long Island home before dawn today.

The charred body of Mrs. Florence Williams, '55, was found on her bed.

The body of her son, Richard, was found in a hallway where he had crawled from his second-floor bedroom near his mother's. The boy apparently died of asphyxiation.

The head of the family, P. Morgan Williams, a vice president of the Home Insurance Co., New York City, was notified at the Edgewater Beach Hotel, Chicago, where he was on a business trip.

Cause of the fire was not determined.

Welfare Appeal Denied

NEW YORK (AP) — The State Board of Social Welfare has denied an appeal of a decision to withhold $700,000 in reimbursements to Oneida County.

The board upheld a decision by the State Department of Social Welfare, which cut off reimbursements to the county welfare department's medical care programs Jan. 1.

The department said then that the county medical care program was inefficient and lacked proper medical direction and supervision.

The board ruled Tuesday that the money would be withheld until the county medical care program is brought into accordance with applicable regulations.

2 Workers Hurt At Danskammer

Two employes of a New York City contractor excavating on the water intake channel at Central Hudson's Danskammer Point Steam Station just north of Newburgh suffered injuries Tuesday afternoon when a half stick of dynamite accidentally discharged.

Thomas Smith, 45, of Newburgh, was taken to St. Luke's Hospital with eye injuries.

His helper, Robert Lynn, also of Newburgh, reportedly suffered minor chest bruises.

It was reported that Smith's right eye was injured but that there would be no impairment of vision. Extent of injuries to his left eye is still undetermined.

They are employes of the Poirier McLean Construction Co. which has been doing excavation work on a water intake channel to remove additional rock.

As the story was pieced together, Smith, a licensed blaster, inserted a half stick of dynamite with a cap into a four-inch hole. The cap was wired at the time but not connected.

In the process of tamping the hole, after the dynamite had been covered with earth, it fired for no apparent reason.

Investigation of the mishap is being continued by the contractor.

It was reported that explosive experts have been called into the investigation.

Thrilled About First Election

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—The new thrill of election fever gripped Nepal today as the little Himalayan kingdom between India and Red-ruled Tibet began voting for a Parliament for the first time in history.

Hundreds of banners flapped over the narrow streets winding among Katmandu's centuries' old Buddhist temples.

Posters of Nepal's nine political parties and hundreds of independent candidates dotted walls and fences.

It is a slow motion election with only 18 of the 109 House of Representatives seats at stake the first day. Eight more will be voted on Feb. 22, and 16 additional voting days are due before the House is completed April 2. Half the members of an upper house will be chosen by the House of Representatives and half by King Mahendra.

The West, the Communists and neutral India are watching the elections closely, concerned over the possibility of any policy changes in the buffer state. A half dozen Red correspondents representing major East European newspapers and news agencies are on hand. Also present is a 10-man economic delegation from Moscow, which arrived Feb. 2 with a strategic offer of aid but which apparently got a snub for its pains.

Many observers believed the Soviets hoped to assist Communist candidates by announcing the loan in advance of the election. But the delegation was left cooling its heels while the government concentrated on election plans.

Nepal's Communists, with 70 candidates in the field, predicted they would win the biggest block of seats. Many observers felt confident they would place no more than 10.

Satellite Sending

indicated the satellite, dubbed Vanguard II, makes a complete orbit of the earth every 125.9 minutes.

Although Vanguard II marks only a preliminary step in utilizing satellites for weather observation, Dr. Richard Porter, head of the U.S. satellite panel for the International Geophysical Year, called it "the beginning of a new era in weather research."

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices churned irregularly in slackened trading early this afternoon.

Gains and losses of fractions to about a point peppered the list of key stocks.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) dropped about a point.

General Motors dropped a fraction. White Motor was up 3 points or more.

Studebaker-Packard and Divco-Wayne were fractionally higher.

General Tire rose more than 2.

Eastman Kodak gained more than a point. Colgate-Palmolive added a fraction.

U.S. Pipe & Foundry dropped ⅜.

Thiokol dropped about 2.

Texas Co. was off around a point. Royal Dutch was fractionally higher. Standard of Indiana was firm. Lorillard, Westinghouse Electric and Johns-Manville rose about a point each. Pfizer and American Can lost a point or more.

U.S. government bonds cut early gains.

Vols Schedule Convention Meal On July 23 Date

A most interesting and educational demonstration of an electronic resuscitator was given at the monthly meeting of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association Tuesday night. Chief Lawson Upright of Gardiner explained its operation and gave a practical demonstration of the Batronic resuscitator, showing his device could be carried as emergency equipment by ambulances or fire equipment.

The meeting of the Association was held at the Common Council chambers in the City Hall where the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association acted as host. Attending was over 150 members representing 32 fire companies of the county.

In Three Churches

It was announced the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association convention dinner would be held Thursday, July 23, at 6 p. m. in three churches in the Rosendale area. Members will be entertained at dinner at Tillson Reformed Church, the Rosendale Reformed Church and St. Peter's of Rosendale. Reservations may be made through any member of the Rosendale committee. The final date for reservations will be announced at the March meeting of the county association.

The parade to be held in conjunction with the annual convention will be held at 5 p. m. Saturday, July 25, and the line of march will be from Tillson firehouse to Rosendale where the parade will disband at Sportsmen's Park.

In the demonstration of the electronically operated resuscitator, Chief Upright told the firemen the equipment could be carried in any ambulance and operated from the 12 volt battery of the vehicle, obtaining power from the car generator, or it could be operated from any 110 volt house current, if available. The resuscitator may also be operated from any portable generator which has an output of 150 watts.

Weighs 42 Pounds

Weighing only 42 pounds the equipment can be put into operation in a matter of seconds and is simple and safe to operate. Its use was demonstrated on several firemen at the demonstration.

Following the business meeting the firemen were served refreshments at Central Fire Station.

The next meeting will be on March 17 when the Association will be the guest of the Town of Plattekill and Gardiner Fire Companies. That meeting will be held in the municipal building at Modena.

Move 2 Rosendale

ward to supply space for the flood wall. Below the Route 32 bridge, a levee 1,500 feet long would extend to high ground on the right bank. The river side of the levee would be riprapped.

A closure structure would be placed across each end of the Route 32 bridge to close the gap btween the upstream and downstream flood works. The channel of Rondout Creek would be cleared and excavated for a distance of about 2,400 feet below the Route 32 bridge. The width of the excavation will be 180 feet at the bridge and narrow to 110 feet for most of the length.

Would Fill Channel

A channel branching to the left just below the Route 32 bridge would be filled to prevent erosion along the road to Creek Locks. Interior damage would be provided by ponding areas and culverts to take care of the complicated drainage pattern.

A ponding area would be located on each side of the abandoned D&H canal to collect interior drainage from the left bank. The pending areas would discharge into the Rondout Creek through culverts. Two buildings on the site of one of the ponding areas would have to be removed.

On the right bank, a ponding area at the downstream end of the levee would collect interior drainage and discharge it into the Rondout Creek. One dwelling on this site would have to be removed.

A small brook at the upstream end of the flood wall flows under James Street into the stream. A small closure wall and levee would be provided to prevent flooding the protected area through this brook from back water during high states on the Rondout Creek. All outlets from ponding areas would be controlled by automatic drainage gates and sluice gates.

Heaps Praise On Aide

As he did last week, Eisenhower heaped praise on the ailing Dulles. The President called him his closest friend and confidant in the government. There is no equal, Eisenhower said, to Dulles' wisdom and knowledge in the foreign affairs field.

Eisenhower replied with a blunt no when asked whether he has been giving any thought to having someone else represent the United States at the proposed East-West foreign ministers conference on Berlin.

Collections Will

his entire net income.

The law specified that non-residents employed in the state also would have to pay.

The first returns were filed the following April 15. A total of 745,355 taxpayers paid $34,641,771. By 1929, collections were up to $83,000,000.

The depression stagged the New York economy and, by 1933, income tax revenue dropped to $29,883,000 from 418,556 taxpayers, 4 per cent of the population.

But the tax rallied with the economy. In 1941, the state collected $115,965,759 from 861,738 taxpayers.

Picks Up Steam

The war boom picked up steam. Payrolls expanded. More and more persons paid income taxes. The state had more than enough money to pay its bills and build reserves.

In this prosperous atmosphere, the state trimmed income taxes 25 per cent. Tax collections still soared and in 1945, the cut was increased to 50 per cent.

The reductions were made by allowing a so-called credit, not by any change in rates. The taxpayer figured out what he would owe under the basic rates and then paid half that amount.

Two Political Advantages

The credit system had two political advantages.

It created an atmosphere of official generosity. The taxpayer first arrived at a higher figure then halved it. The same psychology is used in advertisements that read: "Regular price $100! Our price $50!"

Second, the credit method made it easier to restore taxes to higher levels without too much adverse reaction.

If the state had cut rates in half, it would have said: "Now you only owe me 50 cents instead of a dollar."

But a credit carries the generous message: "You still owe me a dollar but you only have to pay 50 cents."

A rate increase would be a harsh statement: "You owed me 50 cents last time but now it's raised to 60 cents." A revision of a credit is more gentle: "You still owe me a dollar but this year the payment is only 60 cents."

In this way, the 50 per cent credit was gradually eliminated. This meant the tax rate actually has doubled since 1945 although it was unchanged officially.

Total Collections Soar

By 1955, the tax was back to the 100 per cent level. There were small credits in 1956 and 1957 but the full amount was asked for 1958 payments on 1957 income.

Despite the credits and cutbacks, total collections have soared. Payments rose from $115,965,750 in 1941 to $262,915,862 in 1950 and $367,465,507 in 1955. This year, the administration plans to collect $640,000,000 from 5,000,000 taxpayers.

Gov. Rockefeller is being bombarded with criticism, suggestions, alternatives and even insults.

Easier in 1840

The decisions were easier in 1840, when Gov. William Seward, could say of New York State in regard to new tax proposals:

"Her income is suffient for her wants without taxation. The value of her productive property is double the debt she owes. Her surplus income is double the debt she is required to pay and the revenue of her canals, if judiciously managed, will be adequate to every enterprise which the interests of the people demand."

Precious Metals Abound in Ocean, Scientist Reports

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The ocean bottoms are strewn with deposits of manganese and cobalt so rich they pobably could break the world market in those metals if they were mined on even a modest scale, a scientist reported today.

The metals are contained in black rock-like formations about the size of billiard balls and are pretty uniformly scattered over the ocean floors, he said.

Existence of these formations has been known for 75 years, but their abundance and the amount of metals they contain were determined only recently, said Dr. Roger R. Revelle, director of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography.

Dr. Revelle gave an evaluation of the deposits as made by investigators at Scripps and the University of California at Berkeley.

The assays indicated, Dr. Revelle said, that if these formations were dredged up from the depths at the rate of 5,000 tons a day and processed, they would yield enough metal to augment the U.S. manganese supply by 25 per cent and the cobalt supply by 125 per cent. The U.S. produces only 10 per cent of its manganese needs. The rest comes from imports.

Manganese is much used as an ingredient to make steel tough and is widely utilized as a component of many alloys. Cobalt is used in making special steels and in glass and as a coloring material.

Mad at World Wife Says of Mate Who Slays Pair

PONELL JOHNSON

NEW YORK (AP) — "Someday you're going to see my name in the headlines—one of the greatest artists in the world," Ponell Johnson, 27, told fellow employes.

Part of the prophecy came true Tuesday.

Johnson, fired from his job as a shipping clerk in a Manhattan textile firm, flew into a murderous rage and shot two pretty office receptionists to death.

Held for Homicide

He was held today on a homicide charge.

"He was mad at the whole world," sobbed his wife Mercedes, 24, mother of his five daughters. "He has a terrible temper. Once he gets angry he is uncontrollable."

For Johnson, the shootings were the climax of a young life tortured by wild ambition. Johnson, a Negro, considered himself an unrecognized genius whose weird paintings would bring him fame and fortune. Scorn infuriated him.

"They laughed at my paintings," he said of the two slain girls, Lorraine Rosenberg, 20, and Elaine Fallik, 18, who worked in his office.

Beatnik Type

A beatnik type, Johnson wore a beret and carried an orange-and-black striped cane.

When he was fired he took his discharge pay, went to a pawn shop and bought a hunting rifle and 50 cartridges. He returned to the office and fired twice—then the gun jammed. Three company executives disarmed him.

"If that damned gun hadn't jammed I'd have killed them all," he said. "I'd have killed and killed and killed."

Forecasts Higher Fluid Milk Price

WHITNEY POINT, N. Y. (AP) —A dairy industry economist predicted today an improvement in the prices farmers will receive for fluid milk this year.

Dr. Emerson Babb, associate economist for the Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative, said the higher prices would result from lower milk production and higher consumption in 1959 than in 1958.

Babb's remarks were in a talk prepared for delivery during a meeting of dairy farmers at Whitney Point in Broome County.

J. H. Worley, supervisor of the field staff of Eastern, urged farmers to contribute financially to the proposed milk market development program for increasing fluid milk sales.

Carl Yerry Delivered New Fire Chief's Car

Carl J. Yerry of 62 Plymouth Avenue, sales manager of Ber Van Motors, 450 East Chester Street, delivered the new fire chief's car to Chief James M. Brett Monday.

It was erroneously reported in Tuesday's Freeman that delivery was made by Carl Young.

The new car replaces a 1951 model formerly used by Chief Brett.

'Right to Work' Plan Becomes Dead Issue

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP)—A proposed "right to work" constitutional amendment is a dead issue in the 24th New Mexico Legislature.

Atty. Gen. Frank Zinn ruled Tuesday that the tie-breaking vote cast by Lt. Gov. Ed V. Mead when the Senate approved the measure 17-16 Friday was invalid and the resolution thus was not adopted.

Later in the day the House postponed indefinitely consideration of a similar resolution. This had the effect of killing it.

The resolution would have prohibited employers from requiring membership or non-membership in a labor union as a condition of employment.

Jaycees Hear Talk On Atomic Power, And Electricity

Participation by the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. in basic atomic research and in the development of atomic power for the generation of electricity were discussed at a meeting of the New Paltz Junior Chamber of Commerce this week.

Charles Moehrke, of the Central Hudson public relations staff, was guest speaker and presented a film, "The Atom Comes to Town.

The utility firm has no plans for building an atomic generating plant in the near future due to present high costs, Moehrke said, but when costs reductions are made on the present method of producing electricity from atomic energy to compete with current conventional generation methods, Central Hudson would then probably convert to atomic energy.

Two Members Inducted

Eldon Johnson, president of the Jaycees, inducted Ronald Davidson and Randolph Seigel into membership during the meeting.

Thomas Benenati, chairman of the high school senior essay contest reported that a film, "The Two-Wheeler Bike," will be shown in the New Paltz High School during the week to provide students with background information before writing their essays. Awards will be presented by the Jaycees to the winners.

The Jaycees voted to send a representative to each regular meeting of the town board, village board and school board. A roster will be prepared by Gilbert Clough and members will attend these meetings on a rotational basis.

A report will be submitted to the general membership at each regular Jaycee meeting. Monthly meeting dates have been changed from the third Monday to the second Monday of each month in order that a Jaycee representative may attend school board meetings.

Named Chairmen

The president appointed Joseph Farrell membership chairman and James Ashton chairman of the Hudson-Champlain celebration committee. Ralph Dennis, Randolph Seigel, Benenati and Davison will serve on the committee.

Dennis was appointed chairman of the "Boss' Night" program scheduled at the April membership meeting. Following the business session, John Gibbons and Charles Wright presented an orientation program on the duties and functions of committees in Jaycee work.

Milton Man Hurt In 9W Accident

Frank Lefaro, 67, of Milton, was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, Tuesday evening with minor injuries suffered in a collision between a passenger car and tractor-trailer on Route 9W near Marlboro.

Sgt. E. E. Winkky of the Highland state police said the tractor-trailer, owned by Auto Conveying Co., Mahwah, N. J., operated by Floyd Hyatt of Paterson, N. J., was parked on the west side of the highway at the time, without lights.

The passenger car, owned by Shell Oil Co. of Albany, operated by Richard E. Anderson of Albany, was passing the parked truck, pulling close to it to avoid oncoming traffic, when the front of the car struck the rear of the tractor-trailer.

Hyatt was issued a summons on a parking violation returnable before Justice of the Peace John McCourt of Marlboro.

Troopers James Kaljian and J. R. Metzinger investigated.

After Second Trial

Sosa Blanco Is Executed Today By Cuban Rebels

HAVANA (AP) — A revolutionary firing squad executed ex-Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco early today as a major war criminal inside hushed La Cabana Fortress.

The 51-year-old career officer in ex-President Fulgencio Batista's army went to his death calmly in a quiet setting—a stark contrast to his original trial in the brassy Havana Sports Arena.

Branded Mass Murderer

The terse government announcement that the execution had been carried out 16 minutes after midnight gave no indication whether the veteran soldier had got his last wish—the right to give the order to fire.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro had branded Sosa Blanco a mass murderer and virtually demanded his death. The unofficial total of executions carried out by the revolutionary regime now is 303.

Sosa Blanco got a fleeting lease on life—and a second trial—after the carnival atmosphere of his first trial Jan. 23 brought adverse criticism from abroad. The same three-man tribunal tried him again, this time in a quiet courtroom, and came up Tuesday with the same guilty verdict.

Governor Plans

seem higher than they actually are and more onerous."

He made one public plea for support for his budget on a television program Feb. 2, the day he unveiled it. He said at the time he planned no further television appeals.

But a tidal wave of opposition has developed and Rockefeller told the new conference it was time to "talk to the people directly again."

He said leaders of the Republican-controlled Legislature had given him no indication on whether they could put his program through the Legislature without substantial cuts.

Cool to Easing Boosts

The governor showed no enthusiasm for one plan GOP leaders have been considering to ease the income-tax boost. This would give married couples a $20 credit on joint returns instead of the $10 allowance in the governor's plan.

Rockefeller said his tax program distributed the increase evenly but a change in credits would "throw it off by a very substantial margin."

The governor said he was very sympathetic to people who did not want to pay taxes. But he suggested that many of the letters of complaint had come from people who had been dodging taxes. His income tax plan calls for collecting through a withholding system.

The governor will make 15-minute telecasts Thursday at 6:45 p.m. on WCBS and at 11 p. m. on the statewide ABC network. On Friday, he will appear on the ABC network from 6:30 to 6:45.

Rockefeller also will appear Sunday on "Citizens Union Searchlight," from 11 to 11:30 a. m.

The programs will originate in New York City.

Mother, Son Are Victims of Fire

GARDEN CITY, N. Y. (AP)—A woman and her 12-year-old son died in a fire which swept the upper floors of their fashionable Long Island home before dawn today.

The charred body of Mrs. Florence Williams, 55, was found on her bed.

The body of her son, Richard, was found in a hallway where he had crawled from his second-floor bedroom near his mother's. The boy apparently died of asphyxiation.

The head of the family, P. Morgan Williams, a vice president of the Home Insurance Co., New York City, was notified at the Edgewater Beach Hotel, Chicago, where he was on a business trip.

Cause of the fire was not determined.

Welfare Appeal Denied

NEW YORK (AP) — The State Board of Social Welfare has denied an appeal of a decision to withhold $700,000 in reimbursements to Oneida County.

The board upheld a decision by the State Department of Social Welfare, which cut off reimbursements to the county welfare department's medical care programs Jan. 1.

The department said then that the county medical care program was inefficient and lacked proper medical direction and supervision.

The board ruled Tuesday that the money would be withheld until the county medical care program is brought into accordance with applicable regulations.

2 Workers Hurt At Danskammer

Two employes of a New York City contractor excavating on the water intake channel at Central Hudson's Danskammer Point Steam Station just north of Newburgh suffered injuries Tuesday afternoon when a half stick of dynamite accidentally discharged.

Thomas Smith, 45, of Newburgh, was taken to St. Luke's Hospital with eye injuries.

His helper, Robert Lynn, also of Newburgh, reportedly suffered minor chest bruises.

It was reported that Smith's right eye was injured but that there would be no impairment of vision. Extent of injuries to his left eye is still undetermined.

They are employes of the Poirier McLean Construction Co. which has been doing excavation work on a water intake channel to remove additional rock.

As the story was pieced together, Smith, a licensed blaster, inserted a half stick of dynamite with a cap into a four-inch hole. The cap was wired at the time but not connected.

In the process of tamping the hole, after the dynamite had been covered with earth, it fired for no apparent reason.

Investigation of the mishap is being continued by the contractor.

It was reported that explosive experts have been called into the investigation.

Thrilled About First Election

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—The new thrill of election fever gripped Nepal today as the little Himalayan kingdom between India and Red-ruled Tibet began voting for a Parliament for the first time in history.

Hundreds of banners flapped over the narrow streets winding among Katmandu's centuries' old Buddhist temples.

Posters of Nepal's nine political parties and hundreds of independent candidates dotted walls and fences.

It is a slow motion election with only 18 of the 109 House of Representatives seats at stake the first day. Eight more will be voted on Feb. 22, and 16 additional voting days are due before the House is completed April 2. Half the members of an upper house will be chosen by the House of Representatives and half by King Mahendra.

The West, the Communists and neutral India are watching the elections closely, concerned over the possibility of any policy changes in the buffer state. A half dozen Red correspondents representing major East European newspapers and news agencies are on hand. Also present is a 10-man economic delegation from Moscow, which arrived Feb. 2 with a strategic offer of aid but which apparently got a snub for its pains.

Many observers believed the Soviets hoped to assist Communist candidates by announcing the loan in advance of the election. But the delegation was left cooling its heels while the government concentrated on election plans.

Nepal's Communists, with 70 candidates in the field, predicted they would win the biggest block of seats. Many observers felt confident they would place no more than 10.

Satellite Sending

indicated the satellite, dubbed Vanguard II, makes a complete orbit of the earth every 125.9 minutes.

Although Vanguard II marks only a preliminary step in utilizing satellites for weather observation, Dr. Richard Porter, head of the U.S. satellite panel for the International Geophysical Year, called it "the beginning of a new era in weather research."

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices churned irregularly in slackened trading early this afternoon.

Vols Schedule Convention Meal On July 23 Date

A most interesting and educational demonstration of an electronic resuscitator was given at the monthly meeting of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association Tuesday night. Chief Lawson Upright of Gardiner explained its operation and gave a practical demonstration of the Batronic resuscitator, showing his device could be carried as emergency equipment by ambulances or fire equipment.

The meeting of the Association was held at the Common Council chambers in the City Hall where the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association acted as host. Attending was over 150 members representing 32 fire companies of the county.

In Three Churches

It was announced the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association convention dinner would be held Thursday, July 23, at 6 p. m. in three churches in the Rosendale area. Members will be entertained at dinner at Tillson Reformed Church, the Rosendale Reformed Church and St. Peter's of Rosendale. Reservations may be made through any member of the Rosendale committee. The final date for reservations will be announced at the March meeting of the county association.

The parade to be held in conjunction with the annual convention will be held at 5 p. m. Saturday, July 25, and the line of march will be from Tillson firehouse to Rosendale where the parade will disband at Sportsmen's Park.

In the demonstration of the electronically operated resuscitator, Chief Upright told the firemen the equipment could be carried in any ambulance and operated from the 12 volt battery of the vehicle, obtaining power from the car generator, or it could be operated from any 110 volt house current, if available. The resuscitator may also be operated from any portable generator which has an output of 150 watts.

Weighs 42 Pounds

Weighing only 42 pounds the equipment can be put into operation in a matter of seconds and is simple and safe to operate. Its use was demonstrated on several firemen at the demonstration.

Following the business meeting the firemen were served refreshments at Central Fire Station.

The next meeting will be on March 17 when the Association will be the guest of the Town of Plattekill and Gardiner Fire Companies. That meeting will be held in the municipal building at Modena.

Move 2 Rosendale

ward to supply space for the flood wall. Below the Route 32 bridge, a levee 1,500 feet long would extend to high ground on the right bank. The river side of the levee would be riprapped.

A closure structure would be placed across each end of the Route 32 bridge to close the gap between the upstream and downstream flood works. The channel of Rondout Creek would be cleared and excavated for a distance of about 2,400 feet below the Route 32 bridge. The width of the excavation will be 180 feet at the bridge and narrow to 110 feet for most of the length.

Would Fill Channel

A channel branching to the left just below the Route 32 bridge would be filled to prevent erosion along the road to Creek Locks. Interior damage would be provided by ponding areas and culverts to take care of the complicated drainage pattern.

A ponding area would be located on each side of the abandoned D&H canal to collect interior drainage from the left bank. The pending areas would discharge into the Rondout Creek through culverts. Two buildings on the site of one of the ponding areas would have to be removed.

On the right bank, a ponding area at the downstream end of the levee would collect interior drainage and discharge it into the Rondout Creek. One dwelling on this site would have to be removed.

A small brook at the upstream end of the flood wall flows under James Street into the stream. A small closure wall and levee would be provided to prevent flooding the protected area through this brook from back water during high states on the Rondout Creek. All outlets from ponding areas would be controlled by automatic drainage gates and sluice gates.

Heaps Praise On Aide

As he did last week, Eisenhower heaped praise on the ailing Dulles. The President called him his closest friend and confidant in the government. There is no equal, Eisenhower said, to Dulles' wisdom and knowledge in the foreign affairs field.

Eisenhower replied with a blunt no when asked whether he has been giving any thought to having someone else represent the United States at the proposed East-West foreign ministers conference on Berlin.

Collections Will

his entire net income.

The law specified that non-residents employed in the state also would have to pay.

The first returns were filed the following April 15. A total of 745,355 taxpayers paid $34,641,771. By 1929, collections were up to $83,000,000.

The depression stagged the New York economy and, by 1933, income tax revenue dropped to $29,883,000 from 418,556 taxpayers, 4 per cent of the population.

But the tax rallied with the economy. In 1941, the state collected $115,965,759 from 861,738 taxpayers.

Picks Up Steam

The war boom picked up steam. Payrolls expanded. More and more persons paid income taxes. The state had more than enough money to pay its bills and build reserves.

In this prosperous atmosphere, the state trimmed income taxes 25 per cent. Tax collections still soared and in 1945, the cut was increased to 50 per cent.

The reductions were made by allowing a so-called credit, not by any change in rates. The taxpayer figured out what he would owe under the basic rates and then paid half that amount.

Two Political Advantages

The credit system had two political advantages.

It created an atmosphere of official generosity. The taxpayer first arrived at a higher figure then halved it. The same psychology is used in advertisements that read: "Regular price $100! Our price $50!"

Second, the credit method made it easier to restore taxes to higher levels without too much adverse reaction.

If the state had cut rates in half, it would have said: "Now you only owe me 50 cents instead of a dollar."

But a credit carries the generous message: "You still owe me a dollar but you only have to pay 50 cents."

A rate increase would be a harsh statement: "You owed me 50 cents last time but now it's raised to 60 cents." A revision of a credit is more gentle: "You still owe me a dollar but this year the payment is only 60 cents."

In this way, the 50 per cent credit was gradually eliminated. This meant the tax rate actually has doubled since 1945 although it was unchanged officially.

Total Collections Soar

By 1955, the tax was back to the 100 per cent level. There were small credits in 1956 and 1957 but the full amount was asked for 1958 payments on 1957 income.

Despite the credits and cutbacks, total collections have soared. Payments rose from $115,965,750 in 1941 to $262,915,862 in 1950 and $367,465,507 in 1955. This year, the administration plans to collect $640,000,000 from 5,000,000 taxpayers.

Gov. Rockefeller is being bombarded with criticism, suggestions, alternatives and even insults.

Easier in 1840

The decisions were easier in 1840, when Gov. William Seward, could say of New York State in regard to new tax proposals:

"Her income is suffient for her wants without taxation. The value of her productive property is double the debt she owes. Her surplus income is double the debt she is required to pay and the revenue of her canals, if judiciously managed, will be adequate to every enterprise which the interests of the people demand."

Precious Metals Abound in Ocean, Scientist Reports

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The ocean bottoms are strewn with deposits of manganese and cobalt so rich they pobably could break the world market in those metals if they were mined on even a modest scale, a scientist reported today.

The metals are contained in black rock-like formations about the size of billiard balls and are pretty uniformly scattered over the ocean floors, he said.

Existence of these formations has been known for 75 years, but their abundance and the amount of metals they contain were determined only recently, said Dr. Roger R. Revelle, director of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography.

Dr. Revelle gave an evaluation of the deposits as made by investigators at Scripps and the University of California at Berkeley.

The assays indicated, Dr. Revelle said, that if these formations were dredged up from the depths at the rate of 5,000 tons a day and processed, they would yield enough metal to augment the U.S. manganese supply by 25 per cent and the cobalt supply by 125 per cent. The U.S. produces only 10 per cent of its manganese needs. The rest comes from imports.

Manganese is much used as an ingredient to make steel tough and is widely utilized as a component of many alloys. Cobalt is used in making special steels and in glass and as a coloring material.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Television is so frequently belabored for its shortcomings that one often forgets some of its good effects.

A program that impels a single person to do one decent thing certainly more than compensates for 100 strident commercials. But normally it's almost impossible to measure or report that intangible, "good effects."

Circle Shows Excellent

After a little research it's possible to report a little something tangible on television's big intangible in the case of "Armstrong Circle Theatre." This excellent program, seen every other Wednesday on CBS-TV (10 p.m., EST), dramatizes actual human situations and problems.

Tonight for example, in "House of Cards," it treats the subject of compulsive gambling. As always, the program's purpose is to entertain, to inform — and not to preach.

Some time ago when it dramatized the activities of Waif, the international adoption service, the program described the plight of illegitimate orphans of mixed American blood in Korea. More than 6,000 persons wrote letters to the program, desiring to help. Well over 100 couples adopted young orphans and brought them to this country.

After the program presented "Divorcees Anonymous," a woman requested a script. She said her lawyer had asked her to read it before proceeding with her divorce. Later it was learned she now is living happily with her husband.

"The Case for Room 310," a study of a voluntary program fighting juvenile delinquency in a New York high school, had surprising effects. The number of students voluntarily enrolled in the program increased from 30 to 100. Dozens of schools wrote requesting information of how to develop the plan.

"The Story of a Lot Bill" dramatized the plight of a lost European displaced persons youth who sought a home in this country. Legislation was required to let him stay here, but a House resolution permitting his entry had not been passed.

A congressman told the program that public interest aroused by the TV dramatization brought the bill to the House floor and resulted in its passage.

Orders Death in Chair

BONIFAY, Fla. (AP) — A Negro ex-convict has been sentenced to death for killing a white farmer and his daughter and raping the farmer's wife.

Circuit Judge E. Clay Lewis denied Frank Peterson's appeal for mercy and ordered him to die in the electric chair.

The sentence was imposed at a hearing Tuesday. The 27-year-old Peterson was transferred to Raiford State Prison to await fixing of an execution date.

Peterson wept when the sentence was imposed. He had told of his attack on the family in their small farm home near Bonifay June 11. Ira Gene Carnley, 27, and his daughter Ernestine, 2, were killed. Carnley's wife Sybil, 22, was beaten and raped.

Two other children, Herschel Gene, 6, and Geraldine, 4, were beaten severely, but survived. Only one infant was unharmed among the family of six.

Wreck Halts Trains

PAINTED POST, N. Y. (AP)—A freight wreck blocked the Lackawanna Railroad's main line for about six hours Tuesday. Passenger trains were up to two hours late.

Five cars of a 54-car freight jumped the tracks near this Steuben County village. The cause has not been determined. No one was hurt.

The freight was en route from Buffalo to New York City.

Democrat Wins Seat

NEW YORK (AP) — Democrat Harold W. Cohn is the new member of the state Assembly from Brooklyn's 4th district

He defeated Republican Victor A. Tirabasso Jr. in a special election Tuesday almost 3-1. The seat was left vacant Jan. 6 by the death of Democrat Bernard Austin.

Orders Death in Chair

BONIFAY, Fla. (AP) — A Negro ex-convict has been sentenced to death for killing a white farmer and his daughter and raping the farmer's wife.

Circuit Judge E. Clay Lewis denied Frank Peterson's appeal for mercy and ordered him to die in the electric chair.

The sentence was imposed at a hearing Tuesday. The 27-year-old Peterson was transferred to Raiford State Prison to await fixing of an execution date.

Peterson wept when the sentence was imposed. He had told of his attack on the family in their small farm home near Bonifay June 11. Ira Gene Carnley, 27, and his daughter Ernestine, 2, were killed. Carnley's wife Sybil, 22, was beaten and raped.

Two other children, Herschel Gene, 6, and Geraldine, 4, were beaten severely, but survived. Only one infant was unharmed among the family of six.

Wreck Halts Trains

PAINTED POST, N. Y. (AP)—A freight wreck blocked the Lackawanna Railroad's main line for about six hours Tuesday. Passenger trains were up to two hours late.

Five cars of a 54-car freight jumped the tracks near this Steuben County village. The cause has not been determined. No one was hurt.

The freight was en route from Buffalo to New York City.

Democrat Wins Seat

NEW YORK (AP) — Democrat Harold W. Cohn is the new member of the state Assembly from Brooklyn's 4th district

He defeated Republican Victor A. Tirabasso Jr. in a special election Tuesday almost 3-1. The seat was left vacant Jan. 6 by the death of Democrat Bernard Austin.

ADVICE FOR MEN

Be cheerful as you labor,
And lead a useful life.
Be sure to love your neighbor,
But never love his wife!

Students, Teachers Can Win C-H Trip To Science Parley

Three Mid-Hudson Valley high school juniors and their science teachers will have an opportunity to attend the first national youth conference on the atom in Atlantic City this spring.

They will attend the conference as the guests of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation and will be selected by an essay contest to be held over the next six weeks in 33 area high schools, according to J. Ernest Doolittle, the utility's vice president, commercial relations.

To Heighten Interest

The meeting, sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission and seven science and industrial organizations, is designed to heighten interest in the peacetime aspects of atomic energy and to emphasize the importance of the study of science. More than 500 high school science students from across the nation, will attend the sessions in Atlantic City on April 30 and May 1.

Central Hudson is one of more than 60 of the nation's electric utilities sponsoring the students and teachers attending the sessions.

According to Doolittle, the contest to select the winners will require some scientific research on the part of participating students and should create interest in the study of science on the part of a wider number of students.

Must Submit Essay

To be eligible for selection each candidate must submit an essay of not more than 1,000 words on the subject "Peaceful Uses of The Atom." Each school will judge its own entries and will submit the winning essay for grand judging.

One winner will be selected from among the schools in each of the utility's three divisions: The Upper Hudson Division comprising the Kingston-Saugerties-Catskill area, the Lower Hudson Division comprising the New Paltz, Highland, Newburgh area and the Eastern Division including all of Dutchess County and part of Putnam County.

The winning essays will be selected by an impartial panel of judges on the basis of factual accuracy, originality of presentation and neatness of entry. The science teachers of the winning students will also be invited to attend the conference.

At the conference the students will hear such leaders in the atomic age as Atomic Energy Commission Chairman John A. McCone and Dr. Norman C. Hillberry, director of the Argonne National Laboratory.

To Hear of Activities

They will also hear from leaders in industry, medicine and agriculture who will describe atomic age activities already underway in their fields and will forecast the roll of the atom in tomorrow's world. Many special displays and exhibits will be presented at the conference.

The conference is sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Atomic Industrial Forum, the National Science Foundation, the National Science Teachers Association, the Science Clubs of America and the Future Scientists of America.

More than 500 high school science students from across the nation, will attend the sessions in Atlantic City on April 30 and May 1.

Central Hudson is one of more than 60 of the nation's electric utilities sponsoring the students and teachers attending the sessions.

According to Doolittle, the contest to select the winners will require some scientific research on the part of participating students and should create interest in the study of science on the part of a wider number of students.

Must Submit Essay

To be eligible for selection each candidate must submit an essay of not more than 1,000 words on the subject "Peaceful Uses of The Atom." Each school will judge its own entries and will submit the winning essay for grand judging.

One winner will be selected from among the schools in each of the utility's three divisions: The Upper Hudson Division comprising the Kingston-Saugerties-Catskill area, the Lower Hudson Division comprising the New Paltz, Highland, Newburgh area and the Eastern Division including all of Dutchess County and part of Putnam County.

The winning essays will be selected by an impartial panel of judges on the basis of factual accuracy, originality of presentation and neatness of entry. The science teachers of the winning students will also be invited to attend the conference.

At the conference the students will hear such leaders in the atomic age as Atomic Energy Commission Chairman John A. McCone and Dr. Norman C. Hillberry, director of the Argonne National Laboratory.

To Hear of Activities

They will also hear from leaders in industry, medicine and agriculture who will describe atomic age activities already underway in their fields and will forecast the roll of the atom in tomorrow's world. Many special displays and exhibits will be presented at the conference.

The conference is sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Atomic Industrial Forum, the National Science Foundation, the National Science Teachers Association, the Science Clubs of America and the Future Scientists of America.

Afghanistan is bordered by USSR, Iran and Pakistan.

Passionate Year for Economists

'59 Economic Inquiry May Be Biggest Thing Since '30s

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—This will be a passionate year for economists: a wide-open chance to argue trends and theories. This can cause severe headaches among non-economists, including politicians, who get fogbound in statistics.

Both Democrats and Republicans are making a big anti-inflation pitch.

A joint congressional committee and two committees appointed by President Eisenhower will study the American economy in 1959 to find out how this country can be kept prosperous and made more so.

More Than One Answer

Since the Eisenhower groups may come up with one set of ideas and the congressional group — composed of 10 Democrats and six Republicans — may come up with others, there will probably be more than one answer.

Nevertheless the congressional inquiry may prove more far-ranging than anything of its kind since the big one made in the 1930s by the temporary National Economic Committee headed by Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo).

Eisenhower set up:

1. A committee—headed by Raymond J. Saulnier, chairman of his Economic Advisory Council — to study all government activities affecting prices and costs. Its members will be representatives of big government agencies.

Dems Act Also

2. A seven-man Cabinet committee — headed by Vice President Richard M. Nixon—to study and recommend government and private policies influencing costs and prices. Where the Nixon and Saulnier groups will and won't overlap is not clear.

But the Democrats were not to be outdone. While Eisenhower created these committees in January, last December Lyndon Johnson of Texas, leader of the Senate Democrats, had called for a big study of the nation's economic system.

Last week Johnson called on Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill), chairman of the joint congressional committee, to get the ball rolling with his group. Douglas himself is a trained economist.

The Douglas committee's hearings should provide one of the biggest forums in years for economists of all shades of opinion. A Douglas aide said the committee's studies may wind up by the end of 1959.

May Take More Time

That's a guess. It could last much longer. No doubt it will be months before the Douglas group can hear enough views, and learn enough facts, to produce recommendations of its own.

Then it remains to be seen what action, if any, Congress takes, particularly since the Eisenhower committees should be making recommendations, too, by that time.

Nixon said his group will have long-range rather than short-range goals: "In conducting our studies and in making our recommendations, we plan to enlist the advice of representatives of business, labor, government and other segments of the economy who are experts in the problems involved."

Eisenhower outlined the task facing the Saulnier committee:

"Although the government has many programs that affect prices and costs — including, of course, procurement (purchasing) — there is no central mechanism for following their current operations to see whether they are being conducted, insofar as possible, in line with the need for reasonable stability of prices and costs."

The Douglas committee's study will go pretty much across the economic board, covering such subjects as inflation, deflation, employment, unemployment, credit, the money supply, prices, profits, government spending, taxation and so on.

Rules Hearings Should Be Open On Unemployment

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Public business is becoming more public, the state's attorney general said today in ruling that unemployment-insurance hearings should be open.

Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz said that the public is entitled to attend hearings before the Unemployment Insurance Appeal Board and its referees.

Edward F. Dillon, chairman of the board, asked Lefkowitz for an opinion. Dillon said the employment security bureau of the U. S. Labor Department had asked that the hearings be made public.

The attorney general noted that the question of whether hearings should be open has been up to the industrial commissioner.

Lefkowitz said that "it should be noted that there is a general tendency today in favor of publicity as to transactions in public offices."

Dividend Declared

GLENS FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—Directors of the Imperial Color Chemical & Paper Corp. Tuesday declared a regular quarterly dividend of 35 cents a share on outstanding capital stock. It will be paid April 1 to stockholders of record March 13.

Habeas Corpus Writ Denied Ex-Cleric Slayer

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y. (AP)—A judge has denied a writ of habeas corpus asked by a defrocked clergyman convicted of slaying his wife.

Judge Sherlock Haley of Clinton County Court refused Tuesday to release George Hetenyi, formerly a minister in a Buffalo suburb.

Hetenyi, 49, was convicted on a charge of second-degree murder and sentenced in 1953 to serve from 40 years to life in prison for shooting his wife, Jean, 24, in 1949.

Since 1957, he has been in Dannemora State Hospital for the Criminal Insane.

Hetenyi was ordained a Roman Catholic priest but later became a Protestant and served as minister in various denominations.

He was a supply minister for an Episcopal Church in Amherst, near Buffalo, at the time of his arrest. The Episcopal Church has defrocked him.

Hetenyi's attorney, Robert Wylie of Plattsburgh, said yesterday he would appeal Haley's decision to the State Supreme Court's Appellate Division, Third Department.

Bills Introduced In Legislature

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Two bills affecting the pocketbooks of schools are before the Legislature.

Under one bill, school boards could force county governments to adopt a one per cent retail sales tax to support schools.

The second bill would protect school districts from a drop in state aid because of new equalization rates.

The bills were among dozens presented to the Legislature Tuesday.

Sen. Earl W. Brydges (R-Niagara Falls), chairman of the Senate Education Committee, offered both the school bills.

All Except Gotham

Under terms of his first bill, the one per cent retail sales tax must be adopted if school boards representing a majority of the pupils in a county request the board of supervisors to impose the levy.

Supervisors who now can reject such a plea, have no responsibility for school board expenditures.

It would apply to all counties outside of New York City.

The additional levy could be imposed in Upstate counties having a retail sales tax for municipal revenue. Such taxes now are limited to two per cent.

The second Brydges bill, cosponsored by Assemblyman Joseph R. Younglove (R-Johnstown), carries out recommendations of the State Equalization Board.

It would require the use of 1958 state equalization rates in computing state aid to schools based on 1959 local assessment rolls. No estimate of the potential loss was available.

Sees Lower '59 Rates

Equalization rates represent a ratio between the value a local assessor places on property and the estimate made by the state.

Frank C. Moore, chairman of the State Equalization Board, said 1959 rates in most localities would be somewhat lower than the 1958 rates.

Lower equalization rates result in higher valuation of property, which generally brings in less state aid, he said.

Mandatory adoption of permanent personal registration across the state before the 1962 general election was proposed by Sen. Warren M. Anderson (R-Binghamton).

His bill provided that, in any county that has not adopted PPR, any city or village of 5,000 population or more could adopt the plan by local law before next Jan. 1. Sixteen counties—including New York's five—already have adopted the new system.

Water Resources Plan

Two western New York lawmakers advanced a long-range plan for development of the state's water resources.

The bill was submitted by Sen. Frank E. Van Lare (R-Rochester) and Assemblyman Alonzo L. Waters (R-Medina). It provides for enlarging the Water Power and Control Commission from three to five members and authorizes creation of regional planning boards to study and control water resources.

A joint legislative committee fighting smut offered a bill to extend the authority of the Education Department's motion picture division.

Other Bills

The committee chairman, Assemblyman Younglove, said the division would be authorized to label films as "unsuitable for children." This would be an advisory function, Younglove said, and "it would be the parent's responsibility to guide children accordingly."

Other bills would:

Create a division of motor boats in the Conservation Department: Assemblyman Charles A. Cusick (R-Cayuga County).

Revise the state's aviation laws to meet jet-age conditions: Assemblyman Anthony P. Savarese (R-Queens).

Bar any new harness tracks unless approved at a referendum by two-thirds of the voters within a 50-mile radius of the proposed track: Sen. Dutton S. Peterson (R-Schuyler County).

Blast Damage Minor

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Chemical vapors exploded yesterday in a research laboratory doing secret work on missile fuels for the government.

Although the blast was hard over a large section of the west side, officials said the damage was minor. Firemen estimated it at $4,000. One employe was slightly injured.

The explosion occurred in the special project branch of the Becco Chemical Division of the Food Machinery & Chemical Corp.

Woodstock Resident Enters Competition For Ulster Crown

CAROL BISCHOFF

Miss Carol Bischoff of Woodstock will enter the "Miss Ulster County" pageant competition on Saturday, 8 p. m. She is sponsored by the Woodstock Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The pageant, which is scheduled to take place at the George Washington School, will be presented under the ausipces of the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Bischoff, a senior at New Paltz Teachers College, is 22 years of age. Drawing, painting and handcrafts are listed among her many talents. At college she has been a member of Student Council and the Ushers' Guild and is an avid sportswoman. When Miss Bischoff completes her studies, she hopes to teach primary grade students in Long Island.

Contestants will be judged on three counts — evening gown competition; swim suit competition and talent competition. The winner will be crowned "Miss Ulster County" and will go on to compete in the "Miss New York State" competition, May 1 and 2. "Miss New York State" will enter the Atlantic City competitions in September during which a "Miss America" will be named.

Ahavath Women Announce Program Of Coming Events

Despite inclement weather there was a large attendance at the Ahavath Israel Sisterhood meeting held February 11.

Mrs. Alfred Horowitz presided and introduced two guests, Mrs. Arthur Schiff and Mrs. Leo Smoller.

After the opening prayer given by Mrs. Jacob Rubenstein, the business meeting was held. The president thanked the chairmen and assistants who were responsible for the successful cake sale and New Year's Eve party. The Sisterhood Lending Library has added a number of current "best-sellers" to its shelves. Many attractive new items have been added to the Gift Shop and purchases may be made by contacting Mrs. Irving Reuben.

Announcement was made that reservations for Cabaret Nite at the Elks Hall on February 28 may be made with Mrs. Gilbert Adin, Mrs. Martin Garber or Mrs. Melvin Samuels. Members were reminded that Sisterhood will conduct Sabbath Services on Friday, March 20. Preparations are now being made for the annual Torah dinner to be held the evening of Sunday, April 5.

The program for the evening was presented by Social Action. In the absence of the regular chairman, Mrs. Carl Lipton was the moderator of the panel discussion. The subject was "The Stand taken by National Women's League on Current Issues." Speaker was Mrs. Alfred Horowitz, and the panelists, the Mmes. Jack Lipton, Stanley Levitt, George Jacobson and Edward Furman.

At the conclusion of the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Moe Shanzer in honor of the Bar Mitzvah of her son, Manus.

Mrs. Arthur Ballard Is Elected President Of Rod and Gun Club

Mrs. Arthur Ballard was elected president of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club Auxiliary at its meeting held recently.

Mrs. Peter Lemister Jr., was elected vice-president.

A membership drive is planned by the ladies as well as many other activities during the coming year.

The March 17 meeting will be held at Jake's Grill. The April meeting is scheduled for the club house at Lake Katrine.

Kingston Teachers Attend Social Studies Council in New York; Key Address on Africa

Mrs. Thelma Schwab and Mrs. Mildred G. DeWitt, both of Kingston, attended the New York State Council for Social Studies at Sheraton-McAlpin Hotel this week in New York City.

The Mmes. Schwab and DeWitt are Citizenship Education Teachers at Kingston High School. Mrs. Schwab is chairman of the department of Citizenship Education.

Africa Discussed

Dr. Herrick B. Young, president of Western College for Women, Oxford, Ohio, said in his address before the assemblage, "the revolt against Colonialism in Africa is moving forward with breathtaking speed."

Pointing out the stages by which Africa has felt the influence of modernity, Dr. Young, who conducted the Western College seminar around Africa this past summer, stated that the old docility which he had known on previous visits to Africa has been replaced by a spirit of independence and responsibility.

"Some say that there are two Africas — the Africa on the surface and the Africa beneath the surface. I am convinced that the facility of modern transportation and communication has resulted in Nkrumah's success in Ghana suggesting to other areas in Africa that they too can govern themselves.

"Africa is the most exciting continent in the world today with vast undeveloped natural resources and with a basic problem of underpopulation offering a fertile field to outside forces for both economic and political exploitation.

"The European colonial powers for years have been making use of Africa for their own interests. But Africans now have discovered that they are worth more for their labor than they have been getting," Dr. Young said.

He described some of the gold fields in South Africa—with the rapidly growing and modern city of Johannesburg, containing over one million people, at the heart of them. African laborers for the extensive mines are brought into the cities from the hinterlands, on a "contract labor" basis, he said. And this makes for men living without families, up-rooted and living in compounds, and resulting in all sorts of social, health, and economic problems.

Uranium mines in the Belgian Congo now make this country of tremendous value and interest to the rest of the world, said the lecturer. Indeed, this was his recurring theme in his talk, the way in which all the rest of the world has a vital "stake" in what used to be called the "dark continent." But he pointed out, the Africans are determined that Africa's future shall be, partly at least, in their own hands.

Dr. Young described the new iron-ore mines in Liberia; there, a rich deposit of ore containing 78 per cent pure iron has been recently found and developed. He told how an airplane pilot had noticed the extreme deflections on his compass as he had passed over that part of Liberia during the war, and had concluded that iron must be there. He was proven to be correct, after much effort to get through obstacles of all sorts, later on.

Oil in French West Africa is of "vital importance to the French—and they know it," the speaker said. A brand new hospital has been built in the heart of French Equatorial Africa, at the cost of over one and one-half million dollars. Other European countries are equally alert to what they have to put into Africa, in order to get out of it what they want and need.

"The cold war is going on in Africa" said Dr. Young. He told of visiting in the capital city of Ethiopia, where Russian correspondents and American newspaper men were immediately on hand, when word got out that Nasser was extending an invitation to Ethiopia to join the United Arab Republic, and that Robert Murphy had gone to see the Emperor. Both the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. are vitally interested in the whole affair, and in the whole of Africa—for it will make a great deal of difference to the future of the world which way Africa goes."

"Egypt is a very powerful force all through Africa," said Dr. Young. "The Sudan forms a bridge between Arabian North Africa and the southern 'Black Africa'," he said. "The Sudan will probably be the last to go in with Egypt; but they, like most of Africa, know that education is the key to success—and they look to Egypt and its Arab University as a standard of education." He admitted that America has a reservoir of goodwill, arising out of the efforts of American Christian missionaries and their educational work in Africa; but he said, the missionaries' influence has not been enough, in the face of the demands of Africa now for more education and in the face of the rush of nationalism."

Miss Ruth E. Pratt, President of the New York State Council for the Social Studies was Chairman of the evening meeting. An address of welcome was given by Dr. William A. Hamm, Associate Superintendent of Schools, New York City.

A LOVED STEPMOTHER

Dear Mrs. Post: My own mother died when I was fifteen. Since then my father has married a wonderful woman whom I adore, and who has been everything to me a mother could be. I even call her Mother. I wondered whether my wedding invitations may be worded Mr. and Mrs. . . . their daughter. I also would like to know whether at the church my stepmother could be the last to go up the aisle before the wedding party as the "mother" of the bride, instead of my mother's sister, of whom I am also very fond.

Answer: Even though your best friends would understand your impulse, at the same time it really would not do to ignore the memory of your own mother and her family's feelings by engraving "their daughter" instead of "his daughter." At the church, however, your stepmother may be seated last of the guests and in the front pew where your father will join her. She will receive the guests at the reception. While it is not required of her, it would never-the-less be courteous for her to ask your aunt to receive with her as well as the groom's mother.

For The Non-Drinker

Dear Mrs. Post: I don't drink cocktails and yet I find it rather awkward when I'm out with one person alone, to refuse. The other man always seems reluctant to order one for himself or else if he does he rushes through it so as not to make me sit and wait. Is there a way of making both of us feel more at ease?

Answer: To keep him company, you can order fruit or vegetable juice when asked what you'd like.

Helping Oneself to Pickles

Dear Mrs. Post: When a dish of pickles is on the table, I would like to know if one helps oneself to them with the fingers or should a fork be used?

Answer: A fork should be used.

Mr. and Mrs. Eckert were married February 10, 1909 by the Rev. F. C. Sommers of Eddyville at the home of the bride's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kuhoupt of St. Remy.

The couple are members of the Esopus Methodist Church.

Many cards, gifts and flowers, including a floral spray from members of the Esopus Methodist Church, were received.

Two Vivian Fine Works Presented

NEW PALTZ, Feb. 18—Two works by Vivian Fine were recently presented at the Composers' Forum at the Donnel Library Center in New York City. In private life she is a very talented violinist and the wife of Benjamin Karp, professor of art at the State University Teachers College here.

The Herald-Tribune's comment of Vivian Fine's works was: "In these works she showed herself to be a composer with great control over her medium, with sensitive and accurate ear, and possessing great imagination. The String Quartet especially was not only technically proficient but also strong and warm."

In reveiwing the concert, the New York Times critic wrote: "An entertaining horticultural chamber-opera by Vivian Fine, 'A Guide of the life expectancy of Rose dominated the evening. Some of it's appeal came as a result of a colorful and imaginative staging by Martha Graham. . . . The Claremont Quartet gave a splendid reading of Miss Fine's lyrical and sponraneous String Quartet."

The String Quartet will be performed on March 26, in Tel-Aviv, Israel.

'Miss America' Will Visit Kingston for State Pageant

MARY ANN MOBLEY

Guy A. Visk, director of the Miss New York State Pageant, announced today that Miss Mary Ann Mobley, "Miss America, 1959," will attend the Pageant on May 2 in Kingston.

Miss Mobley will be flown to Kingston from Winchester, Va., by the New York State Pepsi-Cola Bottlers Association. She is scheduled for an appearance on May 3 in California.

It is expected that Miss Mobley will speak to the assemblage about her reign as "Miss America."

Upon completion of her reign, Miss Mobley will continue her studies at the University of Mississippi. She is a resident of Brandon, Miss., and observes her 22nd birthday today.

Miss Mobley is a member of the Brandon Methodist Church, where she taught Sunday School and still sings in the choir when home.

Mary Ann claims she wasn't very good to look at until she was 16. She was a pigtailed tomboy until she was eight and wore braces on her teeth from her 12th to 16th year. She never dated until she reached her high school junior year. Her ideal man will be "understanding and have a good sense of humor." Miss America loves animals, and has her own five-gaited palomino mare, "Senorita." Mary Ann feels her Miss America scholarships will enable her to pursue graduate courses leading eventually to a career in Broadway musicals.

"Miss America" has one sister, Sandra, 12 a budding ballerina. She was selected National Football Queen in 1957, Berkeley, Calif., and is a member of the University Players.

Miss Mobley was chosen "Miss Mississippi" last year at the event sponsored by the Warren County Junior Chamber of Commerce at Vicksburg, Miss.

The "Miss New York State Pageant," which is being produced by the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be held on May 1 and 2 at municipal auditorium.

Tickets for the event are now available from any member of Kingston Jaycees.

Proceeds are for the Jaycees Youth Activities Fund.

Ulster Kiwanis Plans Flag Sale To Aid Children

The Town of Ulster Kiwanis Club is planning to organize a sale of the new 49-star United States flags, applying the proceeds to the welfare of boys and girls of the community.

Orders for the new flags may be placed with any member of the club, left at Moderniture Furniture Mart or mailed directly to Flags, P.O. Box 345, Kingston.

George Newsome, attorney, spoke to the club Monday evening on laws and regulations of Kiwanis International.

He ponited out that all club actions are governed by Roberts Rules of Order.

The committee headed by Newsome is open to suggestions from members regarding laws and regulations. Newsome urged members to inform themselves on public matters and to take stands on public issues.

Outdoor Fish Cookery

Nine American fish "cook-outs," filmed to reflect the heritage and tradition of the areas portrayed, are shown in a new sound-color, 16 mm. film just released by the Department of the Interior.

The film is designed to intrigue those who cook outdoors—either in the open spaces or in their own backyards.

The film is the 16th in a series of fishery educational motion pictures produced by the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, United States Fish and Wildlife Service, all of which are available to interested groups on a FREE LOAN BASIS. A showing requires 28 minutes. The film was produced under the Salaonstall-Kennedy Act to aid in the development of the domestic fishing industry and to expand the market for fishery products.

The picture starts with a colorful Indian salmon barbeque on Neah Bay, Washington, and features salmon being caught and cooked in the manner typical of the days when the northwest was young. This method can be adapted for use in one's own backyard.

Another sequence is taken from the other side of the country—a real New England clambake at Gloucester, Mass., where clambakes have been the vogue since the days of the colonies.

Gloucester Point, Va., where oyster roasts have been popular since the historic days of Jamestown and Williamsburg is the scene of another sequence in the film.

Cold weather fans are not forgotten and will get a thrill out of the ice fishing for smelt and the cooking of perch up at Menominee, Mich., across the line from Marinette, Wis.

Then there is the Carolina "pink bark stew" cooked in a bayou setting, and a Florida mullet smoke, showing the fish caught near Stuart and Salerno in Martin County and smoked on a fashionable patio in Miami; not to forget the shrimp boil at Morgan City with its "Do-it-yourself" tips; nor the "political fish fry" at Port Clinton, Ohio, where the fish get more attention than the speakers.

Of course there is the Maine Lobster boil—this one featuring colorful scenes at the famous Rockland Seafood Festival, where even persons with small appetities get two lobsters and where everyone has fun.

UNICEF

Did you know that two-fifths of mankind live in malaria zones? Up to ten years ago, 300 million persons were attacked by malaria each year and some three million died. But the malaria eradication campaigns of the past ten years have cut the incidence of the disease by 50 per cent and malaria deaths fell from three million in 1955 to perhaps one million in 1957. In 1958, 46 per cent of UNICEF's (United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund) program allocations were for malaria eradication.

Woodstock Resident Enters Competition For Ulster Crown

CAROL BISCHOFF

Miss Carol Bischoff of Woodstock will enter the "Miss Ulster County" pageant competition on Saturday, 8 p. m. She is sponsored by the Woodstock Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The pageant, which is scheduled to take place at the George Washington School, will be presented under the ausipces of the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Bischoff, a senior at New Paltz Teachers College, is 22 years of age. Drawing, painting and handcrafts are listed among her many talents. At college she has been a member of Student Council and the Ushers' Guild and is an avid sportswoman. When Miss Bischoff completes her studies, she hopes to teach primary grade students in Long Island.

Contestants will be judged on three counts — evening gown competition; swim suit competition and talent competition. The winner will be crowned "Miss Ulster County" and will go on to compete in the "Miss New York State" competition, May 1 and 2. "Miss New York State" will enter the Atlantic City competitions in September during which a "Miss America" will be named.

Ahavath Women Announce Program Of Coming Events

Despite inclement weather there was a large attendance at the Ahavath Israel Sisterhood meeting held February 11.

Mrs. Alfred Horowitz presided and introduced two guests, Mrs. Arthur Schiff and Mrs. Leo Smoller.

After the opening prayer given by Mrs. Jacob Rubenstein, the business meeting was held. The president thanked the chairmen and assistants who were responsible for the successful cake sale and New Year's Eve party. The Sisterhood Lending Library has added a number of current "best-sellers" to its shelves. Many attractive new items have been added to the Gift Shop and purchases may be made by contacting Mrs. Irving Reuben.

Announcement was made that reservations for Cabaret Nite at the Elks Hall on February 28 may be made with Mrs. Gilbert Adin, Mrs. Martin Garber or Mrs. Melvin Samuels. Members were reminded that Sisterhood will conduct Sabbath Services on Friday, March 20. Preparations are now being made for the annual Torah dinner to be held the evening of Sunday, April 5.

The program for the evening was presented by Social Action. In the absence of the regular chairman, Mrs. Carl Lipton was the moderator of the panel discussion. The subject was "The Stand taken by National Women's League on Current Issues." Speaker was Mrs. Alfred Horowitz, and the panelists, the Mmes. Jack Lipton, Stanley Levitt, George Jacobson and Edward Furman.

At the conclusion of the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Moe Shanzer in honor of the Bar Mitzvah of her son, Manus.

Mrs. Arthur Ballard Is Elected President Of Rod and Gun Club

Mrs. Arthur Ballard was elected president of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club Auxiliary at its meeting held recently.

Mrs. Peter Lemister Jr., was elected vice-president.

A membership drive is planned by the ladies as well as many other activities during the coming year.

The March 17 meeting will be held at Jake's Grill. The April meeting is scheduled for the club house at Lake Katrine.

Kingston Teachers Attend Social Studies Council in New York; Key Address on Africa

Mrs. Thelma Schwab and Mrs. Mildred G. DeWitt, both of Kingston, attended the New York State Council for Social Studies at Sheraton-McAlpin Hotel this week in New York City.

The Mmes. Schwab and DeWitt are Citizenship Education Teachers at Kingston High School. Mrs. Schwab is chairman of the department of Citizenship Education.

Africa Discussed

Dr. Herrick B. Young, president of Western College for Women, Oxford, Ohio, said in his address before the assemblage, "the revolt against Colonialism in Africa is moving forward with breathtaking speed."

Pointing out the stages by which Africa has felt the influence of modernity, Dr. Young, who conducted the Western College seminar around Africa this past summer, stated that the old docility which he had known on previous visits to Africa has been replaced by a spirit of independence and responsibility.

"Some say that there are two Africas — the Africa on the surface and the Africa beneath the surface. I am convinced that the facility of modern transportation and communication has resulted in Nkrumah's success in Ghana suggesting to other areas in Africa that they too can govern themselves.

"Africa is the most exciting continent in the world today with vast undeveloped natural resources and with a basic problem of underpopulation offering a fertile field to outside forces for both economic and political exploitation.

"The European colonial powers for years have been making use of Africa for their own interests. But Africans now have discovered that they are worth more for their labor than they have been getting," Dr. Young said.

He described some of the gold fields in South Africa—with the rapidly growing and modern city of Johannesburg, containing over one million people, at the heart of them. African laborers for the extensive mines are brought into the cities from the hinterlands, on a "contract labor" basis, he said. And this makes for men living without families, up-rooted and living in compounds, and resulting in all sorts of social, health, and economic problems.

Uranium mines in the Belgian Congo now make this country of tremendous value and interest to the rest of the world, said the lecturer. Indeed, this was his recurring theme in his talk, the way in which all the rest of the world has a vital "stake" in what used to be called the "dark continent." But he pointed out, the Africans are determined that Africa's future shall be, partly at least, in their own hands.

Dr. Young described the new iron-ore mines in Liberia; there, a rich deposit of ore containing 78 per cent pure iron has been recently found and developed. He told how an airplane pilot had noticed the extreme deflections on his compass as he had passed over that part of Liberia during the war, and had concluded that iron must be there. He was proven to be correct, after much effort to get through obstacles of all sorts, later on.

Oil in French West Africa is of "vital importance to the French—and they know it," the speaker said. A brand new hospital has been built in the heart of French Equatorial Africa, at the cost of over one and one-half million dollars. Other European countries are equally alert to what they have to put into Africa, in order to get out of it what they want and need.

"The cold war is going on in Africa" said Dr. Young. He told of visiting in the capital city of Ethiopia, where Russian correspondents and American newspaper men were immediately on hand, when word got out that Nasser was extending an invitation to Ethiopia to join the United Arab Republic, and that Robert Murphy had gone to see the Emperor. Both the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. are vitally interested in the whole affair, and in the whole of Africa—for it will make a great deal of difference to the future of the world which way Africa goes."

"Egypt is a very powerful force all through Africa," said Dr. Young. "The Sudan forms a bridge between Arabian North Africa and the southern 'Black Africa'," he said. "The Sudan will probably be the last to go in with Egypt; but they, like most of Africa, know that education is the key to success—and they look to Egypt and its Arab University as a standard of education." He admitted that America has a reservoir of goodwill, arising out of the efforts of American Christian missionaries and their educational work in Africa; but he said, the missionaries' influence has not been enough, in the face of the demands of Africa now for more education and in the face of the rush of nationalism."

Miss Ruth E. Pratt, President of the New York State Council for the Social Studies was Chairman of the evening meeting. An address of welcome was given by Dr. William A. Hamm, Associate Superintendent of Schools, New York City.

A LOVED STEPMOTHER

Dear Mrs. Post: My own mother died when I was fifteen. Since then my father has married a wonderful woman whom I adore, and who has been everything to me a mother could be. I even call her Mother. I wondered whether my wedding invitations may be worded Mr. and Mrs. . . . their daughter. I also would like to know whether at the church my stepmother could be the last to go up the aisle before the wedding party as the "mother" of the bride, instead of my mother's sister, of whom I am also very fond.

Answer: Even though your best friends would understand your impulse, at the same time it really would not do to ignore the memory of your own mother and her family's feelings by engraving "their daughter" instead of "his daughter." At the church, however, your stepmother may be seated last of the guests and in the front pew where your father will join her. She will receive the guests at the reception. While it is not required of her, it would never-the-less be courteous for her to ask your aunt to receive with her as well as the groom's mother.

For The Non-Drinker

Dear Mrs. Post: I don't drink cocktails and yet I find it rather awkward when I'm out with one person alone, to refuse. The other man always seems reluctant to order one for himself or else if he does he rushes through it so as not to make me sit and wait. Is there a way of making both of us feel more at ease?

Answer: To keep him company, you can order fruit or vegetable juice when asked what you'd like.

Helping Oneself to Pickles

Dear Mrs. Post: When a dish of pickles is on the table, I would like to know if one helps oneself to them with the fingers or should a fork be used?

Answer: A fork should be used.

Two Vivian Fine Works Presented

NEW PALTZ, Feb. 18—Two works by Vivian Fine were recently presented at the Composers' Forum at the Donnel Library Center in New York City. In private life she is a very talented violinist and the wife of Benjamin Karp, professor of art at the State University Teachers College here.

The Herald-Tribune's comment of Vivian Fine's works was: "In these works she showed herself to be a composer with great control over her medium, with sensitive and accurate ear, and possessing great imagination. The String Quartet especially was not only technically proficient but also strong and warm."

In reveiwing the concert, the New York Times critic wrote: "An entertaining horticultural chamber-opera by Vivian Fine, 'A Guide of the life expectancy of Rose dominated the evening. Some of it's appeal came as a result of a colorful and imaginative staging by Martha Graham. . . . The Claremont Quartet gave a splendid reading of Miss Fine's lyrical and sponraneous String Quartet."

The String Quartet will be performed on March 26, in Tel-Aviv, Israel.

Board Postpones Selection Name for New OCS School

The Onteora Board of Education has postponed selection of a name for the new elementary school, following a lively debate on the subject at its meeting Monday night.

The debate stemmed from a recommendation by the Board's selection committee headed by Edward West to name it the Dancing Rock School. It was pointed out that the full committee was unable to get together on the appointed date and the recommendation for Dancing Rock was made by West and John Aalto.

Others on the committee appointed by Philip Gordon, Board president, were Harry Allen and Mrs. Marie Kleine.

It was felt that since only half the committee made the suggestion it would be held in abeyance further study.

Student Petition

In the meantime, the Board received a petition signed by 260 students and alumni and 80 faculty members recommending the school be named the Reginald R. Bennett School in honor of the district superintendent. The names from which West and Aalto made their selections had been submitted by the elementary pupils—more than 400 entries.

Chairman West voiced objection to what he described as "premature publicity" given the name contest in the newspapers. This newspaper had written a feature story on the names submitedt by the elementary pupils, pointing up the preponderance of Indian names and singling out the Dancing Rock suggested for special mention.

The fact that the newspaper article singled out Dancing Rock also the choice of West and Aalto, was revealed to be pure coincidence.

Proponents Speak

Speaking for the students, alumni and faculty, Rudy Frank made a strong plea to have the school named in honor of Bennett. "It seems a lot more important to name the school after a living personality," said Frank. "We'd like to see him (Bennett) honored and such a name would be more meaningful to us."

West reported that the names Coldbrook and Boiceville, all symbolic of the area, rated right behind Dancing Rock. He said the school would be built "over a big, flat rock, two or three acres wide" and was a "curious geological formation."

Mrs. Kleine spoke very highly of Bennett's contributions to the Onteora district and said "we cannot pass over lightly the petitions of the students and teachers. Trustee John Haggery also praised Bennett for doing "a tremendous job" and moved that the school be named the Reginald R. Bennett School. The motion was seconded but later withdrawn following the discussion.

Harry Allen, another member of the Board, said he felt the school "should not be named after a living persoon."

Other Business By Onteora Board

Other business transacted by the Board included:

Arrangements to attend a joint meeting with the Rondout Valley Central Schools board at Rondout on March 9.

Preliminary plans were discussed to effect the removal of all kindergarten pupils from the main building. They will be placed according to a plan now being drawn up for the 1959-60 school year.

Repairs in the amount of approximately $450.00 were authorized for the ceiling at the West Hurley School.

Two new elementary school teachers were appointed, effective September 1959, at a starting salary of $4150.00. They are Dorothy A. Braunstein of Elmhurst, L. I., and John G. Stadelman of Poughkeepsie.

Principal John Moehle announced plans for the first annual Grandparents Day after the Easter vacation. All grandparents of school children will be welcomed at the school that day. Mrs. Margaret Cole is assisting Principal Moehle with the arrangements.

Principal Moehle's latest enrollment figures revealed net registration of 1910 and actual of 1838.

An outdoor commencement exercise which would combine the Baccalaureate with the graduation exercise was discussed briefly. It would be held on a temporary stage and would include a processional. Principal Moehle will outline more details at a future meeting.

Manorska Approved

Madame Juanorska, who operates the Manorska Dance Studios in Woodstock, was certified as an Adult Education instructor.

The Board received a communication from Albert Grazier of Woodstock inquiring about payment of a $200 bill for services rendered former Woodstock District No. 2 in helping design the proposed new wing. The bill, dating back to Sept. 30, 1945, stemmed from a contract Grazier made with the Woodstock Board of Trustees. He said he had not yet received payment. The Onteora Board took the matter under advisement, pending further investigation.

A schedule of bills approved and the Board tabled a proposal to purchase a large tractor suitable for mowing large grass areas. Cost of such a tractor would be considerable and it was decided to further check on the matter. Principal Moehle suggested the tractor be bid in by the State Department of Standards and Purchases.

A communication from the New York Board of Fire Underwriters indicated defective electrical wiring and some minor electrical defects at four schools within the district—Woodstock, Boiceville, Phoenicia (parish house) and West Hurley. The Board approved a resolution authorizing corrective work at the prevailing wage rates.

Onteora Delays Bid on Grading

Sealed bids for the work of rough grading the site for the new Onteora elementary school were opened Monday night, but action was postponed pending further study by the Board of Education.

Lowest bidder among more than a dozen bidders was C. Slauson of Roxbury at $6,580. Lund Ready Mix Concrete, Inc. of the Ulster Landing Road bid $8,245 and Avery and Son of Roxbury submitted a bid of $9,123. The highest bid exceeded $22,000.

After some discussion on the location of building with respect to the hill behind it, weather conditions and other factors, the Board announced it would let the bid after further study.

Collector Will Pay Balance to Onteora

The Onteora Central Schools district will receive $810.55 less from the county than it expected in delinquent school taxes, it was announced at Monday's board meeting.

The amount turned back to the county as delinquent tax was $69,015.14, but of that total $810.55 was turned in erroneously by the collector, leaving the net return to Onteora at $68,204.59.

The tax structure must therefore account for $810.55. Such payment is the collector's responsibility and it is understood the collector will pay the balance to the Board.

Byman, Kohon and Kay Play At Sunday Winter Festival

A chamber music recital by the Concert Artists Trio will be the next program presented by the Woodstock Festival Sunday afternoon, Feb. 22, at 3:30 p. m. at the Guild Gallery in Woodstock. The members of the Trio are Harold Kohon, violinist; Richard Kay, cellist, and Isabelle Byman, pianist.

Woodstock's own Isabelle Byman has appeared in recital throughout the United States and Canada and as soloist with most of the major symphony orchestras under outstanding conductors including Stokowski, Rodzinski, Smallens, Barzin and others. Her recent stereophonic recordings have received glowing reviews in Hi-Fi-magazines. Recently she received a letter from the Israeli composer Paul Ben-Haim who wrote: "Only yesterday I had the great pleasure to hear your tape on a stereophonic tape recorder (the only one in our country) and I must thank you very much for the really excellent performance of my Five Pieces. You understood my intentions . . . perfectly . . ." Mrs. Byman has appeared frequently in concerts in Woodstock and other area communities.

Was London Soloist

Harold Kohon, violinist, has appeared in numerous Town Hall recitals in New York City and as soloist with the London Royal Philharmonic Orchestra and the National Orchestral Association. He is concertmaster of the NBC TV Opera Orchestra and of the Cooper Union Symphony Concerts. He is founder and leader of the Kohon String Quartet which currently is in residence at Columbia University and which recently recorded for Stereo Age Recording Company.

Richard Kay, cellist, has appeared in a number of solo recitals at Town Hall. He was first cellist and soloist with the Longines Symphonette under Mishel Piastro and he participated in the Prades Festival in 1953. In 1955 and 1956 he made tours to the Far East and Europe under the sponsorship of the State Dept., performing in over 100 concerts.

The program Sunday will include works by Telemann (1681-1787), Robert Kurka, Brahms, and Paul Ben-Haim.

Onteora to Pay Woodstock Debt To Government

The Onteora Central Schools Board of Education Monday night adopted a resolution authorizing payment to the U. S. Internal Revenue Department the sum of $5,326.90 covering withholding taxes owed by former Woodstock District No. 2 to the government.

The payment is being made to clear the books of the debit charged against Woodstock No. 2, but the $5,326.90 is one of the items included in the $15,000 short-term indebtedness which must be paid back by Woodstock taxpayers through a special tax levy.

Onteora will pay the Internal Revenue Department from the escrow account of Woodstock No. 2.

The item, which is expected to produce inquiries at tonight's audit meeting at the school, is broken down in four payments overdue as follows:

June 30, 1954	$1,101.60
Dec. 31, 1955	1,271.53
March 31, 1956	1,175.67
June 30, 1956	1,778.10

'A Holy Life' Theme For the Rev. Sands

"A Holy Life" is the theme for the Rev. G. Oliver Sands' sermon topic at Christ Lutheran Church in Woodstock, Sunday, Feb. 22 at 11 a. m., the second Sunday in Lent.

The Rev. Sands plans to take his theme from St. Paul's letter to the Thessalonians 4:1-8, especially the first verse: "that as ye have received of us, how ye ought to walk and please God, so ye would abound more and more."

Both Youth and Senior choirs are participating in special music for this service.

Sunday School Theme

"Facing Tribulation with Faith"—Mark 13:1-37—is the theme of the adult Sunday school class at 9:45 a. m. Classes are held at the same time for all ages. Everyone is welcome at both the study and worship sessions. We urge you to join us each Sunday.

Meeting Notices

The second sewing bee is scheduled to meet Tuesday, Feb. 24, at 10 a. m. at the parsonage. A covered dish luncheon will be served at noon.

Youth choir rehearses Sunday at 7 p. m.

Thursday at 7:30 p. m., the second Lenten service theme will be "The Way of Pardon," Isaiah 55:7. The senior choir plans a special anthem. Their regular rehearsal follows the service.

'Good News for the Christian' Is Topic For Rev. Wayne Olson

The sermon topic for the Rev. Wayne C. Olson Sunday at the Woodstock Reformed Church is "Good News for the Christian." Sunday worship is at 11 a. m.

Just as God sent Isaiah the prophet to comfort the Israelites in their time of distress, so also does God send us Jesus Christ, the Savior, to give us peace and salvation in this day of uncertainty and unrest. The service is open to all who have a desire to worship. Nursery facilities are provided.

Catechism Class

A Catechism class for young people 13 and over will be held Saturday, Feb. 21, at 10 a. m. The class is designed to acquaint the students with the meaning of church membership and the privileges and responsibilities relating thereto. There will be 10 class periods on successive Saturdays. If you wish to know more about this, contact the pastor by telephone.

Meetings Set

The Mid-Week meeting on Wednesday, Feb. 25, at 7:30 p. m. will be given over to a discussion of Reformed Missions in America.

The Guild for Christian Service is sponsoring a chicken and biscuits supper in the church basement on Thursday, Feb. 26, starting at 5:30 p. m. Tickets for adults and children are nominally priced.

Memorial Fund

A memorial fund to Marjorie Watson has been established within the church. Contributions should be given to Earl Snyder and checks made payable to "The Majorie Watson Fund."

To Present Concert

The Western Theological Seminary men's choir will present a sacred concert at the Reformed Church of the Comforter in Kingston, Saturday, Feb. 28, at 8 p. m. Western Seminary is the Reformed Church Seminary located in Holland, Michigan. The public is invited and a free will offering will be received

Seek Compromise On Boundary Line Grievance

A compromise was offered to three Windemere Heights residents seeking exclusion of their property from the corporate limits of Saugerties village at a grievance session of the village Board of Trustees Tuesday night in the trustee rooms.

Mayor George P. Holmes told The Freeman the board offered a 50 per cent of the assessed valuation of the property owned by Robert Schnell, Victor Lefkowitz and Jesse Yager whose lands are partially in the village and Saugerties township.

Each property was assessed on the village tax rolls at $8,100. The compromise offer would make the adjusted value at $4,050.

Mayor Holmes said the matter was turned over to Louis P. Francello, village attorney, following receipt of a petition for exclusion presented to the Monday night board meeting by Morris Rosenblum, local attorney representing the property owners.

The three Windemere residents claimed they were paying village taxes which entitled them to village service such as water, streets, police and fire protection. However as they are on the boundary of the village and town, and closer to Glasco, they must purchase water from Glasco water district and fire protection from Glasco Fire District. These extra charges increase the cost of operating their homes to more than their neighbors whose properties are in the town.

Rosenblum said he would advise his clients of the offer. Village Attorney Francello indicated that besides a referendum it might be necessary to have a bill passed in the legislature in order to change the boundaries of the village.

Mayor Holmes said 19 persons sought information about their assessment values at the grievance hearing and some slight adjustments were approved by the board of assessors. He said that the assessed valuation of the village had increased about $40,000 to $50,000 due to the new housing and buildings constructed during the past year.

Set Independent Party Caucus on Thursday Night

The Saugerties Independent Party caucus to choose candidates for the March 17 village election will be held Thursday, 7:30 p. m., in Saugerties VFW Hall, Livingston Street, Mayor George P. Holmes, titular head of the party said today.

The terms of the mayor and three trustees—Elton L. Johnson, Frank Short and Sheldon Longendyke—expire this year.

The meeting is open to the public and nominating petitions will be available for signing the mayor said. All present incumbents are candidates to succeed themselves it was reported.

Former Mayor Arthur F. Simmons of the Citizens' Protective Party told The Freeman his party had not set a date for a caucus and he did not know if the CPP's will enter a slate in this election.

3 Are Convicted For Lackawanna Holdup, Slaying

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Three men were convicted of first-degree murder Tuesday midnight in the shooting of a clothing store proprietor during a robbery.

The Erie County jury recommended leniency for only one of them, Dewitt R. Lee Jr., 21.

First-degree murder carries a penalty of life imprisonment or death in the electric chair.

The others are Walter T. (Pancho) Green and Henry (Snow) Flakes, both 31. Flakes was once a well-regarded heavyweight boxer. Both are ex-convicts.

The men, all Negroes, were accused of murder in the shooting of Joseph Friedman, 52, in his clothing store in nearby Lackawanna. About $100 and some clothing was taken from the store.

During the trial, the defense contended that Green and Flakes were drunk at the time.

One of the prosecution witnesses was Miss Beatrice Beckman, a 36-year-old white teacher who resigned shortly after the slaying.

In 1955 and 1956 he made tours to the Far East and Europe under the sponsorship of the State Dept., performing in over 100 concerts.

The program Sunday will include works by Telemann (1681-1787), Robert Kurka, Brahms, and Paul Ben-Haim.

Onteora to Pay Woodstock Debt To Government

The Onteora Central Schools Board of Education Monday night adopted a resolution authorizing payment to the U. S. Internal Revenue Department the sum of $5,326.90 covering withholding taxes owed by former Woodstock District No. 2 to the government.

The payment is being made to clear the books of the debit charged against Woodstock No. 2, but the $5,326.90 is one of the items included in the $15,000 short-term indebtedness which must be paid back by Woodstock taxpayers through a special tax levy.

Onteora will pay the Internal Revenue Department from the escrow account of Woodstock No. 2.

The item, which is expected to produce inquiries at tonight's audit meeting at the school, is broken down in four payments overdue as follows:

June 30, 1954 .....$1,101.60
Dec. 31, 1955 ..... 1,271.53
March 31, 1956 ..... 1,175.67
June 30, 1956 ..... 1,778.10

'A Holy Life' Theme For the Rev. Sands

"A Holy Life" is the theme for the Rev. G. Oliver Sands' sermon topic at Christ Lutheran Church in Woodstock, Sunday, Feb. 22 at 11 a. m., the second Sunday in Lent.

The Rev. Sands plans to take his theme from St. Paul's letter to the Thessalonians 4:1-8, especially the first verse: "that as ye have received of us, how ye ought to walk and please God, so ye would abound more and more."

Both Youth and Senior choirs are participating in special music for this service.

Sunday School Theme

"Facing Tribulation with Faith"—Mark 13:1-37—is the theme of the adult Sunday school class at 9:45 a. m. Classes are held at the same time for all ages. Everyone is welcome at both the study and worship sessions. We urge you to join us each Sunday.

Meeting Notices

The second sewing bee is scheduled to meet Tuesday, Feb. 24, at 10 a. m. at the parsonage. A covered dish luncheon will be served at noon.

Youth choir rehearses Sunday at 7 p. m.

Thursday at 7:30 p. m., the second Lenten service theme will be "The Way of Pardon," Isaiah 55:7. The senior choir plans a special anthem. Their regular rehearsal follows the service.

'Good News for the Christian' Is Topic For Rev. Wayne Olson

The sermon topic for the Rev. Wayne C. Olson Sunday at the Woodstock Reformed Church is "Good News for the Christian." Sunday worship is at 11 a. m.

Just as God sent Isaiah the prophet to comfort the Israelites in their time of distress, so also does God send us Jesus Christ, the Savior, to give us peace and salvation in this day of uncertainty and unrest. The service is open to all who have a desire to worship. Nursery facilities are provided.

Catechism Class

A Catechism class for young people 13 and over will be held Saturday, Feb. 21, at 10 a. m. The class is designed to acquaint the students with the meaning of church membership and the privileges and responsibilities relating thereto. There will be 10 class periods on successive Saturdays. If you wish to know more about this, contact the pastor by telephone.

Meetings Set

The Mid-Week meeting on Wednesday, Feb. 25, at 7:30 p. m. will be given over to a discussion of Reformed Missions in America.

The Guild for Christian Service is sponsoring a chicken and biscuits supper in the church basement on Thursday, Feb. 26, starting at 5:30 p. m. Tickets for adults and children are nominally priced.

Memorial Fund

A memorial fund to Marjorie Watson has been established within the church. Contributions should be given to Earl Snyder and checks made payable to "The Majorie Watson Fund."

To Present Concert

The Western Theological Seminary men's choir will present a sacred concert at the Reformed Church of the Comforter in Kingston, Saturday, Feb. 28, at 8 p. m. Western Seminary is the Reformed Church Seminary located in Holland, Michigan. The public is invited and a free will offering will be received

Seek Compromise On Boundary Line Grievance

A compromise was offered to three Windemere Heights residents seeking exclusion of their property from the corporate limits of Saugerties village at a grievance session of the village Board of Trustees Tuesday night in the trustee rooms.

Mayor George P. Holmes told The Freeman the board offered a 50 per cent of the assessed valuation of the property owned by Robert Schnell, Victor Lefkowitz and Jesse Yager whose lands are partially in the village and Saugerties township.

Each property was assessed on the village tax rolls at $8,100. The compromise offer would make the adjusted value at $4,050.

Mayor Holmes said the matter was turned over to Louis P. Francello, village attorney, following receipt of a petition for exclusion presented to the Monday night board meeting by Morris Rosenblum, local attorney representing the property owners.

The three Windemere residents claimed they were paying village taxes which entitled them to village service such as water, streets, police and fire protection. However as they are on the boundary of the village and town, and closer to Glasco, they must purchase water from Glasco water district and fire protection from Glasco Fire District. These extra charges increase the cost of operating their homes to more than their neighbors whose properties are in the town.

Rosenblum said he would advise his clients of the offer. Village Attorney Francello indicated that besides a referendum it might be necessary to have a bill passed in the legislature in order to change the boundaries of the village.

Mayor Holmes said 19 persons sought information about their assessment values at the grievance hearing and some slight adjustments were approved by the board of assessors. He said that the assessed valuation of the village had increased about $40,000 to $50,000 due to the new housing and buildings constructed during the past year.

Set Independent Party Caucus on Thursday Night

The Saugerties Independent Party caucus to choose candidates for the March 17 village election will be held Thursday, 7:30 p. m., in Saugerties VFW Hall, Livingston Street, Mayor George P. Holmes, titular head of the party said today.

The terms of the mayor and three trustees—Elton L. Johnson, Frank Short and Sheldon Longendyke—expire this year.

The meeting is open to the public and nominating petitions will be available for signing the mayor said. All present incumbents are candidates to succeed themselves it was reported.

Former Mayor Arthur F. Simmons of the Citizens' Protective Party told The Freeman his party had not set a date for a caucus and he did not know if the CPP's will enter a slate in this election.

3 Are Convicted For Lackawanna Holdup, Slaying

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Three men were convicted of first-degree murder Tuesday midnight in the shooting of a clothing store proprietor during a robbery.

The Erie County jury recommended leniency for only one of them, Dewitt R. Lee Jr., 21.

First-degree murder carries a penalty of life imprisonment or death in the electric chair.

The others are Walter T. (Pancho) Green and Henry (Snow) Flakes, both 31. Flakes was once a well-regarded heavyweight boxer. Both are ex-convicts.

The men, all Negroes, were accused of murder in the shooting of Joseph Friedman, 52, in his clothing store in nearby Lackawanna. About $100 and some clothing was taken from the store.

During the trial, the defense contended that Green and Flakes were drunk at the time.

Newburgh Players Nip Kingston, 58-56, in DUSO Thriller

HUSTLING CHARLEY — Breaking through the Newburgh defense for a second period goal last night at the Kate Walton field house is Charley Williams, Kingston High School guard. Al Handler (12) of the Goldbacks watches and John Kelly (10) of the Maroon gets set in case a rebound is needed. Also coming into the play are Dave O'Connor (54) of Kingston and NFA guard Ben King (13). The referee observing the action is Buck Gros. Newburgh won a thriller, 58-56. (Freeman photo)

Williams, Kelly Lead KHS in Big Upset Bid

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Newburgh Free Academy's highly touted Goldbacks had to fight for their basketball lives last night at the Kate Walton field house as a fired up Kingston High School team fought tooth and nail through 32 solid minutes before dropping a 58-56 heartbreaker before an enthusiastic crowd of more than 1,200 spectators.

The win by Newburgh, plus Poughkeepsie's upset of Liberty, leaves only Port Jervis as a contender to the Goldbacks for a DUSO league pennant. Those clubs collide Friday night at the Hilly City. The standings:

Team	Won	Lost
Newburgh	11	2
Port Jervis	8	3
Liberty	8	4
Kingston	9	5
Poughkeepsie	7	5
Monticello	6	6
Middletown	4	9
Ellenville	3	10
Fallsburgh	0	12

If there were ever a game the Maroons wanted to win, this was the one. They stayed on even terms with Newburgh for almost a half, pulled ahead late in the second period and doggedly held the margin until almost the bitter end.

With a little better than five minutes to go, the NFA crew took a 58-52 lead and appeared a shoo-in to wrap up another victory. Then the locals came to life in a desperate attempt to snatch what would have been one of the sweetest victories ever out of the fire.

Within Two Points

Charley Williams (and what a game he played) grabbed a rebound off the offensive backboards and swished it through the basket. Then he intercepted an errant Newburgh pass and hit with a jumper from fifteen out to make the score, 56-52, with the clock showing 1:12 to play.

The visitors worked the ball in a weave and Benny King was fouled with 25 seconds left. He missed the shot and Kingston recovered the rebound. With the crowd giving out with a deafening roar, John Kelly, Harry Pratt and then Kelly again missed shots which went in and out of the basket. Before Walt Harder could go up with another rebound the game ended and the Goldbacks and their happy fans had survived a bitter struggle.

Starting Five Superb

This was definitely Kingston's best game of the season. With star sophomore Joe Uhl still on the injured list, the starting five of Kelly, Harder, Hobie Armstrong, Pratt and Williams was superb. The big blow came with 2:32 left to play in the third period and the locals ahead, 44-37. At that point Armstrong committed his fifth foul. His rebounding was sorely missed the rest of the contest.

LeRoy Riley, Jack Coonan and Vinnie DeCerbo kept Newburgh percolating most of the contest. They took turns hitting at opportune times and had help in the backcourt from King and Charley Cotton, who was reinstated in the nick of time. He did a good job of controlling the ball in the third and fourth periods.

Riley was limited to seven baskets, but he made 11 of 14 foul shots. Coonan was guarded well by Pratt, but his outside one handers in the third quarter pulled Newburgh back into contention after the locals had moved ahead, 40-30. DeCerbo was steady all night and was deadly outside.

Charley Is Great

Williams was just tremendous the entire contest. He stole passes, blocked shots, rebounded and still scored 23 points. It was a truly great individual performance. Kelly was just a shade behind Charley. He directed the club and joined Harder in grabbing offensive rebounds. John also had 15 points. Pratt chipped in with 10 points and did a good job on Coonan.

One thing is certain. Newburgh won the game but the Kingston fans were impressed with the "guts" shown by the KHS players. They had their greatest hour of the season, even in defeat.

KHS Jayvees Lose, 41-29 To Newburgh

With only one starter from the team which beat the Newburgh jayvees earlier in the year in the lineup, the Kingston High School junior varsity went down to a 41-29 defeat last night at the Kate Walton Field House.

The locals held on for three periods but fell before the taller visitors in the final six minutes of play. Newburgh played with five starters all the way and the team outscored KHS, 16-5, in the final quarter.

Art Ferraro played his best game of the year for Bill Hurley's cagers and finished with 10 points. Al Brown had eight before fouling out in the final period. His loss turned the tide.

Madden-Potocko, The Floyd Flints Bridge Winners

Mrs. Joan Madden of Ellenville and William F. Potocko of Saugerties won first place on the North-South side in the 10-table Mitchell movement, duplicate bridge games sponsored by the Glenerie Club at the Jewish Community Center.

It was the second straight week Mrs. Madden had won with a different partner.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd W. Flint of Kingston took first place on the East-West side.

Second place on the North-South went to the consistent Hyde Park tandem of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brooks. I. H. Wheatcroft and Roy Wulff of Kingston placed third. Mrs. Harold Rakov and Mrs. Charles Walton of Kingston won second place on the East-West side, with Mrs. Esther Weissman and Mrs. Lamora Meyer of Kingston taking third.

The Glenerie Club will play its monthly Master Point game Tuesday, Feb. 24, at 8 p. m. at the Jewish Community Center.

Davis Cup Heroes Set for Tourney

NEW YORK (AP) — Three members of America's successful Davis Cup team, including Aljandro Olmedo, are in the handpicked field of 32 who open bids Thursday for the National Indoor Tennis Championship.

Despite his sparkling success in Australia, where he almost singlehandedly won the Davis Cup and then captured the Australian national title, Olmedo will be an underdog on the fast, ill-lighted Seventh Regiment Armory boards.

The tournament favorite is Dick Savitt of New York, defending champion and former Wimbledon titlist whose powerful service and volley are doubly effective on the hardwood surface.

Savitt was seeded No. 1 ahead of Olmedo, No. 2, and the latter's Davis Cup teammates, Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, and 18-year-old Earl Buchholz of St. Louis. MacKay is another blaster who is tougher in doors than out.

Leaders Stay Put In Bowling Tourney

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Standings in all divisions in the 56th annual American Bowling Congress Tournament underwent considerable alteration Tuesday but all the leaders stayed in front.

Van Wie Chevrolet of Baldwinsville, N.Y., and Vic's Bar of St. Louis came closest to grabbing top rungs. Van Wie posted a 2930 series, just 25 pins short of the open team division lead of Metropolitan Clothing Co., of Dayton, Ohio.

Vic's Bar took second place in the booster division with a 2707 series. The leader is Jones Truck Line of Muskogee, Okla., with 2712.

Only change in the singles, led by Fred Kolcz of Chicago with 681, came when Ed Queen of East St. Louis took fourth with 664.

Celts Near East Title In NBA Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Celtics, playing at a snazzy .750 pace in the National Basketball Assn., today had their magic number down to two for clinching the Eastern Division title.

Even without brilliant Bob Cousy, who is sidelined with a pulled thigh muscle, the Celtics Tuesday night downed the Philadelphia Warriors 95-84 in the opener of a doubleheader in New York. The New York Knickerbockers trounced the St. Louis Hawks 112-93 in the nightcap.

In the only other game, the Minneapolis Lakers whipped the Detroit Pistons 97-90 at Detroit.

In winning their 45th game in 60 starts, the Celtics ran away from Philadelphia midway in the first period. Boston built its advantage to 20 points late in the first half. Any combination of Celtics victories or New York setbacks will give Boston the title.

Easy Time

The Knickerbockers had an easy time against the Hawks, who clinched the Western Division crown last weekend. Bo bPettit of St. Louis led both clubs with 27 points while Ken Sears of New York had 26.

The Lakers' victory gave them a two-game lead over Detroit in the race for second place in the Western Division. Larry Foust paced the winners with 26 points. Earl Lloyd had 20 for the Pistons.

Poughkeepsie Five Nips Liberty, 52-50

Improving Poughkeepsie High School knocked Liberty out of the DUSO championship race last night with a 52-50 verdict at the Bridge City court. The win keeps the Pioneers in contention for a berth in the intersectional tournament. The team is tied with Kingston in the loss column.

Dick DePew and Bob Boschen were joined by Steve Albrecht and Jim Gordon in producing the win. The Pioneers were flogged at Liberty early in the season but they were just too good last night. DePew had 13 points to show the way. Boschen added 12, Albrecht 12 and Gordon 10 each. Josh Gerow had 19 for the Indians, Tom Lane had 13 and Alex Frankel 10.

Liberty led, 34-32, starting the last quarter. However, the home side edged in front and stayed there the rest of the tilt.

Elston's Half Game Off Pace

Elston's Sport Shop defeated Spada's Sport Shop, 61-55, last night to move within a half game of the pace setting DeWitt's in the YMCA "C" basketball league.

An 18-8 bulge in the fourth period nailed down the win for the Sportsmen, who relinquished the lead in the third period, after holding a 29-25 margin at halftime.

Erwin Silling rimmed 21 points for Elston's, with Bob Keating adding 16 on a series of dazzling layups. Terry Corkery scored 21 points for Spada's and his exit via the foul route with five minutes left to play was a big blow to Spada hopes.

Port Jervis Nips Middletown, 55-49

Port Jervis spotted Middletown a seven point lead in the opening minutes of the first quarter and then rallied to squeeze out a 55-49 decision and keep its DUSO pennant hopes alive.

The Middies led most of the way at their court and then fell before a fourth quarter barrage as the Porters netted 20 points against 13 for the home club.

Harry Boyd was high scorer for the Raiders with 16 points, ten of them coming at the foul line. Ted Perkowski had his best night of the season and finished with 14 markers. Bill Pepper had 13 and Wayne Ranich 11. John Barber (15) and Jeff Rosen (14) led the Middies in their upset bid.

Yost Resigns As Player Rep

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Yost resigned Tuesday as the American League player representative and there was a report that Robin Roberts would do likewise as the National League representative.

Yost, a third baseman traded by Washington to Detroit in December, said he wanted to concentrate on "doing a good job for Detroit." Roberts, veteran 32-year-old pitcher for the Philadelphia Phillies, is said to feel a younger player should take over as league representative. Roberts would remain as the Phils' representative.

The players have a meeting scheduled for March 24 at Tampa, Fla., at which time the Yost vacancy and any others would be filled.

Heavyweight Fight Slated For TV Showing?

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The Floyd-Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight title fight may be seen on home television.

"I'm leaning more toward home television than theater television," said Bill Rosensohn, the roving promoter. "I'm going to talks things over today with some network officials and see what the situation is. Of course, they can't make a definite offer until they know what city we pick for the fight."

That would be because of an almost certain TV blackout of the area in which the fight will be held. Television officials and sponsors are very much against blacking out the huge, rich New York market. Any blackout of the metropolitan area would have to result in a lowered bid.

So when will he announce the site?

"The week of March 1," said Rosensohn, freshly returned from a 12-day tour of Indianapolis, Minneapolis, Las Vegas, Los Angeles and Chicago. On Friday he plans to visit Philadelphia to see what that city has to offer.

Rosensohn said Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, was in favor of home TV at the moment.

"On home TV we would have a chance to show Patterson off to more people," said Rosensoh.

The date for the American's title defense against the undefeated, European champion from Sweden, hasn't been decided either. It probably will be held in late June.

AAU Cage Tourney Complete Sellout

NEW YOR K(AP) — The NCAA Basketball Tournament already is assured of capacity crowds for its semifinals and finals March 20-21 at Louisville's Freedom Hall, the NCAA Service Bureau announced today.

Last year, the final between Kentucky and Seattle was played before an all-time tournament record crowd of 18,803 at the same Freedom Hall. That turnout broke the record of 18,286 set at the semifinals the night before.

The only remaining seats, the service bureau said, are those to be allocated to the students of the four schools which qualify for the semifinals.

Juniors Fall Before Marvels

The YMCA Juniors failed in their second straight attempt to achieve their 27th win of the season, dropping a 62-59 decision to the Marvels, their eighth loss of the season.

The contest changed from a dull, defensive exhibition to a wide open fourth period in which the Juniors out scored the Marvels, 36-25.

Duane Van Demark pestered the Juniors for the second game in a row with 24 points. Bill Bliss (14) and Alan Tucker (13) also helped the Marvels' cause.

Tony Causa meshed 25 points in his best performance for the Juniors. Richie Hoffman canned 17.

Linton Nearing Capital Crown

Linton High has copped at least a tie for the Class A Basketball championship in the Capital district.

Trailing by as much as 11 points in the final period, the Blue Devils rallied Friday to beat Mont Pleasant, 63-59.

Linton has one game to play and that is against winless Troy. Amsterdam, the second place club, has to play Mont Pleasant in the other circuit clash.

The contests will determine which schools will represent Section Two in the intersectional tourney against Section Nine.

Newburgh Players Nip Kingston, 58-56, in DUSO Thriller

HUSTLING CHARLEY — Breaking through the Newburgh defense for a second period goal last night at the Kate Walton field house is Charley Williams, Kingston High School guard. Al Handler (12) of the Goldbacks watches and John Kelly (10) of the Maroon gets set in case a rebound is needed. Also coming into the play are Dave O'Connor (54) of Kingston and NFA guard Ben King (13). The referee observing the action is Buck Gros. Newburgh won a thriller, 58-56. (Freeman photo)

Williams, Kelly Lead KHS in Big Upset Bid

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Newburgh Free Academy's highly touted Goldbacks had to fight for their basketball lives last night at the Kate Walton field house as a fired up Kingston High School team fought tooth and nail through 32 solid minutes before dropping a 58-56 heartbreaker before an enthusiastic crowd of more than 1,200 spectators.

The win by Newburgh, plus Poughkeepsie's upset of Liberty, leaves only Port Jervis as a contender to the Goldbacks for a DUSO league pennant. Those clubs collide Friday night at the Hilly City. The standings:

Team	Won	Lost
Newburgh	11	2
Port Jervis	8	3
Liberty	8	4
Kingston	9	5
Poughkeepsie	7	5
Monticello	6	6
Middletown	4	9
Ellenville	3	10
Fallsburgh	0	12

If there were ever a game the Maroons wanted to win, this was the one. They stayed on even terms with Newburgh for almost a half, pulled ahead late in the second period and doggedly held the margin until almost the bitter end.

With a little better than five minutes to go, the NFA crew took a 58-52 lead and appeared a shoo-in to wrap up another victory. Then the locals came to life in a desperate attempt to snatch what would have been one of the sweetest victories ever out of the fire.

Within Two Points

Charley Williams (and what a game he played) grabbed a rebound off the offensive backboards and swished it through the basket. Then he intercepted an errant Newburgh pass and hit with a jumper from fifteen out to make the score, 56-52, with the clock showing 1:12 to play.

The visitors worked the ball in a weave and Benny King was fouled with 25 seconds left. He missed the shot and Kingston recovered the rebound. With the crowd giving out with a deafening roar, John Kelly, Harry Pratt and then Kelly again missed shots which went in and out of the basket. Before Walt Harder could go up with another rebound the game ended and the Goldbacks and their happy fans had survived a bitter struggle.

Starting Five Superb

This was definitely Kingston's best game of the season. With star sophomore Joe Uhl still on the injured list, the starting five of Kelly, Harder, Hobie Armstrong, Pratt and Williams was superb. The big blow came with 2:32 left to play in the third period and the locals ahead, 44-37. At that point Armstrong committed his fifth foul. His rebounding was sorely missed the rest of the contest.

LeRoy Riley, Jack Coonan and Vinnie DeCerbo kept Newburgh percolating most of the contest. They took turns hitting at opportune times and had help in the backcourt from King and Charley Cotton, who was reinstated in the nick of time. He did a good job of controlling the ball in the third and fourth periods.

Riley was limited to seven baskets, but he made 11 of 14 foul shots. Coonan was guarded well by Pratt, but his outside one handers in the third quarter pulled Newburgh back into contention after the locals had moved ahead, 40-30. DeCerbo was steady all night and was deadly outside.

Charley Is Great

Williams was just tremendous the entire contest. He stole passes, blocked shots, rebounded and still scored 23 points. It was a truly great individual performance. Kelly was just a shade behind Charley. He directed the club and joined Harder in grabbing offensive rebounds. John also had 15 points. Pratt chipped in with 10 points and did a good job on Coonan.

One thing is certain. Newburgh won the game but the Kingston fans were impressed with the "guts" shown by the KHS players. They had their greatest hour of the season, even in defeat.

KHS Jayvees Lose, 41-29 To Newburgh

With only one starter from the team which beat the Newburgh jayvees earlier in the year in the lineup, the Kingston High School junior varsity went down to a 41-29 defeat last night at the Kate Walton Field House.

The locals held on for three periods but fell before the taller visitors in the final six minutes of play. Newburgh played with five starters all the way and the team outscored KHS, 16-5, in the final quarter.

Art Ferraro played his best game of the year for Bill Hurley's cagers and finished with 10 points. Al Brown had eight before fouling out in the final period. His loss turned the tide.

Madden-Potocko, The Floyd Flints Bridge Winners

Mrs. Joan Madden of Ellenville and William F. Potocko of Saugerties won first place on the North-South side in the 10-table Mitchell movement, duplicate bridge games sponsored by the Glenerie Club at the Jewish Community Center.

It was the second straight week Mrs. Madden had won with a different partner.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd W. Flint of Kingston took first place on the East-West side.

Second place on the North-South went to the consistent Hyde Park tandem of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brooks. I. H. Wheatcroft and Roy Wulff of Kingston placed third. Mrs. Harold Rakov and Mrs. Charles Walton of Kingston won second place on the East-West side, with Mrs. Esther Weissman and Mrs. Lamora Meyer of Kingston taking third.

The Glenerie Club will play its monthly Master Point game Tuesday, Feb. 24, at 8 p. m. at the Jewish Community Center.

Davis Cup Heroes Set for Tourney

NEW YORK (AP) — Three members of America's successful Davis Cup team, including Aljandro Olmedo, are in the handpicked field of 32 who open bids Thursday for the National Indoor Tennis Championship.

Despite his sparkling success in Australia, where he almost singlehandedly won the Davis Cup and then captured the Australian national title, Olmedo will be an underdog on the fast, ill-lighted Seventh Regiment Armory boards.

The tournament favorite is Dick Savitt of New York, defending champion and former Wimbledon titlist whose powerful service and volley are doubly effective on the hardwood surface.

Savitt was seeded No. 1 ahead of Olmedo, No. 2, and the latter's Davis Cup teammates, Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, and 18-year-old Earl Buchholz of St. Louis. MacKay is another blaster who is tougher in doors than out.

Leaders Stay Put In Bowling Tourney

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Standings in all divisions in the 56th annual American Bowling Congress Tournament underwent considerable alteration Tuesday but all the leaders stayed in front.

Van Wie Chevrolet of Baldwinsville, N.Y., and Vic's Bar of St. Louis came closest to grabbing top rungs. Van Wie posted a 2930 series, just 25 pins short of the open team division lead of Metropolitan Clothing Co., of Dayton, Ohio.

Vic's Bar took second place in the booster division with a 2707 series. The leader is Jones Truck Line of Muskogee, Okla., with 2712.

Celts Near East Title In NBA Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Celtics, playing at a snazzy .750 pace in the National Basketball Assn., today had their magic number down to two for clinching the Eastern Division title.

Even without brilliant Bob Cousy, who is sidelined with a pulled thigh muscle, the Celtics Tuesday night downed the Philadelphia Warriors 95-84 in the opener of a doubleheader in New York. The New York Knickerbockers trounced the St. Louis Hawks 112-93 in the nightcap.

In the only other game, the Minneapolis Lakers whipped the Detroit Pistons 97-90 at Detroit.

In winning their 45th game in 60 starts, the Celtics ran away from Philadelphia midway in the first period. Boston built its advantage to 20 points late in the first half. Any combination of Celtics victories or New York setbacks will give Boston the title.

Easy Time

The Knickerbockers had an easy time against the Hawks, who clinched the Western Division crown last weekend. Bo bPettit of St. Louis led both clubs with 27 points while Ken Sears of New York had 26.

The Lakers' victory gave them a two-game lead over Detroit in the race for second place in the Western Division. Larry Foust paced the winners with 26 points. Earl Lloyd had 20 for the Pistons.

Poughkeepsie Five Nips Liberty, 52-50

Improving Poughkeepsie High School knocked Liberty out of the DUSO championship race last night with a 52-50 verdict at the Bridge City court. The win keeps the Pioneers in contention for a berth in the intersectional tournament. The team is tied with Kingston in the loss column.

Dick DePew and Bob Boschen were joined by Steve Albrecht and Jim Gordon in producing the win. The Pioneers were flogged at Liberty early in the season but they were just too good last night. DePew had 13 points to show the way. Boschen added 12, Albrecht 12 and Gordon 10 each. Josh Gerow had 19 for the Indians, Tom Lane had 13 and Alex Frankel 10.

Liberty led, 34-32, starting the last quarter. However, the home side edged in front and stayed there the rest of the tilt.

Yost Resigns As Player Rep

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Yost resigned Tuesday as the American League player representative and there was a report that Robin Roberts would do likewise as the National League representative.

Yost, a third baseman traded by Washington to Detroit in December, said he wanted to concentrate on "doing a good job for Detroit." Roberts, veteran 32-year-old pitcher for the Philadelphia Phillies, is said to feel a younger player should take over as league representative. Roberts would remain as the Phils' representative.

The players have a meeting scheduled for March 24 at Tampa, Fla., at which time the Yost vacancy and any others would be filled.

Heavyweight Fight Slated For TV Showing?

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The Floyd-Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight title fight may be seen on home television.

"I'm leaning more toward home television than theater television," said Bill Rosensohn, the roving promoter. "I'm going to talks things over today with some network officials and see what the situation is. Of course, they can't make a definite offer until they know what city we pick for the fight."

That would be because of an almost certain TV blackout of the area in which the fight will be held. Television officials and sponsors are very much against blacking out the huge, rich New York market. Any blackout of the metropolitan area would have to result in a lowered bid.

So when will he announce the site?

"The week of March 1," said Rosensohn, freshly returned from a 12-day tour of Indianapolis, Minneapolis, Las Vegas, Los Angeles and Chicago. On Friday he plans to visit Philadelphia to see what that city has to offer.

Rosensohn said Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, was in favor of home TV at the moment.

"On home TV we would have a chance to show Patterson off to more people," said Rosensoh.

The date for the American's title defense against the undefeated, European champion from Sweden, hasn't been decided either. It probably will be held in late June.

AAU Cage Tourney Complete Sellout

NEW YOR K(AP) — The NCAA Basketball Tournament already is assured of capacity crowds for its semifinals and finals March 20-21 at Louisville's Freedom Hall, the NCAA Service Bureau announced today.

Last year, the final between Kentucky and Seattle was played before an all-time tournament record crowd of 18,803 at the same Freedom Hall. That turnout broke the record of 18,286 set at the semifinals the night before.

The only remaining seats, the service bureau said, are those to be allocated to the students of the four schools which qualify for the semifinals.

Juniors Fall Before Marvels

The YMCA Juniors failed in their second straight attempt to achieve their 27th win of the season, dropping a 62-59 decision to the Marvels, their eighth loss of the season.

The contest changed from a dull, defensive exhibition to a wide open fourth period in which the Juniors out scored the Marvels, 36-25.

Duane Van Demark pestered the Juniors for the second game in a row with 24 points. Bill Bliss (14) and Alan Tucker (13) also helped the Marvels' cause.

Tony Causa meshed 25 points in his best performance for the Juniors. Richie Hoffman canned 17.

Linton Nearing Capital Crown

Linton High has copped at least a tie for the Class A Basketball championship in the Capital district.

Trailing by as much as 11 points in the final period, the Blue Devils rallied Friday to beat Mont Pleasant, 63-59.

Linton has one game to play and that is against winless Troy. Amsterdam, the second place club, has to play Mont Pleasant in the other circuit clash.

The contests will determine which schools will represent Section Two in the intersectional tourney against Section Nine.

Saugerties High Beats Beacon; Onteora Loses, 69 - 63

Bob Wolven Nets 32 Points In 77-66 Win

Bob and Barry Wolven, the two boys with the same last names, made life miserable for Beacon yesterday at Saugerties as the Sawyers dumped the Southern Dutchess club, 77-66, to remain in a tie for first place in the Dutchess County Scholastic League. Saugerties has a 4-2 league mark while Arlington and Wappingers are 5-2.

Bob W. tied his own personal scoring record at the new palace as he potted 32 points in a shiny performance. Barry W. was a defensive whiz and fed "Mouse" many of his baskets. Joining the Wolvens in poducing a good team victory were Big Bill Eckhoff and Bob Whitaker. Both boys did good jobs on the backboards as the Sawyers boosted their record to 10-4 for the season.

The Beaconites are mired in the DCSL cellar, but they played the home side on even terms for the first eight minutes, trailing by only an 11-10 margin. However, Saugerties scored 25 points in the second quarter and coasted from then on. The losers had a productive fourth period but it was against reserves as Coach Bud Smith emptied the bench.

Hit With Variety

Bob W. hit on a variety of shots and finished with 13 baskets and six foul shots. He scored 32 points earlier in the season against Wappingers and Barry W. made 31 in the first game at the gym against Roosevelt. They're nice to have around and since both of them return next season, you can expect the Sawyers to be tough again.

Barry W. had eight points, his low of the season. However, he held Bill Phelps, Beacon's high scoring forward to only a pair of field goals. Eckhoff scored five markers but was a bearcat on both backboards. Whitaker, improving game by game, made 11 points and was also rugged underneath.

Aragon Punished For Winning Fight

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Welterweight Art (Golden Boy) Aragon is back in the headlines, and again the center of controversy.

Aragon, 30, was punished for $2,000 of his $8,000 purse for his four-round knockout Jan. 31 over Charley Sawyer of Los Angeles at the Hollywood Legion Stadium. Sawyer was fined $1,000 of his $2,000 end of the purse.

The penalties were announced in Sacramento late Tuesday by the state athletic commission.

Boxing experts here were somewhat aghast at the findings of the commission. Aragon was penalized for lack of effort although he knocked Sawyer down three times in the first round and knocked him out in the fourth round in what Referee Tommy Hart called a legitimate kayo punch.

Arlington Tops Indians As SaVino Stars

Little Mike SaVino went on a scoring spree last night at Onteora to lead his Arlington High School teammates to a pulsating 69-63 decision over the home club. The game was in doubt until the final seconds as the Indians tried time and time again to get in contention after falling behind in the first quarter.

Onteora was ice cold during the first eight minutes. Coach Ed Witko's cagers just couldn't find the range and they trailed, 17-7, going into the second quarter. From then on the game was nip and tuck all the way though the Indians couldn't quite catch the highly rated visitors.

Mighty Mike

SaVino was the big difference. In the last period he kept his team percolating with 13 points. Each time Onteora would make a basket, Mighty Mike would do the same for AHS. He finished the night with 27 points in a superlative performance. He is one of the best small players to appear on the scene in recent seasons.

The Indians came within two points twice in the last period but each time Mr. SaVino was on the scene to throw in some deuces.

Aiding the Arlington ace in the scoring was Alex Credle with 15 points, Mike Moyer with 12 and Jerry Anderson with 11. Bruce Wiederspiel played a bangup job for the Indians and had 25 markers in a good show. Tom McCrosson had 15.

Arlington won a thrilling jayvee game, 66-59. Art Crum led the winners with 21 points and Len Muhlich made 20 for Onteora.

False Alarm Fireman

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Fellow firemen got to wondering why an 18-year-old member of a suburban volunteer fire company was first on the scene at three false alarms.

In court Tuesday, William H. Baughman admitted he had turned in the false alarms and explained: "I wanted to show off that I was a fireman."

He was fined $200 and placed on two years' probation.

Rickey Says Major Leagues Should Expand

NEW YORK (AP) — Branch Rickey says the "time for expansion to a third major league in baseball is here now, not five or 10 years from now."

The third league, the chairman of the board of the Pittsburgh Pirates contends, "should come about under the structure of organized baseball and with the aid and guidance of the American and National leagues."

Rickey now in semi-retirement, lashed out at major league clubowners for their inaction at the sportsmanship brotherhood's awards luncheon honoring Stan Musial Tuesday.

Rickey brushed off Commissioner Ford Frick's proposal for eventual expansion to two 10 or 12 team leagues as unworkable, and blamed the major leagues for pointing the minor leagues toward financial doom by their quest for television gold.

"I know there is enough manpower and funds available for a third major league and you can be sure the club owners know it, too," Rickey said.

Lists Two Musts

"There are at least 16 cities that want major league baseball and could support it," he added, and then listed two "musts" for formation of a new league.

One, he said, there must be a franchise for New York — and two, it must be done under strict guidance by the present leagues. The latter was in reference to the so-called "outlaw" league proposed several months ago by the New York Mayor's Committee on Baseball if a third league is impossible under the framework of organized baseball.

He listed as cities ready for for major league baseball Montreal, Toronto, Buffalo, Miami, Atlanta, New Orleans, Birmingham, Houston, Denver, Fort Worth-Dallas, San Diego, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Portland and Seattle.

Big Names Missing In Gold Tournament

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Some of the top names — Arnold Palmer, Dow Finsterwald, Jay Hebert, Ken Venturi, Art Wall and E. J. Harrison — were missing today as the 150-man field for the $20,000 Texas Open went through final tuneup rounds.

However, there was plenty of talent left as Gene Littler, Marty Furgol, Julios Boros, Mike Souchak, Jimmy Demaret, Doug Ford, Jack Burke and defending champion Bill Johnston tested Brackenridge Park's 6,500 yards where par was given a mild lacing Tuesday in qualifying rounds of the tour's lesser lights.

Rondout Lions To Sponsor AAU Bouts in March

Rondout Valley Lions Club will sponsor the 30th Adirondack AAU Golden Gloves tournament Friday and Saturday (March 20-21) at the municipal auditorium.

Buddy Emberson, pre-war amateur boxing star in Kingston, is chairman of the Lions Club committee and will work in conjunction with Ben Becker of Albany.

A team will be selected from the winners to compete in the national AAU championships at Toledo, Ohio, on April 2 to 5.

The Adirondack District comprises 26 counties in the eastern and northeastern portion of New York State.

George Ham of Stone Ridge, president of the Rondout Lions Club, is confident the tournament will be one of the finest ever staged by the Adirondack group.

'There are several oustanding teams coming to Kingston," said Emberson, "and Kingston fans will get a chance to see something they haven't seen in several years—some topnotch amateur boxers."

Liston, DeJohn To Meet Tonight In TV Battle

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sonny Liston and Mike DeJohn collide tonight in a televised heavyweight sluggers' match unlikely to go its 10-round limit.

The winner will be a sure candidate for a chance at Floyd Patterson's title.

Liston, 27, from Philadelphia, was being favored at 8-5. He has won 13 of 22 fights by knockouts and lost only one bout. DeJohn, 28, of Syracuse, N.Y., has knocked out 25 of his 42 opponents and has lost six.

Liston, ninth-ranked by Ring Magazine, is a shuffling stalker who employs a left jab and right cross from a standup position. The 10th-ranked DeJohn, an upper cut artist, likes to crouch and counterpunch.

Promoter Chris Dundee looked for a record crowd of 6,000 to 6,500 at Exhibition Hall, where the 10 p. m. (EST) bout will be televised by ABC.

Coupons for Rides

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Four coupons from a soap company's products soon will get you a free ride on buses and trolleys of the Pittsburgh Railways Co.

The company announced Tuesday it had worked out the premium deal with B. T. Babbit, Inc., in an effort to stimulate declining operations.

Robertson Sets School Mark As Bearcats Excel, 102-73

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

It has taken the greatest per game pace in major college basketball history to do it, but Oscar Robertson has shattered in less than two seasons a Cincinnati scoring record it took a fine player named Jack Twyman four years to set.

The brilliant Bearcat came off a 10-day rest with a 43-point job Tuesday night as streaking Cincinnati overwhelmed Miami of Ohio 102-73. Robertson now has scored 1,612 points in 47 games compared to the old Cincinnati school record of 1,598 set in 90 games by Twyman, now a star of the professional Cincinnati Royals, from 1951 through 1955.

The Big O has been traveling at a 34.3 per game pace since he made the Bearcats an overnight national power last season. It is the fastest pace in major school history, approached only by former Furman ace Frank Selvy's 32.5 career average.

33.1 Average

Oscar's average for the current season rose to 33.1 in the featured game of a relatively slim program. Improving Southern Methodist moved closer to TCU's Southwest Conference leaders, spilling Texas 78-61; Duquesne beat Dayton 65-57 and DePaul downed Louisville 70-63 to improve their tournament chances in other highlights.

Duke, with Carroll Youngkin scoring 30 points and plucking 20 rebounds, scored an 85-78 Atlantic Coast Conference decision over Wake Forest, and 5-10 Terry Randall's 20 points triggered Georgia Tech to a 59-49 victory over Tennessee in the Southeastern Conference.

Robertson hit 17 field goals and converted nine of 13 free throws for Cincinnati, now 17-2 with an 11-game winning streak. The Bearcats, idle since Feb. 7, get back to defending their Missouri Valley Conference leadership against Wichita on Saturday.

In West Coast A.A. matches, front-running St. Mary's, Calif., beat San Francisco 91-53, and Santa Clara toppled College of the Pacific 64-56.

Harvard Rallies

Harvard made up a seven-point halftime deficit behind the play of Bill Richling, Griff McClellan and George Harrington and nipped Brandeis 74-73, and Memphis State held Jim Hagan, with a 28 point average, to 20 in turning back Tennessee Tech, 63-60.

Maine whipped New Hampshire 96-83 and moved to within a game of perennial champ Connecticut in the Yankee Conference, and the Quantico Marines, behind Jack Sullivan's 22 points, shaded Niagara 83-82.

Old Gun

ARDMORE, Okla. (AP) — Fifty years ago Buck Garrett, sheriff of Carter County, left a .45 revolver with Polk Anderson then a bank president. The weapon still is on display at the bank. It last was fired Nov. 11, 1918 — the first World War Armistice.

Ten times as many American soldiers died of disease in the Spanish-American war than perished from battle wounds.

False Alarm Fireman

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Fellow firemen got to wondering why an 18-year-old member of a suburban volunteer fire company was first on the scene at three false alarms.

In court Tuesday, William H. Baughman admitted he had turned in the false alarms and explained: "I wanted to show off that I was a fireman."

He was fined $200 and placed on two years' probation.

Rickey Says Major Leagues Should Expand

NEW YORK (AP) — Branch Rickey says the "time for expansion to a third major league in baseball is here now, not five or 10 years from now."

The third league, the chairman of the board of the Pittsburgh Pirates contends, "should come about under the structure of organized baseball and with the aid and guidance of the American and National leagues."

Rickey now in semi-retirement, lashed out at major league club-owners for their inaction at the sportsmanship brotherhood's awards luncheon honoring Stan Musial Tuesday.

Rickey brushed off Commissioner Ford Frick's proposal for eventual expansion to two 10 or 12 team leagues as unworkable, and blamed the major leagues for pointing the minor leagues toward financial doom by their quest for television gold.

"I know there is enough manpower and funds available for a third major league and you can be sure the club owners know it, too," Rickey said.

Lists Two Musts

"There are at least 16 cities that want major league baseball and could support it," he added, and then listed two "musts" for formation of a new league.

One, he said, there must be a franchise for New York — and two, it must be done under strict guidance by the present leagues. The latter was in reference to the so-called "outlaw" league proposed several months ago by the New York Mayor's Committee on Baseball if a third league is impossible under the framework of organized baseball.

He listed as cities ready for for major league baseball Montreal, Toronto, Buffalo, Miami, Atlanta, New Orleans, Birmingham, Houston, Denver, Fort Worth-Dallas, San Diego, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Portland and Seattle.

Big Names Missing In Gold Tournament

However, there was plenty of talent left as Gene Littler, Marty Furgol, Julios Boros, Mike Souchak, Jimmy Demaret, Doug Ford, Jack Burke and defending champion Bill Johnston tested Brackenridge Park's 6,500 yards where par was given a mild lacing Tuesday in qualifying rounds of the tour's lesser lights.

Ed Kynch, 22-year-old club professional from Sidney, N. Y., laid down a 2-under-par 69 to lead 150 would - be qualifiers seeking 70 spots in the tournament. Bert Weaver of Beaumont, Tex., and Huston La Clair of Birmingham shot 70's. A 77 was required to qualify and only two of 23 shooting.

Rondout Lions To Sponsor AAU Bouts in March

Rondout Valley Lions Club will sponsor the 30th Adirondack AAU Golden Gloves tournament Friday and Saturday (March 20-21) at the municipal auditorium.

Buddy Emberson, pre-war amateur boxing star in Kingston, is chairman of the Lions Club committee and will work in conjunction with Ben Becker of Albany.

A team will be selected from the winners to compete in the national AAU championships at Toledo, Ohio, on April 2 to 5.

The Adirondack District comprises 26 counties in the eastern and northeastern portion of New York State.

George Ham of Stone Ridge, president of the Rondout Lions Club, is confident the tournament will be one of the finest ever staged by the Adirondack group.

'There are several oustanding teams coming to Kingston," said Emberson, "and Kingston fans will get a chance to see something they haven't seen in several years—some topnotch amateur boxers."

Liston, DeJohn To Meet Tonight In TV Battle

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sonny Liston and Mike DeJohn collide tonight in a televised heavyweight sluggers' match unlikely to go its 10-round limit.

The winner will be a sure candidate for a chance at Floyd Patterson's title.

Liston, 27, from Philadelphia, was being favored at 8-5. He has won 13 of 22 fights by knockouts and lost only one bout. DeJohn, 28, of Syracuse, N.Y., has knocked out 25 of his 42 opponents and has lost six.

Liston, ninth-ranked by Ring Magazine, is a shuffling stalker who employs a left jab and right cross from a standup position. The 10th-ranked DeJohn, an upper cut artist, likes to crouch and counterpunch.

Promoter Chris Dundee looked for a record crowd of 6,000 to 6,500 at Exhibition Hall, where the 10 p. m. (EST) bout will be televised by ABC.

Coupons for Rides

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Four coupons from a soap company's products soon will get you a free ride on buses and trolleys of the Pittsburgh Railways Co.

The company announced Tuesday it had worked out the premium deal with B. T. Babbit, Inc., in an effort to stimulate declining operations.

Robertson Sets School Mark As Bearcats Excel, 102-73

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

It has taken the greatest per game pace in major college basketball history to do it, but Oscar Robertson has shattered in less than two seasons a Cincinnati scoring record it took a fine player named Jack Twyman four years to set.

The brilliant Bearcat came off a 10-day rest with a 43-point job Tuesday night as streaking Cincinnati overwhelmed Miami of Ohio 102-73. Robertson now has scored 1,612 points in 47 games compared to the old Cincinnati school record of 1,598 set in 90 games by Twyman, now a star of the professional Cincinnati Royals, from 1951 through 1955.

The Big O has been traveling at a 34.3 per game pace since he made the Bearcats an overnight national power last season. It is the fastest pace in major school history, approached only by former Furman ace Frank Selvy's 32.5 career average.

33.1 Average

Oscar's average for the current season rose to 33.1 in the featured game of a relatively slim program. Improving Southern Methodist moved closer to TCU's Southwest Conference leaders, spilling Texas 78-61; Duquesne beat Dayton 65-57 and DePaul downed Louisville 70-63 to improve their tournament chances in other highlights.

Duke, with Carroll Youngkin scoring 30 points and plucking 20 rebounds, scored an 85-78 Atlantic Coast Conference decision over Wake Forest, and 5-10 Terry Randall's 20 points triggered Georgia Tech to a 59-49 victory over Tennessee in the Southeastern Conference.

Robertson hit 17 field goals and converted nine of 13 free throws for Cincinnati, now 17-2 with an 11-game winning streak. The Bearcats, idle since Feb. 7, get back to defending their Missouri Valley Conference leadership against Wichita on Saturday.

In West Coast A.A. matches, front-running St. Mary's, Calif., beat San Francisco 91-53, and Santa Clara toppled College of the Pacific 64-56.

Harvard Rallies

Harvard made up a seven-point halftime deficit behind the play of Bill Richling, Griff McClellan and George Harrington and nipped Brandeis 74-73, and Memphis State held Jim Hagan, with a 28 point average, to 20 in turning back Tennessee Tech, 63-60.

Maine whipped New Hampshire 96-83 and moved to within a game of perennial champ Connecticut in the Yankee Conference, and the Quantico Marines, behind Jack Sullivan's 22 points, shaded Niagara 83-82.

Old Gun

ARDMORE, Okla. (AP) — Fifty years ago Buck Garrett, sheriff of Carter County, left a .45 revolver with Polk Anderson then a bank president. The weapon still is on display at the bank. It last was fired Nov. 11, 1918 — the first World War Armistice.

Ten times as many American soldiers died of disease in the Spanish-American war than perished from battle wounds.

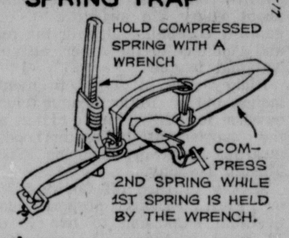
SETTING A DOUBLE-SPRING TRAP



LARGE SIZE DOUBLE-SPRING TRAPS ARE DIFFICULT TO SET BY COMPRESSING BOTH SPRINGS AT ONCE. SOME TRAPPERS USE A NAIL UNDER THE JAW POST TO HOLD ONE COMPRESSED SPRING WHILE COMPRESSING 2ND SPRING TO SET TRAP, BUT IF NAIL IS DISLODGED IT MAY FLY DANGEROUSLY. IT'S SAFER TO HOLD COMPRESSED SPRING WITH AN INEXPENSIVE WRENCH WHILE COMPRESSING 2ND SPRING. (NOTE DIRECTION OF SET, DOUBLE SPRINGS.)

Senators Start Training Today

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—The shortest and most compacted conditioning program since World War II starts today when the Washington Senators open their Orlando, Fla., spring training camp in preparation for the 1959 baseball season.

Only the battery men will be present but by the end of this month all 16 major league clubs will be hard at work, trying to cram two months work into less than six weeks.

New York, Los Angeles and Pittsburgh will inaugurate their training season Thursday; Boston, Detroit and St. Louis will start Friday; Milwaukee will pitch camp Saturday and Kansas City Sunday. All others, with the exception of Philadelphia, will get underway Monday, Feb. 23.

The Phillies, conducting an instructional school at Clearwater, Fla., since Feb. 6, won't get started until Feb. 27, when the full squad reports.

Odd Fellows Win Ellenville Game

Odd Fellows shaded the Lions Club, 31-30, in Little League basketball competition at the Joseph Slutsky Center in Ellenville, snapping a nine-game winning streak of the losers, who dipped to third place in the standings.

McCombs and Katz each had 12 points for the winners. Elks Lodge defeated B'nai B'rith, 18-13, with Rogow hitting 12 points. The Knights swamped Eddie's, 30-17, as Binder meshed 22 points. Channel Master Bullets won on forfeit from Jewish War Vets, who were unable to field a team.

In the adult league, Nevele Country Club downed Channel Master, 73-58, and Wenig's tripped Friendly Service Station, 54-51, in overtime. Bob Gorman of the FSS squad set a new individual scoring record with 34 points.

Ellenville Police and Abe Levine, who tied for first place in the first half, are tied with 2-0 marks in the second round. John Paes reigns as the leading scorer.

Wappingers Falls Downs Highland Five

Warming up for a crucial DCSL match with Beacon Friday night, the Wappingers Indians eased past Highland 64-46, yesterday at the Falls Court.

Thirteen players saw action for Dave Beverly's hoopsters and Julie Pigliacampi, as usual, led the show. He swished 22 points. Gary Brown added 19. Herb Lee, who specialized in grabbing rebounds, got 31 of them.

Phil Bezzaro with 18 markers and Ralph Penny with 12 paced the Highlanders. Wappingers lead at the quarter stops, 10-4, 21-18, and 42-31. It was close for only a half.

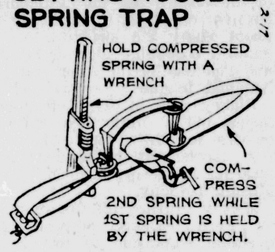
SETTING A DOUBLE-SPRING TRAP



LARGE SIZE DOUBLE-SPRING TRAPS ARE DIFFICULT TO SET BY COMPRESSING BOTH SPRINGS AT ONCE. SOME TRAPPERS USE A NAIL UNDER THE JAW POST TO HOLD ONE COMPRESSED SPRING WHILE COMPRESSING 2ND SPRING TO SET TRAP, BUT IF NAIL IS DISLODGED IT MAY FLY DANGEROUSLY. IT'S SAFER TO HOLD COMPRESSED SPRING WITH AN INEXPENSIVE WRENCH WHILE COMPRESSING 2ND SPRING. (NOTE DIRECTION OF SET, DOUBLE SPRINGS.)

Senators Start Training Today

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—The shortest and most compacted conditioning program since World War II starts today when the Washington Senators open their Orlando, Fla., spring training camp in preparation for the 1959 baseball season.

Only the battery men will be present but by the end of this month all 16 major league clubs will be hard at work, trying to cram two months work into less than six weeks.

New York, Los Angeles and Pittsburgh will inaugurate their training season Thursday; Boston, Detroit and St. Louis will start Friday; Milwaukee will pitch camp Saturday and Kansas City Sunday. All others, with the exception of Philadelphia, will get underway Monday, Feb. 23.

The Phillies, conducting an instructional school at Clearwater, Fla., since Feb. 6, won't get started until Feb. 27, when the full squad reports.

Odd Fellows Win Ellenville Game

Odd Fellows shaded the Lions Club, 31-30, in Little League basketball competition at the Joseph Slutsky Center in Ellenville, snapping a nine-game winning streak of the losers, who dipped to third place in the standings.

McCombs and Katz each had 12 points for the winners. Elks Lodge defeated B'nai B'rith, 18-13, with Rogow hitting 12 points. The Knights swamped Eddie's, 30-17, as Binder meshed 22 points. Channel Master Bullets won on forfeit from Jewish War Vets, who were unable to field a team.

In the adult league, Nevele Country Club downed Channel Master, 73-58, and Wenig's tripped Friendly Service Station, 54-51, in overtime. Bob Gorman of the FSS squad set a new individual scoring record with 34 points.

Ellenville Police and Abe Levine, who tied for first place in the first half, are tied with 2-0 marks in the second round. John Paes reigns as the leading scorer.

Wappingers Falls Downs Highland Five

Warming up for a crucial DCSL match with Beacon Friday night, the Wappingers Indians eased past Highland 64-46, yesterday at the Falls Court.

Thirteen players saw action for Dave Beverly's hoopsters and Julie Pigliacampi, as usual, led the show. He swished 22 points. Gary Brown added 19. Herb Lee, who specialized in grabbing rebounds, got 31 of them.

Phil Bezzaro with 18 markers and Ralph Penny with 12 paced the Highlanders. Wappingers lead at the quarter stops, 10-4, 21-18, and 42-31. It was close for only a half.

DeGraff Is Named To Magazine Post

Ervin E. DeGraff, of Scarsdale, son of a former Kingston resident, has been named publisher of "Petroleum Week," "National Petroleum News," "Oilgram News," and "Price Services" by the McGraw-Hill Publishing Company of New York City.

He is the son of Arthur DeGraff, now of Bristol, Conn., and grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. William DeGraff, long-time Kingston residents.

DeGraff joined McGraw-Hill in 1941 as an advertising salesman in the central district for its publication, "Business Week." He served in the Navy 1943 to 1945, attaining the rank of lieutenant, and rejoined the magazine in 1946 in the eastern district. Later he became associate manager of the Atlantic Sales District and in 1950 he was appointed assistant director of advertising and assistant vice president.

WALLKILL NEWS

RIDC Plans Talks On Industry for Area on March 19

WALLKILL — Plans were formulated Friday evening for a Wallkill Valley meeting of local government officials at the Town Hall, Walden, March 19 at 8 p. m.

Members of the Regional Industrial Development Committee set the date and place at a meeting here.

Invited to the special meetings are members of the town boards of Towns of Montgomery, Crawford and Shawangunk; and village board members of Walden, Maybrook and Montgomery, and planning board members in the entire area.

Jesse Clark of Walden, an RIDC member, said the local officers will hear industrial talks by a panel of speakers from the state and county levels and by representatives of area utility companies.

At the meeting, the RIDC voted to sponsor a program to induce local areas in the Wallkill Valley to "clean up" and tidy their own areas in an effort to attract industries to settle in the area.

"We must sell our own residents on the idea," Mr. Clark said. He pointed out that industries are attracted to towns and villages that present a pleasant place in which to work and live.

Blood Program To Be Continued

The Blood Assurance program is being coninued in the village of Wallkill for another year. Under the program anyone enrolled is entitled to free blood up to any amount, if needed.

Outstanding features of the program are that those enrolled are covered any place in the United States and even if unable to donate blood, they are still assured of all the blood they may need, just by joining the program.

This is the fourth year that Wallkill has had the blood program. Each year the number of people has increased and last year 47 persons covered, used the program.

The Wallkill State Prison is also a part of the program and the first blood bank of 1959 will be held Feb. 25 under the direction of Dr. Torrence Payne of St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh.

Anyone interested in joining the program may contact the Blood Assurance chairman of any local organization, or the general chairman, Mrs. James B. Crowell.

Heart Sunday Set For February 22

"Heart Sunday" will be observed in Wallkill Feb. 22, with a house-to-house canvass by workers under the chairmanship of Mrs. John Scarzello, with Mrs. George Wildrick as co-chairman. Mrs. Scarzello urges residents to be on the lookout for the caller, or to use the envelopes they will leave if the householder is not at home.

Area Scouts Attend Albany Ceremonies

INIDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Puzzled authorities at the Indiana University Medical Center couldn't account for a freshly painted sign in a new dormitory, reading, "Women please confine visitation to the lounge." They solved the mystery by following a series of arrows they came to the room of a hopeful student labeled "Lounge."

Tillson P-TA Hears Achievement Reports

The Tillson School Parent-Teacher Association, formerly the Mothers Club, received reports of progress at the February meeting. Robert Sell was program chairman.

An informal report was given by Douglas Sarr on the newly organized Cub Scout Troop, sponsored by the P-TA.

The question of graduation was left up to the teachers of the school while room mothers will make arrangements for suitable festivities.

The ways and means committee, Mrs. Paul Mertz, chairman will announce fund raising plans to augment the treasury in order to prepare for the granduation plans when culminated.

A nominating committee to select candidates for officers for the coming year will be headed by Vincent Brancato assisted by Mrs. Robert Messner and Robert Sell, was chosen by Raymond Boyle, president.

It was announced that the eighth grade in Mr. Brancato's room had won the attendance award for P-TA attendance at the January meeting

A memorial plaque, suitably inscribed by Hollis Harvey was presented to the Segelkin family by the P-TA council.

Hostesses were the Mesdames Richard Hampshire, Edward Larkin, Robert Messner and Robert Sell.

Library Association

Due to the uncertainty of the weather and the absence of two of the officers, thre will be no meeting of the Rosendale Library Association in February.

Babe Ruth League

Little League graduates and their parents may attend a meeting of the Rondout Valley Babe Ruth League Friday 7:30 p. m. at the Rosendale Firehall, Main Street, for pre-registration.

Astraddle the Fence

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Arizona League of Towns and Cities announced this position on new state taxes: It isn't for or against them. But if the Legislature enacts new taxes, it wants a 10 per cent cut.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale duly made and entered in the above entitled action, and bearing date the 19th day of January, 1959, I the undersigned, the Referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction at the County Court House, Kingston, New York on the 13th day of March, 1959, at 11:00 o'clock in the forenoon the premises directed by said judgment to be sold and therein described as follows:

ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Rosendale, Ulster County, New York, more particularly bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING at a point on the Easterly side of the Old Rosendale Boulevard leading from Rosendale to Kingston, said point being the Northeasterly corner of Henry Street and Rosendale Boulevard; thence running along the Easterly side of said Rosendale Boulevard on a course of N. 28° 54' E. for a distance of 125 feet; thence on a course of S. 61° 06' E. for a distance of 130.42 feet more or less to the lands which were conveyed by Bertha Yates to Alice C. Barnum by deed recorded April 19th, 1938, in Book 594 of Deeds at page 333; thence on a course S. 30° 17' W. along said lands conveyed to Alice C. Barnum for a distance of 125 feet, more or less, to the northerly side of Henry Street; thence along the northerly side of Henry Street on a course of N. 61° 06' W. for a distance of 127.40 feet to the point and place of beginning.

The foregoing parcel is a portion of Lots 32, 30 and 28 on a map entitled 'Map of Rosendale Heights, a subdivision of Rosendale, made by John F. Hallinan, Civil Engineer and City Surveyor, Kingston, New York,' and duly filed in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on October 7th, 1924.

Said premises will be sold subject to the lien of a prior mortgage upon which there remains unpaid the sum of $6,471.01, and accrued interest thereon.

Dated: January 23, 1959.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE OF SALE
STATE OF NEW YORK COUNTY COURT: ULSTER COUNTY
FREDERICK DIRCKS and EDWARD C. O'CONNOR, Plaintiffs, against JOHN H. ROWE, RUTH M. ROWE, WALTER DAVENPORT SONS, HERBERT MARTIN, JOHN BOYLE and THE SAUGERTIES NATIONAL BANK AND TRUST COMPANY, Defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale duly made and entered in the above entitled action, and bearing date the 19th day of January, 1959, I the undersigned, the Referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction at the County Court House, Kingston, New York on the 13th day of March, 1959, at 11:00 o'clock in the forenoon the premises directed by said judgment to be sold and therein described as follows:

ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Rosendale, Ulster County, New York, more particularly bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING at a point on the Easterly side of the Old Rosendale Boulevard leading from Rosendale to Kingston, said point being the Northeasterly corner of Henry Street and Rosendale Boulevard; thence running along the Easterly side of said Rosendale Boulevard on a course of N. 28° 54' E. for a distance of 125 feet; thence on a course of S. 61° 06' E. for a distance of 130.42 feet more or less to the lands which were conveyed by Bertha Yates to Alice C. Barnum by deed recorded April 19th, 1938, in Book 594 of Deeds at page 333; thence on a course S. 30° 17' W. along said lands conveyed to Alice C. Baum for a distance of 125 feet, more or less, to the northerly side of Henry Street; thence along the northerly side of Henry Street on a course of N. 61° 06' W. for a distance of 127.40 feet to the point and place of beginning.

The foregoing parcel is a portion of Lots 32, 30 and 28 on a map entitled 'Map of Rosendale Heights, a subdivision of Rosendale, made by John F. Hallinan, Civil Engineer and City Surveyor, Kingston, New York,' and duly filed in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on October 7th, 1924.

Said premises will be sold subject to the lien of a prior mortgage upon which there remains unpaid the sum of $6,471.01, and accrued interest thereon.

Dated: January 23, 1959.

State Probe Is Called for of Welfare Office

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—A full-scale legislative investigation of alleged waste, laxity and fraud in public welfare administration was demanded today at the opening of a two-day hearing on relief administration.

The Empire State Chamber of Commerce leveled its charge as the Senate and Assembly Welfare Committees opened an exploratory study of welfare problems.

Another touchy subject — court reform—came under scrutiny as the Senate and Assembly Judiciary Committees conducted a one-day session on various plans introduced. Court reorganization has been stalled for years by controversy.

Representatives of more than 30 organizations were lined up to throw light on the workings of welfare, root of mushrooming scandals in several cities.

Among them were Henry L. L. McCarthy, New York City's welfare commissioner, and Paul F. Burke, commissioner in Buffalo. Evidence of fraud and irregularities in relief administration have been uncovered in both cities.

Welles A. Gray, speaking for the Empire State Chamber, said his organization proposed no cut in costs except those made through improving administration and denying aid to those not entitled to it.

Charities Aid Reveals Study Of Youth Crime

NEW YORK (AP) —The State Charities Aid Assn. says a study it made in 1957 of 12 Upstate counties showed that some youths spent more than six months in jail awaiting grand jury action.

The association, a non-partisan, non-sectarian citizens group to promote effective administration and services in health and welfare, made the study public Tuesday.

One in 352 Days

The group said one youth spent 352 days in jail.

The study was made in Allegany, Fulton, Livingston, Montgomery, Orange, Putnam, Rockland, Saratoga, Seneca, Suffolk, Warren and Washington counties.

The counties were used in the survey because the association has voluntary local welfare committees in them, said Dr. Roland L. Warren, director of the group's social research service. Warren said he believed the findings would be about the same in other largely rural counties of the state.

The report said that of the time spent in jail in the 12 counties by youths in the 16-to-20-year range, 63 per cent occurred while awaiting grand jury action.

Upstate Violations Gain

Another part of the report dealt principally with all the state except the five counties of New York City. It said law violations by young people have been increasing more rapidly Upstate than in the city.

The 12 counties listed reported 994 cases of young people of both sexes held in jail during 1957 for 22,121 days, the survey showed. Of these, 682 were held in jail before conviction, but 389 of them were held less than a week. Of the remainder, most were held from a week to a month or more. Those held more than a month totaled 133. Thirteen were held more than six months.

The largest number of cases were for burglary, followed in order by grand larceny, assault, disorderly conduct, petty larceny, robbery, public intoxication and vagrancy.

Wabash Still On Rampage

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Wabash River continued its rampage in southern sections of Indiana and Illinois today, forcing hundreds of rural residents from their homes and flooding thousands of acres of farm land.

Flood waters from the surging river broke through three levees Tuesday, two northeast of Lawrenceville, Ill., and one across the river near Oaktown, Ind. Water up to five feet deep covered miles of farm land and closed two major highways.

Cold Air Moves In

Cooler and dry weather prevailed in the flood zone as cold air from Canada moved southward into most of the Midwest and the northern Texas Panhandle and Oklahoma.

Skies were cloudy in many sections of the country but there were only two major wet belts. Rain continued along the Pacific Coast from central California to Canada. Snow fell across most of the Ohio Valley northward to southern sections of Wisconsin and Michigan.

Blizzard Tapers Off

The biggest blizzard in two years tapered off in Montana after dumping more than a foot of snow in west central sections. Many rural schools were closed. The covering at Helena measured 16 inches and was 15 inches at Lewiston. Four deaths were attributed to the storm.

In the flood district, nearly 1,000 rural residents were affected by the backwaters of the Wabash. More than 100 trucks manned by police and volunteers splashed over inundated country roads, moving farm families and their furnishings to high ground. Dozens of boats and amphibious ducks moved into areas inaccessible by truck. Several transcontinental truck drivers, delayed by the flood, assisted in the evacuations.

Area States Discuss Reciprocal Road Rules

TRENTON, N. J. (AP) — Ned J. Parsekian, New Jersey's motor vehicle director, meets today with his counterparts from New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and Delaware to talk over reciprocal traffic rules.

Parsekian said he has proposals to introduce some system into the way the states treat out-of-state drivers.

Getting special attention was New Jersey's mandatory revocation plan for high speed drivers. Two thirds of those nabbed under the system are from outside the state.

While New Jersey drivers lose their licenses for 30 days under the rule adopted Jan. 1, out-of-state drivers lose only their privilege of driving in New Jersey.

Parsekian said the Motor Vehicle Division notifies the other states when their drivers are caught under the rule, but he does not know what those states do after that.

Skin Divers Club Is Formed at Local YMCA

Boys under 16 years of age are invited to join the Junior Skin Divers Club at the YMCA, it was announced today by Frank Rebollo, youth director.

Rebollo said the club has been formed by the local YMCA "for boys who are good swimmers and would like to explore the deep." More information on the club may be obtained at the "Y."

It also was announced that sixth, seventh and eighth grade pupils will hold a social at the YMCA Friday at 7 p. m. All Students in those grades are welcome.

Nixon Believes Kennedy Likely Democrat Choice

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon, a top prospect for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination, thinks Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts is the likeliest choice to head the Democratic ticket.

Nixon handicapped the Democratic hopefuls at a press conference Tuesday night. Coming up fast behind Kennedy, he said, are three more senators, Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Stuart Symington of Missouri.

Sees Adlai Possibility

"And I think Adlai Stevenson is still a very likely possibility, even though he has been defeated twice," Nixon added.

"Kennedy is handling himself with great skill," Nixon said. "Johnson is making the most of his fine opportunity to prove his talents as majority leader of the Senate, Humphrey has probably gained more in the respect of his colleagues than any other senator I've known, and Symington is developing as the likeliest compromise candidate."

Nixon's appraisal of Humphrey —"He has a good mind, he's fast on his feet, a fine organizer and a terrific worker"—sounded so enthusiastic he interrupted himself to say, "But I'm not nominating him."

Mum on Own Prospects

Of his own prospects for 1960 Nixon had less to say. He sidestepped when tossed the question, "Who would you like for your running mate in 1960."

"I do not intend to be a candidate for vice president in 1960," he replied.

Nixon discounted the possibility of a conservative-liberal split in Republican ranks over the 1960 nomination. He said the old tags no longer apply.

Nixon was on his feet for an hour and 15 minutes answering questions put to him from an audience of more than 1,000 at a Los Angeles Press Club dinner.

Teachers College Funds Will Amount to $6,375,873

NEW PALTZ, Feb. 18—The State Teachers College here comes in for new funds of $2,790,000 in the 1959-60 fiscal year capitol improvements according to the State's proposed budget for next year. Altogether the budget allocates $6,375,873 to the college.

The new funds include $2,000,000 for the construction of a health and physical education building; a supplemental budget of $560,000 to finish up a fine arts and classroom building; $180,000 for construction of a maintenance building; and $50,000 for elevators in the main building.

Reappropriated are $2,000,000 for the fine arts-classroom building; $139,355 for the new electric substation; and $58,000 for new floors in Building No. 1.

The new budget lists $1,210,168 next year for salaries of employes of the New Paltz College. This includes six new employes, two clerical workers, one additional faculty member, one student assistant and two maintenance workers.

Set aside for plant maintenance and operation next year, is a fund of $178,350.

The budget points out that enrollment in the College, as of the fall term, was 1,305 students with 1,060 enrolled in the elementary teaching department and 245 in the art course. It lists the enrollment of the campus school, a state supported grade school where student teachers learn and observe, at 414 pupils.

True Warning

CHICAGO (AP)—The judge told the youth "If you don't mend your ways, my boy, you'll wind up with your mother identifying you on a slab in the morgue."

Chief Justice Abraham L. Marovitz of Criminal Court, was talking to Joseph Basile, 16, who had violated probation after pleading guilty to car theft charges.

That was Jan. 16.

Tuesday a probation officer appeared before the judge. He said Basile was shot and killed during a holdup attempt Feb. 10.

State Probe Is Called for of Welfare Office

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—A full-scale legislative investigation of alleged waste, laxity and fraud in public welfare administration was demanded today at the opening of a two-day hearing on relief administration.

The Empire State Chamber of Commerce leveled its charge as the Senate and Assembly Welfare Committees opened an exploratory study of welfare problems.

Another touchy subject — court reform—came under scrutiny as the Senate and Assembly Judiciary Committees conducted a one-day session on various plans introduced. Court reorganization has been stalled for years by controversy.

Representatives of more than 30 organizations were lined up to throw light on the workings of welfare, root of mushrooming scandals in several cities.

Among them were Henry L. L. McCarthy, New York City's welfare commissioner, and Paul F. Burke, commissioner in Buffalo. Evidence of fraud and irregularities in relief administration have been uncovered in both cities.

Welles A. Gray, speaking for the Empire State Chamber, said his organization proposed no cut in costs except those made through improving administration and denying aid to those not entitled to it.

Charities Aid Reveals Study Of Youth Crime

NEW YORK (AP) —The State Charities Aid Assn. says a study it made in 1957 of 12 Upstate counties showed that some youths spent more than six months in jail awaiting grand jury action.

The association, a non-partisan, non-sectarian citizens group to promote effective administration and services in health and welfare, made the study public Tuesday.

One in 352 Days

The group said one youth spent 352 days in jail.

The study was made in Allegany, Fulton, Livingston, Montgomery, Orange, Putnam, Rockland, Saratoga, Seneca, Suffolk, Warren and Washington counties.

The counties were used in the survey because the association has voluntary local welfare committees in them, said Dr. Roland L. Warren, director of the group's social research service. Warren said he believed the findings would be about the same in other largely rural counties of the state.

The report said that of the time spent in jail in the 12 counties by youths in the 16-to-20-year range, 63 per cent occurred while awaiting grand jury action.

Upstate Violations Gain

Another part of the report dealt principally with all the state except the five counties of New York City. It said law violations by young people have been increasing more rapidly Upstate than in the city.

The 12 counties listed reported 994 cases of young people of both sexes held in jail during 1957 for 22,121 days, the survey showed. Of these, 682 were held in jail before conviction, but 389 of them were held less than a week. Of the remainder, most were held from a week to a month or more. Those held more than a month totaled 133. Thirteen were held more than six months.

The largest number of cases were for burglary, followed in order by grand larceny, assault, disorderly conduct, petty larceny, robbery, public intoxication and vagrancy.

Wabash Still On Rampage

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Wabash River continued its rampage in southern sections of Indiana and Illinois today, forcing hundreds of rural residents from their homes and flooding thousands of acres of farm land.

Flood waters from the surging river broke through three levees Tuesday, two northeast of Lawrenceville, Ill., and one across the river near Oaktown, Ind. Water up to five feet deep covered miles of farm land and closed two major highways.

Cold Air Moves In

Cooler and dry weather prevailed in the flood zone as cold air from Canada moved southward into most of the Midwest and the northern Texas Panhandle and Oklahoma.

Skies were cloudy in many sections of the country but there were only two major wet belts. Rain continued along the Pacific Coast from central California to Canada. Snow fell across most of the Ohio Valley northward to southern sections of Wisconsin and Michigan.

Blizzard Tapers Off

The biggest blizzard in two years tapered off in Montana after dumping more than a foot of snow in west central sections. Many rural schools were closed. The covering at Helena measured 16 inches and was 15 inches at Lewiston. Four deaths were attributed to the storm.

In the flood district, nearly 1,000 rural residents were affected by the backwaters of the Wabash. More than 100 trucks manned by police and volunteers splashed over inundated country roads, moving farm families and their furnishings to high ground. Dozens of boats and amphibious ducks moved into areas inaccessible by truck. Several transcontinental truck drivers, delayed by the flood, assisted in the evacuations.

Area States Discuss Reciprocal Road Rules

TRENTON, N. J. (AP) — Ned J. Parsekian, New Jersey's motor vehicle director, meets today with his counterparts from New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and Delaware to talk over reciprocal traffic rules.

Parsekian said he has proposals to introduce some system into the way the states treat out-of-state drivers.

Getting special attention was New Jersey's mandatory revocation plan for high speed drivers. Two thirds of those nabbed under the system are from outside the state.

While New Jersey drivers lose their licenses for 30 days under the rule adopted Jan. 1, out-of-state drivers lose only their privilege of driving in New Jersey.

Parsekian said the Motor Vehicle Division notifies the other states when their drivers are caught under the rule, but he does not know what those states do after that.

Skin Divers Club Is Formed at Local YMCA

Boys under 16 years of age are invited to join the Junior Skin Divers Club at the YMCA, it was announced today by Frank Rebollo, youth director.

Rebollo said the club has been formed by the local YMCA "for boys who are good swimmers and would like to explore the deep." More information on the club may be obtained at the "Y."

It also was announced that sixth, seventh and eighth grade pupils will hold a social at the YMCA Friday at 7 p. m. All Students in those grades are welcome.

Nixon Believes Kennedy Likely Democrat Choice

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon, a top prospect for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination, thinks Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts is the likeliest choice to head the Democratic ticket.

Nixon handicapped the Democratic hopefuls at a press conference Tuesday night. Coming up fast behind Kennedy, he said, are three more senators, Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Stuart Symington of Missouri.

Sees Adlai Possibility

"And I think Adlai Stevenson is still a very likely possibility, even though he has been defeated twice," Nixon added.

"Kennedy is handling himself with great skill," Nixon said. "Johnson is making the most of his fine opportunity to prove his talents as majority leader of the Senate, Humphrey has probably gained more in the respect of his colleagues than any other senator I've known, and Symington is developing as the likeliest compromise candidate."

Nixon's appraisal of Humphrey —"He has a good mind, he's fast on his feet, a fine organizer and a terrific worker"—sounded so enthusiastic he interrupted himself to say, "But I'm not nominating him."

Mum on Own Prospects

Of his own prospects for 1960 Nixon had less to say. He sidestepped when tossed the question, "Who would you like for your running mate in 1960."

"I do not intend to be a candidate for vice president in 1960," he replied.

Nixon discounted the possibility of a conservative-liberal split in Republican ranks over the 1960 nomination. He said the old tags no longer apply.

Nixon was on his feet for an hour and 15 minutes answering questions put to him from an audience of more than 1,000 at a Los Angeles Press Club dinner.

Teachers College Funds Will Amount to $6,375,873

NEW PALTZ, Feb. 18—The State Teachers College here comes in for new funds of $2,790,000 in the 1959-60 fiscal year capitol improvements according to the State's proposed budget for next year. Altogether the budget allocates $6,375,873 to the college.

The new funds include $2,000,000 for the construction of a health and physical education building; a supplemental budget of $560,000 to finish up a fine arts and classroom building; $180,000 for construction of a maintenance building; and $50,000 for elevators in the main building.

Reappropriated are $2,000,000 for the fine arts-classroom building; $139,355 for the new electric substation; and $58,000 for new floors in Building No. 1.

The new budget lists $1,210,168 next year for salaries of employes of the New Paltz College. This includes six new employes, two clerical workers, one additional faculty member, one student assistant and two maintenance workers.

Set aside for plant maintenance and operation next year, is a fund of $178,350.

The budget points out that enrollment in the College, as of the fall term, was 1,305 students with 1,060 enrolled in the elementary teaching department and 245 in the art course. It lists the enrollment of the campus school, a state supported grade school where student teachers learn and observe, at 414 pupils.

True Warning

CHICAGO (AP)—The judge told the youth "If you don't mend your ways, my boy, you'll wind up with your mother identifying you on a slab in the morgue."

Chief Justice Abraham L. Marovitz of Criminal Court, was talking to Joseph Basile, 16, who had violated probation after pleading guilty to car theft charges.

That was Jan. 16.

Tuesday a probation officer appeared before the judge. He said Basile was shot and killed during a holdup attempt Feb. 10.
